91 enter Kids' day parade of 'Anything on Wheels'

The Arlington Heights Kiwanis club considered its annual Kids' day a complete success last Saturday, with 91 youngsters entering the parade of "Anything on Wheels," in the morning, and a full house, 777, attending the Kids' day movie at Arlington Theatre in the afternoon. Nearly 300 youngsters had to be turned away from the movie.

Prize winners (pictured) in the parade and their gifts are as follows: girls—first, Melodee Hagenbring, ice skates; second Yvonne Craig, pen and pencil set; third, Mary Stewart, leatherette set. Boys—first, Roy Peterson, erector set, complete with motor; second, Jackie Larson, toy grader; and third, Jimmie Stewart, chemistry set.

Parade judges were Malcolm Lund, William Sauer and Park Allen. Prizes were donated through the courtesy of the following: Arlington Supply store, Flaherty Jewelers, Sauerland Flower and Hobby shop, and Winkelman's Tire and Battery shop.

The Kiwanis club wishes to thank Arlington Heights Pharmacy, who furnished at cost the ice cream given the youngsters in the parade and served doughnuts and coffee to the 12 wives of Kiwanis members who worked that day, and Hrdlickas restaurant, who served the workers' breakfast.

A special thanks also goes to the Arlington Heights village board, police department and residents, who all helped in making Kids' day a success.

Village offers to pay trial costs; refuses to pay Lorraine expenses

In spite of the efforts of the judge and the Master in Chancery taking evidence in the Arlington Heights-Lorraine Homes injunction suit to have the two sides reach a compromise, an agreement ending the controversy appears to be impossible.

When Attorney Thal came home from the Monday morning hearing he brought with him a compromise offer from the attorney of Lorraine Homes. The village board at an informal meeting that evening made a counter offer, which was refused by the home builders.

Lorraine Homes is reported to have made a proposal to comply with the village's request to change the design of some of their homes, providing the village pay all their expenses in the law suit to date, plus all court costs.

The village agreed to pay accumulated court costs to date if Lorraine would change the design of 10 or 12 homes, not yet started, but would pay no part of the legal fees incurred by Lorraine Homes, Inc. in prosecuting the case.

The village board was willing to make this agreement because it thought it would thus accomplish the purposes of the village board and obtain the variation in design contemplated by the ordinance, and that the expenses agreed by it to be paid would be less than the expenses to be incurred by further litigation.

In the suit, Lorraine Homes, Inc. seeks to have the "design" ordinance declared unconstitutional, which forbids the construction of more than two houses of the same design in any one block, or the construction of these two houses adjoining each other, or directly across the street from each other.

The ordinance was passed at the demand of the property owners in the village of Arlington Heights and is designed to protect the value of property in the village, by preventing a number of homes of similar design from being constructed. The citizens have always felt row houses will make the neighborhood undesirable.

All other builders have complied with the ordinance and have varied the design of their houses to suit the desires of the village board and of the citizens.

When the village of Arlington Heights revoked Lorraine Homes building permits for non-compliance of the building code, September 7, Lorraine Homes filed a petition in Superior Court for an interlocutory injunction to prevent any interference by the village in completion of their project.

Judge Haas suggested at the first hearing that the two parties should get together and settle the dispute in the best interests of both, and when a meeting was called for such a conference, it became apparent that Lorraine Homes did not care to attempt an amicable settlement of the dispute.

The case was referred to Master in Chancery, Frank S. Righeimer, and evidence was heard all last week, until Monday of this week, when the Master's suggestion that it may be well to explore the possibility of a settlement was agreed upon.

The village has contended that the permits never should have been issued by E. J. Ahmer, who was the building commissioner, and subsequently resigned and accepted a position as superintendent of the project in question for Lorraine Homes.

The law-suit was resumed at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday morning. Attorney H. J. Thal and A. C. Lewis representing the village of Arlington Heights, expect to present the defendant's evidence within a day or two.

Some of the local witnesses for the village to date were: Forrest Davis, H. R. Jacobsen, A. C. Jacobs, C. A. Hendrickson, K. R. Whitton, all of Arlington Heights; and Charles Klopp, architect of Palatine.

CLearbrook 3 dial prefix for local phones

When dial service comes to life here next summer, telephones will answer to a new name—Clearbrook.

Especially picked to fit Arlington Heights exchange into the nationwide telephone numbering plan for operator long distance dialing, the new telephone numbers will be prefixed by CLearbrook 3. The picturesque name, will appear on telephones in the communities to be served by the new dial office—Arlington Heights, Mt. Prospect, and Prospect Heights.

AT THE INAUGURATION of dial service, operators seated at switchboards at hundreds of long distance centers throughout the country will be able to dial direct to the more than 7,300 telephones in this area, W. C. Lathen, Illinois Bell manager, said this week. In less than a minute, CLearbrook 3 numbers will be rung by other operators in the same way as operators here will dial calls to telephones in the thousands of communities served by the other long distance centers.

The prefix also fits in with the company's long range plan for customer dialing of calls direct to telephones in other Chicagoland communities.

CLEARBROOK is among the Bell System's preferred list of telephone number names, those prefixes which are not easily confused when heard or written, according to the manager.

"Prefixes such as 'Lawndale,' 'Cramer' or 'Douglas,' can be confused by operators and are not included in the preferred list," Lathen explained.

Selected long before operator dialing was developed, "Lawndale," for example, was confused by operators in other sections of the country who spelled it "LOwndale" or "LOngdale."

"Cramer" sometimes becomes "Kramer." Prefixes beginning with PH are misspelled with an F. Even "Douglas" can be spelled "DUglas."

One-syllable words misfire, too. Lathen said that tests showed telephone users sometimes dial the complete word rather then the first two letters, and the name must not be too long, because of limited directory space.

Lorraine owners speak up

In an effort to learn what Lorraine home owners think about the present controversy, Paddock Publications sent a reporter to interview a few of them.

Here is his story:

How do the owners of Lorraine homes feel about the controversy over building codes which recently turned into a court battle?

Are other home owners prejudiced or unfriendly to occupants of Lorraine homes?

A recent spot survey conducted by this paper brought out the following points:

1. Some Lorraine home owners themselves don't like the idea of so many homes being similar.

2. Owners of non-Lorraine homes may be jumping the gun in condemning the homes too quickly.

3. Residents of the controversial homes find that non-Lorraine home owners show no prejudice or unfriendliness towards their Lorraine neighbors.

"WE MOVED from Chicago to get away from housing projects," one of the owners of the original 31 Lorraine homes said. "Now we find that we are fast becoming a part of a project," the owner added.

Another owner said, "I don't mind my Lorraine home because I'm away from spots where more than two are constructed in the same block. However, I wouldn't like it if all the houses around were just alike."

"Why build all Lorraine homes in one section?" "There are a million and one towns to build them in," this the sentiment of another home owner.

"Lorraine promised us there wouldn't be more than two Lorraine homes in a block," said another home owner—one of the occupants of the original 31 built by the Lorraine firm.

(It should be pointed out that this home owner is living in a section where no more than two appear in the same block.)

"CONFIDENTIALLY, if I were a Georgian home owner I'd feel the same way they do," said one housewife.

She was referring to the argument of non-Lorraine owners that Lorraine homes were decreasing the value of their homes.

"I don't think people are giving us (Lorraine home owners) half a chance. We haven't had time to make changes yet," another housewife argues.

She went on to explain that in time most Lorraine owners will add breezeways, garages, and porches that will change the appearance of the homes tremendously. Shrubbery and proper landscaping will help, too, she commented.

Some comment of the Lorraine owners was directed towards arguments that they were lowering the real estate values of other homes.

A Lorraine owner remarked that Lorraine homes cost as much as the Georgian homes and in some cases more.

"WHY, SOME OWNERS (of Georgian homes) paid $9,000 to $12,000 for their homes. We paid $13,200 for our (Lorraine) home. I understand that the newer Lorraines cost $15,300," she added.

All of the owners interviewed said that their non-Lorraine neighbors weren't unfriendly or prejudiced. One comment seemed to sum up the situation. "Our neighbors told us that they didn't like our house, but wanted us to know that this didn't mean they didn't like us."

One housewife told us that her husband wasn't too concerned over the controversy. It seems that a friend told him that several years ago considerable sentiment was held because too many Georgian homes were being built in the same locale.

Lightning hits Heights home; starts blaze

Lightning struck the home of Otto Weidner of 731 N. Pine shortly after 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, toppled the chimney and started a blaze in the attic and a clothes closet.

Arlington Heights firemen were called and the blaze was quickly extinguished. The damage, kept at a minimum by the alert firemen, was covered by insurance.

THE FIRE call was the second for the volunteer firemen in less than 24 hours.

Late Tuesday afternoon they were called to extinguish a prairie fire behind the Arlington Seating Co. on N. Hickory st.

Firemen said they believed the fire was set by children playing in the field.

This is just a reminder that daylight saving time ends at 2 a.m. Sunday, Sept. 30, when the official clocks of this area will be turned back one hour to enable the sun to catch up in part with members of the human race who enjoyed that extra hour for golf through the summer.

Arlington public schools receive priorities for new building

The board of education of Arlington Heights Public elementary schools has announced receipt of authorization to commence construction of the new school at Rockwell and Dryden pl., as well as priorities for steel and other controlled materials. As contracts were signed in August for the construction of this building, it is expected that work will begin soon. Every effort will be made to eliminate delays once the work gets underway, although contractors report some serious difficulties in procuring materials.

Superintendent R. E. Clabaugh announced the total enrollment in the public schools at the end of the first school month is 1428. This is some 323 more than the enrollment at the end of the same period last year, which tends to point up the serious need for the completion of this building for the 1951-52 school year.

WITH AN enrollment of 83 fourth graders in the South school and a likelihood of additions as the year goes on, the board of education has approved the employing of an additional teacher and the division of these pupils into three groups. Since one classroom can be made available this year at the North school, one of these fourth grades will be transported daily to the North school and back so this room may be used. The three fourth grades will each take a turn during the remainder of the year at making use of this room on the other side of the district. All fourth grade parents will be informed by letter of the details of this plan.

The board of education and the administrative staff, with the construction of the new school on Dryden pl. getting under way, are turning their attention to the lower grade needs on the north side and in the Junior high school. They are aware that next year every available classroom in the North school will be occupied and consequently present class size in that building can only go up until they make use of the new Arlington Ridge site for a school building.

Of even more serious proportions, perhaps, is the outlook for Junior high school enrollments. The Junior high school is large enough to accommodate four classes in each of the three upper grades. With six fourth grade classes, seven first grade classes, and eight kindergarten classes in the system this year, it is obvious that the present Junior high school building cannot long take care of the number of classes which will be knocking at its door.

Night school registration next week

Three evenings have been set aside for registration in the fall semester of the adult evening school division of the Arlington Heights township high school. The offices will be open Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights, October 1, 2 and 3, from 7 until 9 p.m., with an augmented staff on hand to take care of the details of registration.

Thirty-two courses are being offered in the fall semester, some of which are full year courses that will run for 20 weeks, such as Beginning Typing and Beginning or Refresher Shorthand. Evening school courses will be held Monday and Wednesday evenings, with two classes meeting at the South (Junior high) school, and one class at Hilltop Studios, on E. Northwest hwy.

Many classes are organized for individual instruction, and the class size limited to the ability of the instructor to give individual attention to those enrolled. Fees are kept at a minimum to barely pay expenses of the courses offered; some state aid is received for home economics courses and vocational courses in agriculture, which makes it possible to offer instruction at a very low fee. Due to lack of space certain courses will be offered next spring, when facilities in the new building will become available for night school students. Chief among these courses will be furniture upholstering, slip cover making, a modern cooking school, men's physical fitness and fly casting.

Instructors have been chosen for the adult classes who are experienced in their fields, and who have had previous success in teaching adults—some are out-

Fight Guerillas to go home on furlough

This week's installment of the Civil War diary of Sgt. Lamb, being published in "Way Back When" gives an insight of the troubles that faced a Union soldier of Gen. Sherman's army who had been given a furlough to go home. He had a lot of enemy country to go through before he could reach the Ohio river.

After four weeks at home he rejoined his company, taking with him 101 drafted men. This week's installment tells of the start of the march to the sea. The entire story of that march and siege of Savannah will appear next week.

Sen. George Malone to speak at GOP rally, luncheon

Senator William E. Jenner of Indiana, who was scheduled to speak at the GOP rally and luncheon today, Thursday, at Chevy Chase in Wheeling, will be unable to appear, due to pressing matters in Washington.

Senator George W. Malone of Nevada has consented to speak in his place, and will talk on "National Economy and what each state pays toward governmental expenditures." Sen. Malone is on the senate military affairs committee and served as expert consultant to the secretary of war.

The luncheon and rally is being sponsored by the Women's Republican club of the 13th congressional district.

It is regretted that Sen. Jenner can not appear, but since a bill vital to Indiana is now pending in the senate, he was unable to leave the capital.

Community Chest to be planned at council meeting

Next Sunday a representative group of Arlington Heights individuals has been invited to participate in founding a Community Chest organization.

THE IDEA has been under consideration for a year and the pros and cons considered thoroughly after consultation with Community Chest and Councils of America, Inc., and with other villages of similar size to study their results.

The idea has the endorsement of Arlington Heights Community Council after representatives of the organizations participating in the Council had an opportunity to sound out the interest of the membership of their groups.

The plan for administering the campaign and the distribution of funds closely follows the recommended procedure developed from successful Community Chests elsewhere. There will be an effort to meet demands that have often been voiced that there be some order to the several campaigns now being conducted by both national and local charities.

In the past there has been considerable duplication in canvassing and many times the same organization has been requested to sponsor several worthy causes. It is hoped that a Community Chest will result in limiting the number of solicitations of individuals and business men and that the village officials will be able to refer requests for tag day permits to the proper chest committees for approval.

IN SOME cases, local residents who contribute to chests in other municipalities may designate funds for distribution to the Arlington Heights Community Chest.

All citizens interested in supporting this project are invited to attend the meeting Sunday at 2 p. m. in the Arlington Heights field house.

Local residents injured in auto accidents

Four Arlington Heights residents were injured in Northwest suburban week end traffic. One driver, a 20-year-old youth, was arrested for falsifying his age on a driver's license.

Einar Hallen, 30, and his wife, Jean, 29, of Arlington airport barracks, were injured shortly after midnight Sunday when their Crosley automobile crashed into another vehicle at Rand and Central rds.

Police reported that Mrs. Hallen, driver of the Crosley, apparently made a left turn into the path of an auto traveling northwest on Rand rd. George Anderson, 29, of Chicago, was the driver of the other car.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hallen were taken to St. Francis hospital in Evanston.

JAMES E. BURKE, 20, of 800 N. Patten ave., Arlington Hts., and Clarence Moll, 33, of Box 149, Arlington Heights, were injured early Monday in a truck-auto crash at Algonquin road and Dempster st.

Burke told police he apparently fell asleep and rammed into the rear of Moll's truck, traveling west on Algonquin rd.

Both of the drivers were taken to Northwestern hospital for treatment and Burke was later taken into custody for falsifying his age on his driver's license. He was released on $20 bond to appear in sheriff's county highway court Wednesday.

A MOTORCYCLIST, Bernard Nogan, 24, of Crystal Lake, was injured Sunday afternoon when his cycle collided with an automobile at Algonquin rd. and rte. 83.

Police said Nogan, riding west on Algonquin rd. was struck at the intersection by an automobile driven by Alexander Douws, 61, of Chicago.

Nogan claimed that the Chicago motorist failed to stop for a stop sign on rte. 83. Douws claimed he stopped for the sign, police said.

MYRON J. EARL, 49, of Chicago, was injured Friday morning when his automobile collided with a truck driven by Charles M. Ashbrook, 29, of Lawrenceburg, Ind., at rte. 83 and Dundee rd.

Police said Earl, traveling east on Dundee rd., rammed into the side of the truck which was turning around in a driveway near the intersection.

Earl was taken to Evanston hospital for treatment.

THREE PERSONS, including two Mt. Prospect residents, were injured, none seriously, in a two-way crash Monday afternoon at State rd. and Rt. 58.

Injured were Floyd Gibbs and Helen Gibbs of 12 S. Louis ave., Mt. Prospect, and Lydia Buckman of Salem, Wis.

Police reported that an auto driven by the Mt. Prospect woman, traveling west on Rt. 58, collided at the intersection with a car traveling north on State rd. operated by Fred Buckman of Salem, Wis.

The injured were treated by an Arlington Heights physician.

$3 rate for subscriptions ends Sept. 30

Since the published announcement of an increase in the subscription price of the various editions of Paddock Publications over 200 new names have been placed on subscription lists.

In addition 500 regular subscribers have taken advantage of the saving they can make by paying for their paper before October 1.

This is all very nice for the cash drawer and makes the business office happy, as well as making the editorial staff appreciate the reception being given their efforts by readers of the papers.

THE ONLY CLOUD in the sky is the realization that there are thousands of subscribers who failed to take advantage of the present $3 rate. There is still time, but the zero hour is Saturday noon when the business office closes.

Letters bearing $3 checks and postmarked not later than September 30 will be accepted. Payments can also be made to local agents who customarily issue subscription receipts.

The increased price Paddock Publications will receive will make possible a continuation of present features, additional pictures and increased news coverage.

Warn Scarsdale children of tampering with mail boxes

Children in Scarsdale have again been tampering with mail boxes. On Sept. 19 a parcel was removed from a mail box, the parcel opened and the contents thrown in a vacant lot.

Parents are warned to instruct their children regarding mail and other person's property. It is an offense punishable by law for tampering with the mails. Children of all ages must be made to understand that they cannot touch the mail.

Mt. Prospect note, lost in crash, comes back to life badly burned

A Mt. Prospect letter believed lost in the August crash of an airplane just outside of San Francisco, Cal., came back to life this past week when the writer, Dorothy Olson, received word it had arrived "scorched, discolored, torn, stained."

The letter had been written August 23 to a friend in San Francisco, and was air mailed. The plane struck a 1500 foot high hill as it strayed from the airport landing beam directing the ship to a safe landing.

Under date of September 12 Dorothy Olson, 205 William st., Mt. Prospect, received the following letter from the California friend:

"Last night I received a letter from a Mr. O'Connell of Niles, California. When I opened it I found inside the envelope your letter of August 23rd, and a note reading—I found this letter on my ranch, about a mile from where the plane crashed and burned.

"The letter itself is in good condition, the only thing is that the paper is very dry—feels like paper that is very, very old. The envelope is badly scorched, discolored, torn, stained, etc. I can't understand how it missed being destroyed or how it could have been propelled such a great distance from the crash. Evidently Mr. O'Connell just found it.

"The stamp is missing and the area under the stamp is lighter in color than the rest of the envelope and that whole end of the envelope is burned. If you have a map of California handy, see if you can locate Decota. This is across the Bay from San Francisco, and this is where the plane crashed. Then find Niles and you will see the distance."

Bartlett vote at special election wrecks its Unit School system

Unit School District No. 250, comprising part of Hanover township and all of Schaumburg, was "wrecked" Saturday when the voters of the village of Bartlett overwhelmingly defeated three school propositions that would have allowed an increased tax rate, the purchase of two school sites in the rural areas and the erection of two three-room schools.

The vote of precinct 1, which comprises the village of Bartlett, was nearly eight to one against all three propositions. The other precincts cast a majority of votes in favor of all propositions.

The township of Schaumburg was the hardest hit by the action of Bartlett voters. School patrons of that township have been eagerly looking forward to something more than just its present one-room school house. A special meeting of the Schaumburg PTA was held Monday evening to discuss the matter. Noble J. Puffer was present, but could not authoritively suggest a remedy. He did say, however, that in his estimation the high school problem could be best solved by annexation to Palatine Township High school district.

That high school recently issued bonds for a large addition that will handle pupil registrations for many years. Those bonds are the obligation of the original district and there could be no tax against Schaumburg to retire them.

Since the unit district was formed about a third of Hanover township has been annexed to Elgin, which has lowered assessed valuations to such an extent that any further disruption of the district would place the village of Bartlett in an embarrassing position so far as a local elementary school is concerned.

The unit district has paid $12,000 of old debts of the Bartlett school. This paper has not learned what plans Bartlett school patrons have in their minds to solve their school problem. A vote of eight to one is clear evidence that the people of Bartlett do not like a joint district with Schaumburg.

The anti campaigning was evidently so cleverly done that the result was as great a surprise to many Bartlett people as it was to Schaumburg residents.

Some comment of the Lorraine owners was directed towards arguments that they were lowering the real estate values of other homes.

A Lorraine owner remarked that Lorraine homes cost as much as the Georgian homes and in some cases more.

"WHY, SOME OWNERS (of Georgian homes) paid $9,000 to $12,000 for their homes. We paid $13,200 for our (Lorraine) home. I understand that the newer Lorraines cost $15,300," she added.

All of the owners interviewed said that their non-Lorraine neighbors weren't unfriendly or prejudiced. One comment seemed to sum up the situation. "Our neighbors told us that they didn't like our house, but wanted us to know that this didn't mean they didn't like us."

One housewife told us that her husband wasn't too concerned over the controversy. It seems that a friend told him that several years ago considerable sentiment was held because too many Georgian homes were being built in the same locale.

Lightning hits Heights home; starts blaze

Lightning struck the home of Otto Weidner of 731 N. Pine shortly after 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, toppled the chimney and started a blaze in the attic and a clothes closet.

Arlington Heights firemen were called and the blaze was quickly extinguished. The damage, kept at a minimum by the alert firemen, was covered by insurance.

THE FIRE call was the second for the volunteer firemen in less than 24 hours.

Late Tuesday afternoon they were called to extinguish a prairie fire behind the Arlington Seating Co. on N. Hickory st.

Firemen said they believed the fire was set by children playing in the field.

An extra hour of sleep

This is just a reminder that daylight saving time ends at 2 a.m. Sunday, Sept. 30, when the official clocks of this area will be turned back one hour to enable the sun to catch up in part with members of the human race who enjoyed that extra hour for golf through the summer.

Arlington public schools receive priorities for new building

The board of education of Arlington Heights Public elementary schools has announced receipt of authorization to commence construction of the new school at Rockwell and Dryden pl., as well as priorities for steel and other controlled materials. As contracts were signed in August for the construction of this building, it is expected that work will begin soon. Every effort will be made to eliminate delays once the work gets underway, although contractors report some serious difficulties in procuring materials.

Superintendent R. E. Clabaugh announced the total enrollment in the public schools at the end of the first school month is 1428. This is some 323 more than the enrollment at the end of the same period last year, which tends to point up the serious need for the completion of this building for the 1951-52 school year.

WITH AN enrollment of 83 fourth graders in the South school and a likelihood of additions as the year goes on, the board of education has approved the employing of an additional teacher and the division of these pupils into three groups. Since one classroom can be made available this year at the North school, one of these fourth grades will be transported daily to the North school and back so this room may be used. The three fourth grades will each take a turn during the remainder of the year at making use of this room on the other side of the district. All fourth grade parents will be informed by letter of the details of this plan.

The board of education and the administrative staff, with the construction of the new school on Dryden pl. getting under way, are turning their attention to the lower grade needs on the north side and in the Junior high school. They are aware that next year every available classroom in the North school will be occupied and consequently present class size in that building can only go up until they make use of the new Arlington Ridge site for a school building.

Of even more serious proportions, perhaps, is the outlook for Junior high school enrollments. The Junior high school is large enough to accommodate four classes in each of the three upper grades. With six fourth grade classes, seven first grade classes, and eight kindergarten classes in the system this year, it is obvious that the present Junior high school building cannot long take care of the number of classes which will be knocking at its door.

Night school registration next week

Three evenings have been set aside for registration in the fall semester of the adult evening school division of the Arlington Heights township high school. The offices will be open Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights, October 1, 2 and 3, from 7 until 9 p.m., with an augmented staff on hand to take care of the details of registration.

Thirty-two courses are being offered in the fall semester, some of which are full year courses that will run for 20 weeks, such as Beginning Typing and Beginning or Refresher Shorthand. Evening school courses will be held Monday and Wednesday evenings, with two classes meeting at the South (Junior high) school, and one class at Hilltop Studios, on E. Northwest hwy.

Many classes are organized for individual instruction, and the class size limited to the ability of the instructor to give individual attention to those enrolled. Fees are kept at a minimum to barely pay expenses of the courses offered; some state aid is received for home economics courses and vocational courses in agriculture, which makes it possible to offer instruction at a very low fee. Due to lack of space certain courses will be offered next spring, when facilities in the new building will become available for night school students. Chief among these courses will be furniture upholstering, slip cover making, a modern cooking school, men's physical fitness and fly casting.

Instructors have been chosen for the adult classes who are experienced in their fields, and who have had previous success in teaching adults—some are out-

Fight Guerillas to go home on furlough

This week's installment of the Civil War diary of Sgt. Lamb, being published in "Way Back When" gives an insight of the troubles that faced a Union soldier of Gen. Sherman's army who had been given a furlough to go home. He had a lot of enemy country to go through before he could reach the Ohio river.

After four weeks at home he rejoined his company, taking with him 101 drafted men. This week's installment tells of the start of the march to the sea. The entire story of that march and siege of Savannah will appear next week.

Sen. George Malone to speak at GOP rally, luncheon

Senator William E. Jenner of Indiana, who was scheduled to speak at the GOP rally and luncheon today, Thursday, at Chevy Chase in Wheeling, will be unable to appear, due to pressing matters in Washington.

Senator George W. Malone of Nevada has consented to speak in his place, and will talk on "National Economy and what each state pays toward governmental expenditures." Sen. Malone is on the senate military affairs committee and served as expert consultant to the secretary of war.

The luncheon and rally is being sponsored by the Women's Republican club of the 13th congressional district.

It is regretted that Sen. Jenner can not appear, but since a bill vital to Indiana is now pending in the senate, he was unable to leave the capital.

Community Chest to be planned at council meeting

Next Sunday a representative group of Arlington Heights individuals has been invited to participate in founding a Community Chest organization.

THE IDEA has been under consideration for a year and the pros and cons considered thoroughly after consultation with Community Chest and Councils of America, Inc., and with other villages of similar size to study their results.

The idea has the endorsement of Arlington Heights Community Council after representatives of the organizations participating in the Council had an opportunity to sound out the interest of the membership of their groups.

The plan for administering the campaign and the distribution of funds closely follows the recommended procedure developed from successful Community Chests elsewhere. There will be an effort to meet demands that have often been voiced that there be some order to the several campaigns now being conducted by both national and local charities.

In the past there has been considerable duplication in canvassing and many times the same organization has been requested to sponsor several worthy causes. It is hoped that a Community Chest will result in limiting the number of solicitations of individuals and business men and that the village officials will be able to refer requests for tag day permits to the proper chest committees for approval.

IN SOME cases, local residents who contribute to chests in other municipalities may designate funds for distribution to the Arlington Heights Community Chest.

All citizens interested in supporting this project are invited to attend the meeting Sunday at 2 p. m. in the Arlington Heights field house.

Local residents injured in auto accidents

Four Arlington Heights residents were injured in Northwest suburban week end traffic. One driver, a 20-year-old youth; was arrested for falsifying his age on a driver's license.

Einar Hallen, 30, and his wife, Jean, 29, of Arlington airport barracks, were injured shortly after midnight Sunday when their Crosley automobile crashed into another vehicle at Rand and Central rds.

Police reported that Mrs. Hallen, driver of the Crosley, apparently made a left turn into the path of an auto traveling northwest on Rand rd. George Anderson, 29, of Chicago, was the driver of the other car.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hallen were taken to St. Francis hospital in Evanston.

JAMES E. BURKE, 20, of 800 N. Patten ave., Arlington Hts., and Clarence Moll, 33, of Box 149, Arlington Heights, were injured early Monday in a truck-auto crash at Algonquin road and Dempster st.

Burke told police he apparently fell asleep and rammed into the rear of Moll's truck, traveling west on Algonquin rd.

Both of the drivers were taken to Northwestern hospital for treatment and Burke was later taken into custody for falsifying his age on his driver's license. He was released on $20 bond to appear in sheriff's county highway court Wednesday.

A MOTORCYCLIST, Bernard Nogan, 24, of Crystal Lake, was injured Sunday afternoon when his cycle collided with an automobile at Algonquin rd. and rte. 83.

Police said Nogan, riding west on Algonquin rd. was struck at the intersection by an automobile driven by Alexander Douws, 61, of Chicago.

Nogan claimed that the Chicago motorist failed to stop for a stop sign on rte. 83. Douws claimed he stopped for the sign, police said.

MYRON J. EARL, 49, of Chicago, was injured Friday morning when his automobile collided with a truck driven by Charles M. Ashbrook, 29, of Lawrenceburg, Ind., at rte. 83 and Dundee rd.

Police said Earl, traveling east on Dundee rd., rammed into the side of the truck which was turning around in a driveway near the intersection.

Earl was taken to Evanston hospital for treatment.

THREE PERSONS, including two Mt. Prospect residents, were injured, none seriously, in a two-way crash Monday afternoon at State rd. and Rt. 58.

Injured were Floyd Gibbs and Helen Gibbs of 12 S. Louis ave., Mt. Prospect, and Lydia Buckman of Salem, Wis.

Police reported that an auto driven by the Mt. Prospect woman, traveling west on Rt. 58, collided at the intersection with a car traveling north on State rd. operated by Fred Buckman of Salem, Wis.

The injured were treated by an Arlington Heights physician.

$3 rate for subscriptions ends Sept. 30

Since the published announcement of an increase in the subscription price of the various editions of Paddock Publications over 200 new names have been placed on subscription lists.

In addition 500 regular subscribers have taken advantage of the saving they can make by paying for their paper before October 1.

This is all very nice for the cash drawer and makes the business office happy, as well as making the editorial staff appreciate the reception being given their efforts by readers of the papers.

THE ONLY CLOUD in the sky is the realization that there are thousands of subscribers who failed to take advantage of the present $3 rate. There is still time, but the zero hour is Saturday noon when the business office closes.

Letters bearing $3 checks and postmarked not later than September 30 will be accepted. Payments can also be made to local agents who customarily issue subscription receipts.

The increased price Paddock Publications will receive will make possible a continuation of present features, additional pictures and increased news coverage.

Warn Scarsdale children of tampering with mail boxes

Children in Scarsdale have again been tampering with mail boxes. On Sept. 19 a parcel was removed from a mail box, the parcel opened and the contents thrown in a vacant lot.

Parents are warned to instruct their children regarding mail and other person's property. It is an offense punishable by law for tampering with the mails. Children of all ages must be made to understand that they cannot touch the mail.

Mt. Prospect note, lost in crash, comes back to life badly burned

A Mt. Prospect letter believed lost in the August crash of an airplane just outside of San Francisco, Cal., came back to life this past week when the writer, Dorothy Olson, received word it had arrived "scorched, discolored, torn, stained."

The letter had been written August 23 to a friend in San Francisco, and was air mailed. The plane struck a 1500 foot high hill as it strayed from the airport landing beam directing the ship to a safe landing.

Under date of September 12 Dorothy Olson, 205 William st., Mt. Prospect, received the following letter from the California friend:

"Last night I received a letter from a Mr. O'Conneil of Niles, California. When I opened it I found inside the envelope your letter of August 23rd, and a note reading—I found this letter on my ranch, about a mile from where the plane crashed and burned.

"The letter itself is in good condition, the only thing is that the paper is very dry—feels like paper that is very, very old. The envelope is badly scorched, discolored, torn, stained, etc. I can't understand how it missed being destroyed or how it could have been propelled such a great distance from the crash. Evidently Mr. O'Connell just found it.

"The stamp is missing and the area under the stamp is lighter in color than the rest of the envelope and that whole end of the envelope is burned. If you have a map of California handy, see if you can locate Decota. This is across the Bay from San Francisco, and this is where the plane crashed. Then find Niles and you will see the distance."

Bartlett vote at special election wrecks its Unit School system

Unit School District No. 250, comprising part of Hanover township and all of Schaumburg, was "wrecked" Saturday when the voters of the village of Bartlett overwhelmingly defeated three school propositions that would have allowed an increased tax rate, the purchase of two school sites in the rural areas and the erection of two three-room schools.

The vote of precinct 1, which comprises the village of Bartlett, was nearly eight to one against all three propositions. The other precincts cast a majority of votes in favor of all propositions.

The township of Schaumburg was the hardest hit by the action of Bartlett voters. School patrons of that township have been eagerly looking forward to something more than just its present one-room school house. A special meeting of the Schaumburg PTA was held Monday evening to discuss the matter. Noble J. Puffer was present, but could not authoritively suggest a remedy. He did say, however, that in his estimation the high school problem could be best solved by annexation to Palatine Township High school district.

That high school recently issued bonds for a large addition that will handle pupil registrations for many years. Those bonds are the obligation of the original district and there could be no tax against Schaumburg to retire them.

Since the unit district was formed about a third of Hanover township has been annexed to Elgin, which has lowered assessed valuations to such an extent that any further disruption of the district would place the village of Bartlett in an embarrassing position so far as a local elementary school is concerned.

The unit district has paid $12,000 of old debts of the Bartlett school. This paper has not learned what plans Bartlett school patrons have in their minds to solve their school problem. A vote of eight to one is clear evidence that the people of Bartlett do not like a joint district with Schaumburg.

The anti campaigning was evidently so cleverly done that the result was as great a surprise to many Bartlett people as it was to Schaumburg residents.

First killing frost can be predicted by Sinclair dealers

At a meeting September 19 at the Fireside restaurant local Sinclair dealers were given charts which show when to expect the first killing frost of the coming winter for any locality. They were prepared after considerable research, by the U. S. weather bureau. They will enable Sinclair dealers to advise motorists in plenty of time to protect their cars against early freeze-ups.

Mr. Schroeder, who conducted the meeting, also discussed the latest developments in servicing cars and in helping motorists save wear by proper lubrication. The "Sinclair-ize-for winter" program was then outlined, and dealers were again urged to advise their customers to prepare for winter early to avoid possible damage.

Latest developments in the petroleum industry were discussed along with the most recent advances in petroleum products.

Scout executives back from conference

The two professional scouters, Stanley H. Huntington, scout executive and Jordan A. Minerva, assistant scout executive, have just returned from the ninth national training conference of the Boy Scouts of America. Once every four years, the professional leaders in scouting meet together in conference to share experiences and to plan for the future.

The ninth training conference was held on the campus of Michigan State college. The physical facilities there helped to make the conference successful. The eight days were spent in a general session from 8:45 to 10 each morning; then small discussion groups until 12:00. The discussion groups resumed at 1:00 and concluded at 4:00 p. m. From 4:00 to 6:00 p. m. there were outstanding cub game and handicraft exhibits, camp exhibits, handicraft and hobby shops. The evening session started at 8:00 p. m. with a morale session followed by a nationally known speaker. The convocation Sunday morning brought together church leaders from across the nation.

There were 2200 professional Boy Scout workers at the conference, and these added to the ladies and children present swelled the enrollment to just over 3000.

First killing frost can be predicted by Sinclair dealers

At a meeting September 19 at the Fireside restaurant local Sinclair dealers were given charts which show when to expect the first killing frost of the coming winter for any locality. They were prepared after considerable research, by the U. S. weather bureau. They will enable Sinclair dealers to advise motorists in plenty of time to protect their cars against early freeze-ups.

Mr. Schroeder, who conducted the meeting, also discussed the latest developments in servicing cars and in helping motorists save wear by proper lubrication. The "Sinclair-ize-for winter" program was then outlined, and dealers were again urged to advise their customers to prepare for winter early to avoid possible damage.

Latest developments in the petroleum industry were discussed along with the most recent advances in petroleum products.

Scout executives back from conference

The two professional scouters, Stanley H. Huntington, scout executive and Jordan A. Minerva, assistant scout executive, have just returned from the ninth national training conference of the Boy Scouts of America. Once every four years, the professional leaders in scouting meet together in conference to share experiences and to plan for the future.

The ninth training conference was held on the campus of Michigan State college. The physical facilities there helped to make the conference successful. The eight days were spent in a general session from 8:45 to 10 each morning; then small discussion groups until 12:00. The discussion groups resumed at 1:00 and concluded at 4:00 p. m. From 4:00 to 6:00 p. m. there were outstanding cub game and handicraft exhibits, camp exhibits, handicraft and hobby shops. The evening session started at 8:00 p. m. with a morale session followed by a nationally known speaker. The convocation Sunday morning brought together church leaders from across the nation.

There were 2200 professional Boy Scout workers at the conference, and these added to the ladies and children present swelled the enrollment to just over 3000.

The stories of three women, the wife of a naturalist, a rancher's wife and the wife of a president bring to our book shelves three interesting and varied stories of travel, ranching and life in the white house.

"There's Always Adventure," by Grace E. Barstow Murphy had its beginning among the sand and rocks and gales of an island off New Zealand, in the company of penguins, sea lions, petrels and other sea creatures who were the island's sole inhabitants. As the wife of Robert Cushman Murphy of New York's Museum of Natural History, Mrs. Murphy long ago accepted the fact that birds were to be her lot. Science has set the pattern of the Murphys' life. It has taken them—often with their three children—to many corners of the world. "Home was where we were," she writes. Appropriately, the writing has spirit and imagination and beauty.

"The President's Lady," by Irving Stone, author of "Immortal Wife," brings to life the deeply moving story of Rachel and Andrew Jackson. Theirs is a tender and poignant love story, and the reader will find that Rachel Jackson lived the most controversial and amazing melodrama that ever engulfed an American woman. In Irving Stone's writing philosophy, all history is contemporary, as alive, vital, and exciting today as during the hours when it actually occurred. The reader of "The President's Lady," will watch Rachel Jackson's story unroll as though it were happening at this very moment.

"My Home on the Range," by Marguerite Wallace Kennedy is a warm, human story that will make you laugh (maybe cry), and restore your faith in man's enterprise and appreciation of the ridiculous. For this is the well-remembered story of a young tenderfoot schoolteacher suddenly called upon to cope with problems that were too big for her in an environment she knew too little about—and doing it all with a gallantry and good humor that will touch your heart while it appeals to your sense of fun. What these problems were and how she met them is the subject of one of the freshest and gayest and at the same time most poignant books of this or any year.

The stories of three women, the wife of a naturalist, a rancher's wife and the wife of a president bring to our book shelves three interesting and varied stories of travel, ranching and life in the white house.

"There's Always Adventure," by Grace E. Barstow Murphy had its beginning among the sand and rocks and gales of an island off New Zealand, in the company of penguins, sea lions, petrels and other sea creatures who were the island's sole inhabitants. As the wife of Robert Cushman Murphy of New York's Museum of Natural History, Mrs. Murphy long ago accepted the fact that birds were to be her lot. Science has set the pattern of the Murphys' life. It has taken them—often with their three children—to many corners of the world. "Home was where we were," she writes. Appropriately, the writing has spirit and imagination and beauty.

"The President's Lady," by Irving Stone, author of "Immortal Wife," brings to life the deeply moving story of Rachel and Andrew Jackson. Theirs is a tender and poignant love story, and the reader will find that Rachel Jackson lived the most controversial and amazing melodrama that ever engulfed an American woman. In Irving Stone's writing philosophy, all history is contemporary, as alive, vital, and exciting today as during the hours when it actually occurred. The reader of "The President's Lady," will watch Rachel Jackson's story unroll as though it were happening at this very moment.

"My Home on the Range," by Marguerite Wallace Kennedy is a warm, human story that will make you laugh (maybe cry), and restore your faith in man's enterprise and appreciation of the ridiculous. For this is the well-remembered story of a young tenderfoot schoolteacher suddenly called upon to cope with problems that were too big for her in an environment she knew too little about—and doing it all with a gallantry and good humor that will touch your heart while it appeals to your sense of fun. What these problems were and how she met them is the subject of one of the freshest and gayest and at the same time most poignant books of this or any year.

Improvement in reading

One of the newest courses offered both in high school, college and adult class instruction — through the use of "rate accelerators" and study type materials many people have made gains in reading rate from 200 to over 1000 words a minute for easy reading material. Hours of time can be saved, and at the same time an increase in comprehension and enjoyment of reading can be accomplished with the aid of a little instruction and practice in forming new habits. This is a useful skill in almost any line of work, and will pay big dividends. The course will be taught by a reading specialist of the high school staff, Alfred Snap, who has had outstanding success with his classes at Arlington Heights. The class will meet on Mondays from 7:30 to 9:30 for 10 weeks, beginning October 8.

Business letter writing

Herbert Clarkson, teacher at Northwestern university, offers this excellent 10 week course in Business Letter Writing. This course is not advertised in the catalogue. The class will meet on Wednesday nights from 7:30 to 9:30.

Music sight reading

A new class organized at the request of choir members of local churches, who wish to gain practice in the reading of choral music. The class will be conducted by Fredrick Schmoyer, head of the music department of the Arlington Heights township high school, who has had extensive experience in choir and band conducting.

Salesmanship and retail selling

Modern methods of sales approach, meeting customer resistance, sales stories, closing of sales, establishment of good will and customer relationship will be included in the course. Every student will be given individual help on his class problem of selling. You will benefit by the criticism of the class. Bruno Waara, specialist in Distributive Education, will conduct the 10 week series on Monday night, beginning October 8, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Beginning woodshop

Some folks have asked for a "beginners" woodshop class, where they would not be embarrassed at their lack of woodworking skills, and could proceed on projects of their own choosing with the help of the instructor in a small class. This is it—a real beginner's class—enrollment limited, elementary woodworking processes demonstrated and explained, and taught by John Ligon, staff member of the industrial arts department of the high school. This class meets for 3 hours on Mondays, 7:30 to 10:30, beginning October 8 and continuing for 10 weeks. The more advanced class will meet Wednesday night.

Ceramics

It isn't often that a ceramics class can be offered, as special facilities are needed. This class will meet at the Junior high school (South school) in the new art room, and will be taught by Kay Campbell, popular art teacher of the junior high staff. Work in clay by hand and with small tools will be given, also an opportunity for experimenting with glazes from dull matt to bright gloss. A kiln will be available for firing favorite pieces. No previous experience is necessary. The class will meet Wednesdays, beginning October 10, for 10 weeks—time, 7:30 to 9:30. A small charge for materials will be necessary.

Poise, confidence, and etiquette are stressed. It is recommended that couples enroll; however, men and women may register individually. The class will meet Wednesday night from 7:30 to 9:30.

Presbyterian YMC club sponsors 'Dear Ruth'

In an effort to combine fun with funds, the Young Married Couples' club of the Presbyterian church of Arlington Heights will sponsor the Village Theatre's production of "Dear Ruth," November 2 and 3 in the church auditorium.

"Dear Ruth" will open the Village Theatre's third season of starring local talent in "name plays." A light comedy, "Dear Ruth," involves a teen-ager's letter-writing campaign to a G. I. on behalf of her older sister. When the warrior returns and pays the unsuspecting Ruth a visit, the result is good family fun everyone in Arlington will enjoy.

The Village Theatre, Inc., will produce the play through special arrangements with Dramatists Play Service, Inc., under the direction of Mrs. Dennis Malcolmson.

Business arrangements will be handled by members of the YMC under the supervision of A. Douglas Anderson, Village Theatre business manager.

YMC members heading those financially important business committees include: Charles Tully, tickets; R. David Kimble, publicity; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jevne and Mr. and Mrs. William Foley, refreshments; Perry Thomas, program; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Espenshade and Mr. and Mrs. William Grismer, house arrangements.

Proceeds from this production of "Dear Ruth" will be divided between the Village Theatre, Inc., and the Presbyterian church building fund.

Electrical manicure now available at Martin's beauty shop

Alfred Martin, of Martin's Hairdressing Salon of Arlington Heights, and his wife have just returned from the annual State Hairdressers convention held in Peoria last week end.

Mr. Martin returned with ideas for new and modern hair styles, and the latest in manicuring and tweezing equipment. One of the demonstration at the convention was an electrical manicurist and personal beautifier. So enthused was he over the operation of this compact little machine that he purchased one immediately to use in his shop.

The reporter was the first to get a demonstration of how the beautiator worked. It was the most "painless" manicure and eyebrow tweezing she ever had. The beautiator files, trims cuticle, buffs and cleans nails. What's more, the nails are left so smooth that one can't possibly snag a pair of nylons.

"Better still," said Mr. Martin, "my girls will only have to spend half the time it took to give a manicure before, they'll be doing a smoother job, and patrons will no longer suffer an occasional 'jab' which was bound to occur with the old fashioned method, no matter how careful the girls were."

While at the convention Mr. Martin was selected to be one of the judges of the hair styling contest.

Presbyterian YMC club sponsors 'Dear Ruth'

In an effort to combine fun with funds, the Young Married Couples' club of the Presbyterian church of Arlington Heights will sponsor the Village Theatre's production of "Dear Ruth," November 2 and 3 in the church auditorium.

"Dear Ruth" will open the Village Theatre's third season of starring local talent in "name plays." A light comedy, "Dear Ruth," involves a teen-ager's letter-writing campaign to a G. I. on behalf of her older sister. When the warrior returns and pays the unsuspecting Ruth a visit, the result is good family fun everyone in Arlington will enjoy.

The Village Theatre, Inc., will produce the play through special arrangements with Dramatists Play Service, Inc., under the direction of Mrs. Dennis Malcolmson.

Business arrangements will be handled by members of the YMC under the supervision of A. Douglas Anderson, Village Theatre business manager.

YMC members heading those financially important business committees include: Charles Tully, tickets; R. David Kimble, publicity; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jevne and Mr. and Mrs. William Foley, refreshments; Perry Thomas, program; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Espenshade and Mr. and Mrs. William Grismer, house arrangements.

Proceeds from this production of "Dear Ruth" will be divided between the Village Theatre, Inc., and the Presbyterian church building fund.

Bits o' business

Output of the nation's copper mines in August dropped to the lowest level of the year, due to the strike which began August 27 . . . Agriculture Department has announced support prices for 1952 crop flaxseed at about $1.12 higher than the price paid this year . . . Following closely behind the news of the Navy's projected atomic-powered submarine, comes an Air Force announcement of a planned airplane driven by atomic energy.

Electrical manicure now available at Martin's beauty shop

Alfred Martin, of Martin's Hairdressing Salon of Arlington Heights, and his wife have just returned from the annual State Hairdressers convention held in Peoria last week end.

Mr. Martin returned with ideas for new and modern hair styles, and the latest in manicuring and tweezing equipment. One of the demonstration at the convention was an electrical manicurist and personal beautifier. So enthused was he over the operation of this compact little machine that he purchased one immediately to use in his shop.

The reporter was the first to get a demonstration of how the beautiator worked. It was the most "painless" manicure and eyebrow tweezing she ever had. The beautiator files, trims cuticle, buffs and cleans nails. What's more, the nails are left so smooth that one can't possibly snag a pair of nylons.

"Better still," said Mr. Martin, "my girls will only have to spend half the time it took to give a manicure before, they'll be doing a smoother job, and patrons will no longer suffer an occasional 'jab' which was bound to occur with the old fashioned method, no matter how careful the girls were."

While at the convention Mr. Martin was selected to be one of the judges of the hair styling contest.

Directors of law school

The John Marshall law school was given provisional approval today by the house of delegates of the American bar association, meeting in New York City. This action means that all law schools in the Chicago area are now approved by the American Bar association.

Directors of the Edward T. Lee Foundation of the school include: L. J. Dahlgren, 1022 N. Princeton, Arlington Heights, and Charles Stadell, 416 Fairview, Arlington Heights.

Jet costs soar

It takes about 3½ times as many dollars to build a typical jet fighter airframe today as it did to construct the fighter's World War II counterpart.

For this additional money, the American taxpayer gets a plane that flies more than 1½ times as fast, fights at altitudes over 1⅓ times as high, has an engine over seven times as powerful at upper altitudes—despite the fact that it weighs over 1½ times as much as the fighter of a decade ago.

Villages have right to restore rent control

Under the new federal rent law, in effect since August 1, the 35 Chicago area communities that lifted rent controls through the local option provision of the federal rent law may now restore controls if they want to, Chicago area rent director Norman B. Shogren says.

Shogren has pointed out that "The law provides that any incorporated city, town, village or even state which holds a public hearing after a ten day notice, and passes a resolution to the effect that a housing shortage exists, may ask for the re-establishment of federal rent control."

ONCE A LOCAL government had controls removed it could not get them restored under the old law. Because of changed conditions and increased defense and military activity, Congress has now provided that communities which dropped controls under local option can have the controls restored if necessary.

The 35 Chicago area communities include Arlington Heights, Barrington, Bensenville, Deerfield, Des Plaines, Glenview, Mt. Prospect, Palatine, Roselle, and Wheeling.

Shogren is in charge of the Chicago area rent office at 226 W. Jackson blvd., Chicago, formerly a part of the office of the housing expediter and now under the Office of Rent Stabilization.

Packaged Chimneys

In its campaign for up-to-date building codes, the National Association of Home Builders has advised local communities that many changes in structural requirements in new homes can be made without sacrificing either quality or safety. For example, says the NAHB, even though Fire Underwriters' Laboratories' tests show that approved packaged chimneys are as safe or safer than masonry chimneys, many antiquated codes still read "chimneys shall be of masonry."

Under the new federal rent law, in effect since August 1, the 35 Chicago area communities that lifted rent controls through the local option provision of the federal rent law may now restore controls if they want to, Chicago area rent director Norman B. Shogren says.

Shogren has pointed out that "The law provides that any incorporated city, town, village or even state which holds a public hearing after a ten day notice, and passes a resolution to the effect that a housing shortage exists, may ask for the re-establishment of federal rent control."

ONCE A LOC. government had controls removed it could not get them restored under the old law. Because of changed conditions and increased defense and military activity, Congress has now provided that communities which dropped controls under local option can have the controls restored if necessary.

The 35 Chicago area communities include Arlington Heights, Barrington, Bensenville, Deerfield, Des Plaines, Glenview, Mt. Prospect, Palatine, Roselle, and Wheeling.

Shogren is in charge of the Chicago area rent office at 226 W. Jackson blvd., Chicago, formerly a part of the office of the housing expediter and now under the Office of Rent Stabilization.

Packaged Chimneys

In its campaign for up-to-date building codes, the National Association of Home Builders has advised local communities that many changes in structural requirements in new homes can be made without sacrificing either quality or safety. For example, says the NAHB, even though Fire Underwriters' Laboratories' tests show that approved packaged chimneys are as safe or safer than masonry chimneys, many antiquated codes still read "chimneys shall be of masonry."

CIRCLING THE TOWN

BY PHYLLIS KNIGHT

Those who are familiar wtih past performances don't even have to be told that this Friday's smorgasbord of the Mother's club of St. Peter Lutheran church will be something out of the ordinary. For the price of $1 — 65 cents for children — the guest will receive literally all he can eat.

Much of the food for this feast — which has been held for at least 10 years now—is donated by the mothers, and in the case of some more expensive items, the ingredients are donated and the food prepared by the club members.

Those who attend this smorgasbord descend the stairs into the dining room of the Lutheran school and right in front of them is the impressive serving table extending the full length of the room. From the ham at the start to casseroles, meat balls and salads, the only problem is to find room on one's plate to sample every item. Desserts of homemade cake as well as beverages are served at the tables.

In spite of the crowds who attend this annual affair—close to 800 were served last year—the wait is not excessive, for almost 200 adults can be served simultaneously in the dining room. Incidentally, there will be highchairs available for families with small children.

Business people who have a limited dinner hour on Friday evening because of the local stores' remaining open need only identify themselves and they will be seated at a special "quick service" table.

Mrs. William Gronert is this year's chairman of the smorgasbord, and she is assisted by Mrs. Clarence Horcher, September serving chairman for the Mother's club. They're hoping to see everyone in town at their dinner Friday night. Serving begins at 5 p.m. and will continue until every one has been taken care of.

Hail and farewell

To honor those who began the organization—the first charter members—the Newcomer's club of Arlington Heights will hold a farewell tea Tuesday afternoon at the field house.

The afternoon's program will begin at 2 p.m., with a short business meeting also scheduled. New officers will be elected at this time.

The Newcomer's club was begun just two years ago by a group of "North Kennicott neighbors," and has grown to include an extremely large membership list representing all sections of the village. Membership for two years is open to any new woman resident of Arlington, with occasional meetings being held to include husbands as well.

A new era in the life of the club will begin this month with the retirement of the "old timers." It is a tribute to the organization that the aims and ideals of the members change very little with the constant change in membership.

School days

Just when the youngsters are settling into their school routine it's time for the grownups to think about school days for themselves, for next week is registration time for adult evening courses at the high school.

Vocational courses like shorthand, "escape" subjects like travel lectures, and hobby ones like jewelry making are all included, and tuition for all courses is mighty low. Registration may be made and information obtained through the high school office.

Just Looking

What some women get away with! Just because they have lovely hair they create the illusion of beauty. Some of these beauties are not beauties at all. But let's take a tip from them. You can do more with and for your hair than any other portion of yourself.

Did I say you can? I mean Alfred Martin can. He has 9 operators (yes, 9, now you'll believe me when I tell you he's the biggest and best hairdressing establishment in the NW section) all trained to make the most of your looks. A new service we Arlington folk have needed has come to us with the new cleaner, Cleaner's DeLuxe. They opened up shop at 8½ S. Dunton a couple of weeks ago and are they tickled! The response was overwhelming and they got all choked up with business. Their big plant in Skokie was able to handle it all so things got straightened out in a hurry.

Seems Cleaners DeLuxe have been in business for years in Chicago, Evanston and Des Plaines and they have especially good spotters who can handle the most complicated cleaning problem. They are a cash and carry place which makes their prices very nice. The new service I mentioned is that they give fast service, 3 or 4 days mostly, and on one of those last minute invitations, they'll clean and press the offending garment and get it ready for action in 24 hours. Be sure to take it in the store before 10 a. m. if you need this 24 hour service.

As the Herald pointed out last week, Arlington Heights is really growing.

What a lovely season! To me, it's a time to buy a grey flannel skirt, take in a football game, and best of all—a nice long drive to see the leaves changing color and the lake looking more exciting than ever.

Before the drive and before taking off for "homecoming" have your car checked over. After the hot weather a motor tune-up is in order. George C. Poole has just the right organization to handle the job—specialists for each type of trouble. Run the car in and they'll speedily but thoroughly check it and give you a seal of approval for your fall motoring.

Are your springs sagging? Is the sofa hopelessly soiled and out-of-date? The answer is not to run out and buy new furniture—have the present horror completely redone. Even change the number of cushions from 3 to the more popular 2. Stuff 'em with foam rubber. As for fabric, consider the nylons. Lovely colors but best of all, soil just doesn't cling and spots are easily removed with soap and waer.

Mr. Strigow on 117 S. Dunton is a craftsman, experienced and skilled in his work. Call and get an estimate. He won't leave you without your furniture for weeks either. When he's already with scissors and tacks laid out, then and not until then he'll come for the work. Why not get it done now before the holiday season when your home should be at its prettiest.

It's getting into the type of weather when you really have to scrounge around for a pleasant day to wash. Wala Washerette's customers have no such problem. As long as the electricity doesn't get turned off, it's a nice day at Wala. Clothes washed clean, clean in soft water and tumbled dry with few wrinkles. Many things just don't need ironing. And Mrs. Larkin, the co-proprietor, will fold clothes before they develop new wrinkles.

Wala on Northwest highway is open most of the time so enjoy your washday. Go shopping and let Wala do the work.

No one ever gives me perfume —and I love it. I have to buy my own and, brother, do I know where there's a bargain. A set of seven scents—six familiar favorites and a new one. All of Coty's famous fragrances in lingering perfume—not cologne—in a pretty gold box for only $2.00.

Coty seldom offers bargains. They go along from year to year producing quality products and plenty of women will use no other. Arlington Pharmacy has this nice set. 'Twould be an especially nice bridge gift or to tuck away for Christmas. Or use it yourself — L'Aimant is nice for fall sport activities.

Hold October 5 and/or 6 open. The new Esquire Shop is opening up on Northwest highway just as you get to Palatine—left side of the road going over from Arlington Heights.

Men who are looking for bright sport shirts, women who are looking for new ties for their husbands, and hunters and fishermen specially must go. Several v. i. p.'s in the sport world will be there to "shoot the bull." Tell you more next week—got to get this to Mr. Paddock.

THE JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL HOMEROOM TEACHER

by MARJORIE ENGLEHART

I am a homeroom teacher to 68 sixth grade boys and girls. A definition of my position is virtually impossible. It is as various as the personalities of 68 very different boys and girls. No manual can list my duties, but I shall attempt to explain in substance just what I hope I am.

I am a teacher. Each grade in the junior high school is divided into four sections. Each homeroom teacher is the language arts-social studies teacher for two of these sections. We meet with each our reading, language, spelling, penmanship, and social studies work takes place. These subjects are considered the "core" of the curriculum organization in our junior high school, and, as such, more time is spent with them than with any other single study.

It follows naturally that spending more time with these particular groups than any other teacher, we homeroom teachers have the opportunity for developing a more personal relationship with the pupils within the groups. Thus, we are heirs apparent to the role of homeroom teacher.

AS LANGUAGE arts-social studies teachers, we meet regularly throughout the school year for studies of our curriculum work. We are hesitant to accept our work at its present status, but rather we are making a continuous effort to strengthen and broaden this program, as well as continually seeking to improve our ways of teaching.

I am a counselor. The homeroom teacher is not just an academician. Most certainly we are concerned with our pupils' academic progress, but equally important to us is our concern for their personality growth. The changes in junior high school boys and girls are fascinating—but unpredictable. Ours it is to recognize, analyze, and sympathize with these changes. Such a position is possible only in a situation where the teacher is respected, trusted, and genuinely liked by her pupils. Advice and counseling is possible in any classroom, but it is effective only when the children sense the sincere interest of the counselor.

Newly initiated into our program this year is a weekly guidance period during which the homeroom teacher does individual counseling. At this time the teacher calls from class any pupil with a problem which defies airing before some 30 other alert and curious class members. Here the difficulty is faced and usually solved with a combination student-teacher approach. Naturally, complex problems requiring more expert consideration are referred by the homeroom teacher to the visiting counselor, but the relationships established during these guidance periods are invaluable to the student, the teacher, and the general classroom atmosphere.

I AM A BOND between the home and school. Paralleling the more intimate relationship with the pupils is the opportunity for a close relationship with the parents. The homeroom teacher is keenly aware of the need for such a relationship and encourages it. Two traditional policies in the Arlington Heights system do much to foster this alliance. First is the annual Parents' Night where the parents enroll for an evening in the classes which their children attend daily, gaining parental insight into the school environment. Probably more important is the teacher-parent conferences where all phases of the child's growth are jointly examined.

But my public relations assignment does not stop with the parents. On a different level, I must broaden and develop the attitudes of my homeroom groups in terms of school policies. While my sixth graders are the smallest pebbles on the junior high beach, they are by no means the least. Mine it is to see that their ideas concerning their school and themselves are related and understood by other groups in the building.

I am a friend. This, I suppose, is the composite of all that I have explained before—teacher, counselor, and liaison person. When students leave my homeroom group, I'd like them to think, "Gee, that's the best grade I was ever in."

Advice and counseling is possible in any classroom, but it is effective only when the children sense the sincere interest of the counselor.

Newly initiated into our program this year is a weekly guidance period during which the homeroom teacher does individual counseling. At this time the teacher calls from class any pupil with a problem which defies airing before some 30 other alert and curious class members. Here the difficulty is faced and usually solved with a combination student-teacher approach. Naturally, complex problems requiring more expert consideration are referred by the homeroom teacher to the visiting counselor, but the relationships established during these guidance periods are invaluable to the student, the teacher, and the general classroom atmosphere.

I AM A BOND between the home and school. Paralleling the more intimate relationship with the pupils is the opportunity for a close relationship with the parents. The homeroom teacher is keenly aware of the need for such a relationship and encourages it. Two traditional policies in the Arlington Heights system do much to foster this alliance. First is the annual Parents' Night where the parents enroll for an evening in the classes which their children attend daily, gaining parental insight into the school environment. Probably more important is the teacher-parent conferences where all phases of the child's growth are jointly examined.

But my public relations assignment does not stop with the parents. On a different level, I must broaden and develop the attitudes of my homeroom groups in terms of school policies. While my sixth graders are the smallest pebbles on the junior high beach, they are by no means the least. Mine it is to see that their ideas concerning their school and themselves are related and understood by other groups in the building.

I am a friend. This, I suppose, is the composite of all that I have explained before—teacher, counselor, and liaison person. When students leave my homeroom group, I'd like them to think, "Gee, that's the best grade I was ever in."

FAVORITES For FLAVOR

by LOIS SEILER

A savory Creole casserole combining hamburger and an unusual ingredient — eggplant — is this week's recipe suggested by Mrs. Earle A. Petersen of 913 Patton ave., Arlington Heights.

This enticing concoction also contains whole wheat bread crumbs, onion and sweet pepper, and is subtly seasoned with sugar and garlic powder.

"I received this recipe from our French cook when we lived in Louisiana," explained Mrs. Petersen. "My family enjoys this dish so much that we have it quite often and even grow our own eggplants in our garden."

Vivacious Mrs. Petersen successfully combines the duties of homemaking with teaching school and directing the young people's choir at the South church, Mt. Prospect. The Petersens have two sons: Chappie, a sophomore at Denison university, and Johnnie, a junior high student.

Guests at the Petersen home invariably pronounce Creole Eggplant en Casserole a delicious taste treat. The economy-wise housewife will find this casserole an inexpensive and appealing entree for a family or company dinner.

Mrs. Petersen suggests serving this tasty dish with a tossed green salad and crusty roils. Follow with fresh fruit and coffee for dessert.

Creole Eggplant en Casserole

1 eggplant (1 or 1½ pounds)
1 or 1½ pounds hamburger
1 cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped sweet pepper (optional)
1 cup whole wheat bread crumbs
1 teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon garlic powder salt
pepper

Wash and remove stem from eggplant. Boil whole in skin until tender. Remove paper-thin skin and chop eggplant fine.

Meanwhile, brown hamburger quickly in a skillet. Add chopped onion, sweet pepper, eggplant, bread crumbs, sugar and garlic powder. Salt and pepper to taste.

Mix all well together and simmer gently for 15 minutes. Add a little water if mixture seems too dry, and stir it often to avoid sticking or scorching.

When ingredients are well blended and juicy, turn into glass baking dish, top generously with crushed cracker crumbs, and dot with butter.

Bake in 350 degree oven for about 45 minutes, until crumbs are lightly browned.

NEW NEIGHBORS .... IN THE CITY OF GOOD NEIGHBORS

Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Hawley

Mr. and Mrs. Lisle R. Hawley moved to 330 S. Beverly lane from Northfield July 2. They agree with other young couples who have moved to this new section in Scarsdale in their enthusiasm, for they are not the least bit disappointed in their new surroundings; they like them very much.

Mr. Hawley, an account executive for an advertising agency, has many hobbies which are certainly in evidence around his home. He enjoys photography and woodworking and is also an artist.

Mrs. Hawley likes to sew and is now busy decorating her new home.

Murphy and Danny are the Hawley's two cocker spaniels.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Cullerton

Practically next-door neighbors of the Hawleys are Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Cullerton whose new home is located at 802 E. Linden ave. in Scarsdale. The Cullertons moved here three months ago from the north side of Chicago.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Cullerton like to read. Mrs. Cullerton, who was the librarian at Fenwick high school in Oak Park for 15 years, likes biographies best. Mr. Cullerton, who is in the traffic department of Sears and Roebuck, also makes a hobby of woodworking.

The Cullertons have a daughter, Clarissa, who is 4 years old.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Dittberner

New residents at 729 S. Beverly lane are Mr. and Mrs. Karl Dittberner, who moved here from Elmwood Park three weeks ago. Mrs. Dittberner said that they like their new ranch home and moved here to get farther out into the country.

Mr. Dittberner, who has his own trucking delivery service, is also an amateur photographer. He even has his own dark room in his new home.

The Dittberners have two married daughters, Dawn and Faith, both of whom are living in Champaign, Ill., where their husbands are in college. Their youngest daughter, Gail, is 8 years old and in the third grade at the South school.

Father of Arlington woman killed in private plane crash

Francis Heaney, 53, of West Chicago, DuPage county, father of Mrs. Mary Pendergast, 916 Vail ave., Arlington Heights, was killed Tuesday when his private plane crashed into a pond on a farm in Pulaski county, about 20 miles north of Cairo.

Heaney, who recently purchased a ranch near Baxterville, Miss., commuted to Chicago, where he was an official of the Abbott Advertising company, 19 S. LaSalle st., in a four seater plane. He was on his way to Chicago when the crash occurred.

Farmers in the area reported to state police that they heard the motor of the plane cutting out as it circled about noon. There were no witnesses to the accident but the noise of the crash brought about an immediate search.

Besides Mrs. Pendergast he is survived by his wife, Sarah, and two other daughters, Mrs. Sarah Benken and Mrs. Edith Marshall.

Elect candidates for Homecoming king, queen

Girls chosen as queen candidates are Barbara Arnold, Dianne Botterman, Joan Groth, Joan Sander, and Joan Winterbauer. Boys chosen as king candidates are LeRoy Fredericks, Norbert Leckband, Roger Ragland, Bob Simmons, and Mike Theiss.

Wilke to Karrigan pass pulls 6-0 victory out of the water for Bensenville eleven

by BUD BOOTH

History repeated itself in a reverse manner Friday night at Antioch when Bensenville's Bisons opened their 1951 Northwest conference grid schedule with a 6 to 0 conquest of the favored Sequoits. It was just 20 years ago that the teams met in the 1931 league opener with Antioch coming out on the long end of a 6-0 score.

Friday's game, played through intermittent heavy showers, seemed doomed to end in a scoreless tie until the last quarter, when Ken Wilke, Bison quarterback, uncorked a 30-yard pass to end Jim Karrigan. He scooped the aerial in and dashed across the goal for the only touchdown of the night.

THE BENSENVILLE offense, which had the hosts back on their heels most of the time, continually threatened, but, until the victory toss, seemed due to fail. The Sequoits, regarded as one of the better clubs in the NW loop this fall, just couldn't get going. They got into the victor's territory only twice, once on a fumble recovery, and never got nearer to pay dirt than 30 yards.

In the curtain-raiser the Antioch frosh-soph squad downed Bensenville, 12 to 0.

Saturday, September 29, the Bisons will engage Palatine on the latter's field in a night game while the Sequoits play an afternoon contest at Wauconda.

HEIGHTS OFF TO YORK SATURDAY AS REST OF WEST SUBURBAN OPENS PLAY

by BOB PADDOCK

Arlington Heights high school gridders journey to Elmhurst Saturday for their second West Suburban conference doubleheader with a chance at victory in the offing. Though this may sound a bit optimistic, spirit and hustle of the Cardinal eleven the past two weeks indicates Coach "Bus" Ormsbee's boys could be on the long end this time.

It seems that York, which tied for the cellar last season with a 1-5 record, hasn't copped a football championship since 1945. They have a light squad this year, but have improved over last season. Speed could possibly make up for the lack of weight.

Against Elgin Friday night in the same rain that engulfed Arlington against Marmion, York halfback Jim Heiss dropped the ball twice within six plays, both times ending in Elgin touchdowns. That took the heart out of York in an otherwise fairly even ball game.

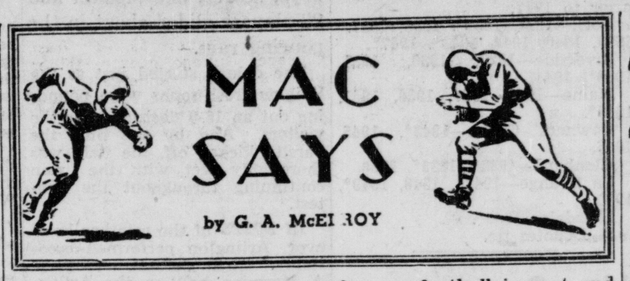
Heiss was rushed on the first play from scrimmage on his own 20, the ball squirting from his hands and captured by the Maroon's DeWayne Block. Four plays later Elgin scored. On the second play following the ensuing kickoff Heiss fumbled on the 30, with Elgin's second TD coming five plays later.

FOR ARLINGTON some changes in starting lineup will probably be made. Three sophomores are slated for starting positions, including Dave Brant, relieving Rezek (sick) at tackle; Roger Thomas, relieving Tom Theis (sprained ankle) at fullback; and Dick Winterbauer, who will be alternating with John Eakins at quarterback.

Center of the line will again find Grace, Intravartolo and Cooper continuing their iron man stints. They have yet to be relieved from duty after two games.

Coach Fischer is a new man at York, his most recent coaching position at state teachers' college at Millersville, Penn.

The frosh-soph encounter at York Saturday, September 29, is slated to start at 12:30, with the varsity contest following at 2 p. m. Additional attraction at the game will be completion of the Arlington-York cross country meet between halves.



One week of Northwest conference football is past and the teams appear more evenly matched than even we had anticipated. Ela gave Barrington their hands full with a tricky defense that had the Bronchos baffled for a half. Wauconda demonstrated they are out to win some games this year, barring injuries to key performers as they played Palatine to a tie. Actually Palatine tied the game and was fortunate not to come out an upset loser. Northbrook stopped Grant's famed running attack but fell, 14-0, on a pass and a fumble. The Vikings will be no pushover. Bensenville's green Bisons came through over Antioch 6-0 in the rain to start what may turn out to be a better season than that of a year ago when Meneguin had so many big slow veterans.

Bisons vs. Pirates Saturday night at Community Park

This week the Bisons are at Palatine Saturday night in a double bill at 6:30 looking for victory number two. Last year Palatine badly defeated the Bensenville team and, in fact, have beaten them the last two years in a row. We have an idea Palatine will bounce back from that tie with Wauconda and play smarter and more aggressive ball.

Barrington, favored over Northbrook, will have to develop a more varied attack because Northbrook is a tough team against line plunging tactics. Grant should beat Ela by about the same margin they did Northbrook, two touchdowns. Wauconda could beat Antioch Saturday afternoon in their home opener if they play as hard as at Palatine where they lost two touchdowns on bad breaks.

Few basketball players on football squad at Barrington high school

It is a bit early to discuss basketball but October 1 is the day the state rules permit schools to start cage practice. Over at Barrington where Les Harman's Bronchos have successfully bucked everyone in the conference for three years an unusual situation exists as regards early cage practice. Only one of the boys most likely to make the basketball team is playing football and that is center Dave Heckmiller. Harman will start practicing next week with Paulsen, Cochran, Schwemm, Liebertz, Hohfelder, and McGowan who were on last year's tournament squad. That five weeks start will be a big help to Barrington in defending their championship.

Kersten is Wauconda's mighty mite at defensive end

Mike Rose, veteran official, commented after the Palatine-Wauconda game that Norman Kersten of Wauconda had just played the best game at defensive end he had ever seen in the Northwest conference. We would still take Steve Roake of last year but most folks think of Roake mainly for offense.

Anyway, Kersten, who weighs 145 and stands a mere 4 feet 6 inches, played a great game, stopping everything Palatine could throw at his position and making tackles all down the line as he quickly diagnosed Palatine's offense. For a quarterback converted this year to end Kersten certainly has all-league possibilities.

"Lindy" has another top team at Lake Forest

The past two Saturdays Lake Forest high tied Hinsdale and Glenbard of the West Suburban league. This certainly indicates that Edgar Lindenmeyer, the Scouts' coach, has another of his powerful grid combines. In 16 years at Lake Forest the former Missouri All-American tackle has turned in 83 wins and eight ties with but 27 losses.

In nine years in the now defunct Northeast conference "Lindy" came through with three clear titles, one championship tie, and three second places. He has only five lettermen this year but they are extra good and all Lake Forest teams are so well grounded in blocking and tackling that they never have a bad season.

Barrington and Wauconda have extreme records

There are two strings we hope are broken in the Northwest conference this season. One is Barrington's league victories in football, which now total 22 straight. The other is Wauconda's winless record of 15 straight. Wauconda

Hindsdale and Maine after Lyons' title

Just who will cop the West Suburban football championship this year is a mystery but the odds on past record certainly indicate Lyons of LaGrange will be in on the decision.

Because of lack of returning veterans this year, Coach Chuck Bennett decreed no warmup games. Instead he has been drilling newcomers in the hopes of giving them plenty of knowledge prior to the league opener against Hinsdale.

Three regulars are back: fullback Leon McRae, center Bill McHale and halfback Byron Bennett. Reserves of last year certain to see action are Linskey and Elmore at ends, Marvil and Esche at tackles; Kammerschen and Blomberg at guards; and Gillstrom, Clay, McKown and Danner in the backfield.

Lyons copped both divisions of the league last year with identical 6-0 slates, though the varsity was tied by Leyden, 7-all.

AT MAINE this year coach Ken Olsen has nine lettermen back, possibly presenting the strongest opposition to Lyons' quest for another title.

The backfield has Clem Ryan (170) at full, a junior, rated as outstanding on defense, a hard runner, his second year on the varsity. Three halfbacks include Don Glasenapp (165), team punter and member of the state champ relay team in 1950; Bob Peterson (163), outstanding defense man on the first team last season; plus John Weidler (170), senior defense man.

The quarterback spot will be ably handled by Glen French (177), on the first string last year. Two tackles, John Gerfen (200) and John Newstrom (200), provide as good a basis for a forward wall as anything in the league.

At guards are returning veterans Marty Koester (160), rugged and fast; and Marty Mulroy (155), also fast. In warmup games Maine beat Elgin, 35-20, but called off the Thornton contest when the deluge started Friday night.

DOWN HINSDALE way prospects are bright with Coach Harvey Dickinson girding for a tough season. There's plenty of size and speed in spite of only three veterans returning. Broken hand of veteran quarterback Al Maca was a blow to team chances, but in spite of this, Hinsdale soundly trounced East Rockford, 39-14. Other warmup found Lake Forest gaining an even tally, 12-all.

Lettermen include Otis Bates, 202 pound tackle, a senior; Don Smola, 176 pound all-conference man of last year, also a senior; and fullback Don Vena, 187 pound senior, who tallied five times at Rockford Friday night.

Palatine Theater tourney team hangs up suits after tourneys

Palatine Theater softball tournament team put away their suits last week after losing to Libertyville, 2-0, in the tournament final Sunday night, September 16. The original Theater team won the Palatine league tournament, then disbanded, most of the boys joining other teams for the Park Ridge and Libertyville tourneys.

Then Don Foster revived his team, taking on some new men from Palatine Motors, El Rando and Riviera. They proceeded to cop the Park Ridge meet in four straight contests, and were beaten at Libertyville after copping two up there.

JUST ONE earned run was scored against the Palatine Theater aggregation, that coming in the final game. Five unearned runs were also tallied against the Theater boys in those seven games.

Heights frosh whip Palatine

In a game surprisingly good for freshmen teams Arlington trimmed Palatine Monday afternoon, 21-0. The young Pirates looked good for a yearling squad, but Heights appeared even better, a sign of good things to come in West Suburban circles one or two years hence.

A Palatine fumble and muffing of a live ball over their own goal line put Heights in the lead when Jim Laughlin fell on the sphere for a TD. Pass from Denny Maher to Wayne Mueller was good for the point after.

Second period found Arlington again scoring, this time on a short pass from Maher to Mueller with a toss from Maher to Morrison Kennicott good for the extra tally. Halftime ended, 14-0.

MIDWAY in the fourth quarter Coach Curtis Larsen's right halfback, Jim Laughlin, broke off tackle for a 50 yard dash and pay dirt. Extra point was good on a pass from substitute quarterback Mike Ennis to Mueller.

Arlington's line did a superb job in rushing Palatine, with good reserves and plenty of spirit indicating the best frosh team in years for the local school. Next game for Heights is against York, at Arlington, Monday at 4 p. m.

Next contest for Coach Claude Bailey's Palatine aggregation is Tuesday, October 2, at Antioch. The young Pirates previously lost to Libertyville, 20-6.

Marvin Prellberg only double winner at Inverness golf club

Marvin Prellberg Jr. of Arlington Heights is the club champion at the Inverness Golf Club. In an all-Arlington Heights semi-final round in class "A" at the Palatine course, Marvin had beaten Dick Tang Jr., Arlington high star and Fred Hertel had disposed of Marvin's brother, Ronald Prellberg. Marv then defeated Hertel in the final round. Prellberg is a student at Ripon college.

Prellberg not only won the class "A" title, but also won the Palatine Cup handicap tournament held during the month of August. In this Marv beat John Courtney in the finals. Marv had beaten Bob Cunningham and Courtney had whipped Ron Prellberg in semi-final matches.

LAST SATURDAY night at a special club dinner at Inverness the various tournament trophies were awarded. Marvin Prellberg was the only double winner. In class "B" James Newhouse was the trophy winner, beating Kinkel in the finals. Bob Cunningham and Knox Bourne, last year's "B" champ, fell in the semi-finals.

Tony Ciccone took "C" honors over Frank Corliss, two and one. Ted Christiansen and Joe Osten were eliminated in the semi-finals. Harold Carlson won the "D" championship beating Charles Daugherty five up. Dr. W. W. Meek and Walter Hermesdorf were semi-finalists.

IN OTHER special monthly tournaments conducted on a handicap basis, Charles Quackenbush beat John Courtney for the Stan Arendt trophy and James McTaggart had the edge on Micky Keifer for the Inverness Cup.

In the ladies' competition Polly Seehausen took the club championship for the third time by beating Helen Scharninghousen in the finals.

The Metzler brothers took care of the caddy tournament trophies with Ray, a senior at Palatine, winning class "A" with a final victory over Peter Abramson. Phillip Metzler, Palatine high freshman, beat Alfred Ciskowski for the "B" championship.

The Inverness Club located two miles west of Palatine has enjoyed another very fine season. The course has been in the best shape in many years. Popular Stanley Arendt is the pro at Inverness where he has been holding forth for the past 25 years.

Arlington ties Palatine in cross country

Palatine and Arlington Heights high school cross country squads tied in the initial match for both teams Friday afternoon at Palatine, 30-all, in spite of Palatine copping the first three positions. Key to the meet was the additional places taken by Heights boys which relegated Palatine's fourth and fifth boys to tenth and fourteenth places.

Heading the runners was Gerry Herrmann, Palatine's No. 1 distance runner, followed by Bill Senne and Jim Vogt in a photo finish with Marshall Dahlstrom of Arlington Heights.

Harold Reeve was tenth for Palatine coach Eldon Naffziger, with Don Buenzow ranking fourteenth.

FOR HEIGHTS and Coach Russ Attis it was Marshall Dahlstrom fourth, Lodiegard Reinke fifth, Jerry Dallstream sixth, Don Lockhart seventh, Dan Kibbe eighth and Bob Rankin ninth. The first five counted for Arlington.

Lockhart and Kibbee are seniors, the latter the son of Prospect Heights school principal Hugh Kibbee and transfer from Oak Park. Dahlstrom and Dallstream are juniors, with Bob Rankin a sophomore. Reinke is a freshman, recently arrived from Germany.

Next match for Arlington will be this Saturday between halves of the York football game at Elmhurst.

Vena's five TDs lead Hinsdale in 39-14 rout over East Rockford

Fullback Don Vena of Hinsdale personally engineered his team's 39-14 romp over East Rockford Friday night by scoring five touchdowns on runs ranging from 84 to five yards. The final Red Devil touchdown was in a 91-yard sprint by Tom Skubich. Don Stewart kicked three extra points. Hinsdale's sophs won 13-0.

East's varsity fell behind 26-0, before coming to life and closing the gap to 26-14 and later failed to score twice from inside the Hinsdale 5-yard stripe.

Grade schools form 'Little' 7'

A new conference for encouraging interscholastic sports has been organized by seven elementary schools in the Arlington Heights area. The suggestion for the "Little 7" conference originated with H. C. Kibbie of the Prospect Heights school. It became a reality this month at a meeting held at Wheeling.

The member schools are Mt. Prospect, Wheeling, Elk Grove, St. Paul of Mt. Prospect, St. Peter of Arlington, St. James of Arlington, and Prospect Heights.

Jack Norris of Wheeling was elected conference president.

THE SCHOOLS have drawn up baseball and basketball schedules and are planning a track schedule for next spring. The baseball schedule is in effect at present, with the following games listed: Friday, Sept. 28—St. Peter vs. Prospect Heights; Elk Grove vs. Mt. Prospect; and St. Paul vs. Wheeling.

Lake Forest rallies to tie Glenbard, 13-13

Lake Forest high school and Glenbard battled to a 13 to 13 deadlock Saturday in a non-league game at Glenbard. Lake Forest rallied in the fourth quarter when Bob Stanley, fullback, ran around right end for 30 yards. Don Whalen kicked the game tying point.

HEIGHTS OFF TO YORK SATURDAY AS REST OF WEST SUBURBAN OPENS PLAY

by BOB PADDOCK

Arlington Heights high school gridders journey to Elmhurst Saturday for their second West Suburban conference doubleheader with a chance at victory in the offing. Though this may sound a bit optimistic, spirit and hustle of the Cardinal eleven the past two weeks indicates Coach "Bus" Ormsbee's boys could be on the long end this time.

It seems that York, which tied for the cellar last season with a 1-5 record, hasn't copped a football championship since 1945. They have a light squad this year, but have improved over last season. Speed could possibly make up for the lack of weight.

Against Elgin Friday night in the same rain that engulfed Arlington against Marmion, York halfback Jim Heiss dropped the ball twice within six plays, both times ending in Elgin touchdowns. That took the heart out of York in an otherwise fairly even ball game.

Heiss was rushed on the first play from scrimmage on his own 20, the ball squirting from his hands and captured by the Maroon's DeWayne Block. Four plays later Elgin scored. On the second play following the ensuing kickoff Heiss fumbled on the 30, with Elgin's second TD coming five plays later.

FOR ARLINGTON some changes in starting lineup will probably be made. Three sophomores are slated for starting positions, including Dave Brant, relieving Rezek (sick) at tackle; Roger Thomas, relieving Tom Theis (sprained ankle) at fullback; and Dick Winterbauer, who will be alternating with John Eakins at quarterback.

Center of the line will again find Grace, Intravartolo and Cooper continuing their iron man stints. They have yet to be relieved from duty after two games.

Coach Fischer is a new man at York, his most recent coaching position at state teachers' college at Millersville, Penn.

The frosh-soph encounter at York Saturday, September 29, is slated to start at 12:30, with the varsity contest following at 2 p. m. Additional attraction at the game will be completion of the Arlington-York cross country meet between halves.

Wilke to Karrigan pass pulls 6-0 victory out of the water for Bensenville eleven

by BUD BOOTH

History repeated itself in a reverse manner Friday night at Antioch when Bensenville's Bisons opened their 1951 Northwest conference grid schedule with a 6 to 0 conquest of the favored Sequoits. It was just 20 years ago that the teams met in the 1931 league opener with Antioch coming out on the long end of a 6-0 score.

Friday's game, played through intermittent heavy showers, seemed doomed to end in a scoreless tie until the last quarter, when Ken Wilke, Bison quarterback, uncorked a 30-yard pass to end Jim Karrigan. He scooped the aerial in and dashed across the goal for the only touchdown of the night.

THE BENSENVILLE offense, which had the hosts back on their heels most of the time, continually threatened, but, until the victory toss, seemed due to fail. The Sequoits, regarded as one of the better clubs in the NW loop this fall, just couldn't get going. They got into the victor's territory only twice, once on a fumble recovery, and never got nearer to pay dirt than 30 yards.

In the curtain-raiser the Antioch frosh-soph squad downed Bensenville, 12 to 0.

Saturday, September 29, the Bisons will engage Palatine on the latter's field in a night game while the Sequoits play an afternoon contest at Wauconda.

One week of Northwest conference football is past and the teams appear more evenly matched than even we had anticipated. Ela gave Barrington their hands full with a tricky defense that had the Bronchos baffled for a half. Wauconda demonstrated they are out to win some games this year, barring injuries to key performers as they played Palatine to a tie. Actually Palatine tied the game and was fortunate not to come out an upset loser. Northbrook stopped Grant's famed running attack but fell, 14-0, on a pass and a fumble. The Vikings will be no pushover. Bensenville's green Bisons came through over Antioch 6-0 in the rain to start what may turn out to be a better season than that of a year ago when Meneguin had so many big slow veterans.

Bisons vs. Pirates Saturday night at Community Park

This week the Bisons are at Palatine Saturday night in a double bill at 6:30 looking for victory number two. Last year Palatine badly defeated the Bensenville team and, in fact, have beaten them the last two years in a row. We have an idea Palatine will bounce back from that tie with Wauconda and play smarter and more aggressive ball.

Barrington, favored over Northbrook, will have to develop a more varied attack because Northbrook is a tough team against line plunging tactics. Grant should beat Ela by about the same margin they did Northbrook, two touchdowns. Wauconda could beat Antioch Saturday afternoon in their home opener if they play as hard as at Palatine where they lost two touchdowns on bad breaks.

Few basketball players on football squad at Barrington high school

It is a bit early to discuss basketball but October 1 is the day the state rules permit schools to start cage practice. Over at Barrington where Les Harman's Bronchos have successfully bucked everyone in the conference for three years an unusual situation exists as regards early cage practice. Only one of the boys most likely to make the basketball team is playing football and that is center Dave Heckmiller. Harman will start practicing next week with Paulsen, Cochran, Schwemm, Liebertz, Hohfelder, and McGowan who were on last year's tournament squad. That five weeks start will be a big help to Barrington in defending their championship.

Kersten is Wauconda's mighty mite at defensive end

Mike Rose, veteran official, commented after the Palatine-Wauconda game that Norman Kersten of Wauconda had just played the best game at defensive end he had ever seen in the Northwest conference. We would still take Steve Roake of last year but most folks think of Roake mainly for offense.

Anyway, Kersten, who weighs 145 and stands a mere 4 feet 6 inches, played a great game, stopping everything Palatine could throw at his position and making tackles all down the line as he quickly diagnosed Palatine's offense. For a quarterback converted this year to end Kersten certainly has all-league possibilities.

"Lindy" has another top team at Lake Forest

The past two Saturdays Lake Forest high tied Hinsdale and Glenbard of the West Suburban league. This certainly indicates that Edgar Lindenmeyer, the Scouts' coach, has another of his powerful grid combines. In 16 years at Lake Forest the former Missouri All-American tackle has turned in 83 wins and eight ties with but 27 losses.

In nine years in the now defunct Northeast conference "Lindy" came through with three clear titles, one championship tie, and three second places. He has only five lettermen this year but they are extra good and all Lake Forest teams are so well grounded in blocking and tackling that they never have a bad season.

Barrington and Wauconda have extreme records

There are two strings we hope are broken in the Northwest conference this season. One is Barrington's league victories in football, which now total 22 straight. The other is Wauconda's winless record of 15 straight. Wauconda

Hindsdale and Maine after Lyons' title

Just who will cop the West Suburban football championship this year is a mystery but the odds on past record certainly indicate Lyons of LaGrange will be in on the decision.

Because of lack of returning veterans this year, Coach Chuck Bennett decreed no warmup games. Instead he has been drilling newcomers in the hopes of giving them plenty of knowledge prior to the league opener against Hinsdale.

Three regulars are back: fullback Leon McRae, center Bill McHale and halfback Byron Bennett. Reserves of last year certain to see action are Linskey and Elmore at ends, Marvil and Esche at tackles; Kammerschen and Blomberg at guards; and Gillstrom, Clay, McKown and Danner in the backfield.

Lyons copped both divisions of the league last year with identical 6-0 slates, though the varsity was tied by Leyden, 7-all.

AT MAINE this year coach Ken Olsen has nine lettermen back, possibly presenting the strongest opposition to Lyons' quest for another title.

The backfield has Clem Ryan (170) at full, a junior, rated as outstanding on defense, a hard runner, his second year on the varsity. Three halfbacks include Don Glasenapp (165), team punter and member of the state champ relay team in 1950; Bob Peterson (163), outstanding defense man on the first team last season; plus John Weidler (170), senior defense man.

The quarterback spot will be ably handled by Glen French (177), on the first string last year. Two tackles, John Gerfen (200) and John Newstrom (200), provide as good a basis for a forward wall as anything in the league.

At guards are returning veterans Marty Koester (160), rugged and fast; and Marty Mulroy (155), also fast. In warmup games Maine beat Elgin, 35-20, but called off the Thornton contest when the deluge started Friday night.

DOWN HINSDALE way prospects are bright with Coach Harvey Dickinson girding for a tough season. There's plenty of size and speed in spite of only three veterans returning. Lettermen include Otis Bates, 202 pound tackle, a senior; Don Smola, 176 pound all-conference man of last year, also a senior; and fullback Don Vena, 187 pound senior, who tallied five times at Rockford Friday night.

A new conference for encouraging interscholastic sports has been organized by seven elementary schools in the Arlington Heights area. The suggestion for the "Little 7" conference originated with H. C. Kibbie of the Prospect Heights school. It became a reality this month at a meeting held at Wheeling.

The member schools are Mt. Prospect, Wheeling, Elk Grove, St. Paul of Mt. Prospect, St. Peter of Arlington, St. James of Arlington, and Prospect Heights.

Jack Norris of Wheeling was elected conference president.

THE SCHOOLS have drawn up baseball and basketball schedules and are planning a track schedule for next spring. The baseball schedule is in effect at present, with the following games listed: Friday, Sept. 28—St. Peter vs. Prospect Heights; Elk Grove vs. Mt. Prospect; and St. Paul vs. Wheeling.

Little 7 standings

Mt. Prospect	1	0
St. James	1	0
St. Peter	1	0
Wheeling	0	1
Prospect Heights	0	1
St. Paul	0	1

St. Peter 15, Wheeling 5.
St. James 11, St. Paul 4.
Mt. Prospect 13, Prospect Hts. 5.

The ball game played Friday between St. Peter and Wheeling, the latter's hitting was weak and fielding erratic. As a result the Wheeling squad has been concentrating on batting this week. This was the first Wheeling loss in eight games over two years.

Lake Forest rallies to tie Glenbard, 13-13

Lake Forest high school and Glenbard battled to a 13 to 13 deadlock Saturday in a non-league game at Glenbard. Lake Forest rallied in the fourth quarter when Bob Stanley, fullback, ran around right end for 30 yards. Don Whalen kicked the game tying point.

Broncs notch No. 22 in NW; top Ela, 19-7

Barrington opened defense of their long Northwest conference winning streak of 22 straight games and three straight championships by beating Ela-Vernon at Lake Zurich last Saturday, 19-7. Coach Lehmann's Ela Bears put up a stiff defense which held Barrington scoreless through the first half but the Bronchos put over two touchdowns in the third period and another in the fourth to clinch the game. Ela scored against Barrington's second team in the final minutes.

Barrington's first score came on a 39 yard drive with Aspinwall going over from the three yard line on the sixth play. Heckmiller and Aspinwall had alternated carrying the ball. Again in the third quarter Barrington scored with their running attack. After a 15 yard holding penalty had set Barrington back on their heels "Tige" Aspinwall sliced through the line and side-stepped tacklers for a 22 yard gain. On the next play he hit off tackle and cut back for a 19 yard gain to the goal line.

IN THE LAST quarter the Bronchos staged a 42 yard march. Heckmiller hit the line for eight yards. Thomas picked up four and then five. Heckmiller almost got away and was finally hauled down after a 28 yard sprint. A 12 yard pass to Heckmiller in the end zone brought the score and Bently hit the line for the extra point.

Ela tallied soon after when they ran the kickoff back to the Barrington 37 yard line and a few plays later connected on a long 32 yard pass to Stockinger. Ela was held for downs on Barrington's two yard stripe in the first half when the Bronchos got into plenty of trouble due to fumbling.

BARRINGTON BACKS had good running averages. Aspinwall averaged 10.5 yards in eight attempts, Heckmiller averaged six yards and totaled 148 on runs and passes, Bergan had a 4.5 average in eight tries, and Thomas got 16 yards in four trips. Barrington's net offense was 341 yards to Ela's 30.

has had an uphill fight as they started football just two years ago and have been going up against larger squads and larger schools. Last Saturday when they tied with Palatine their students went home singing like they had won. Honestly, we don't think Barrington's string will be broken this season but we are certain that Wauconda will come through with a victory and soon.

Sports shorts

Barrington power rolled up a net of over 450 yards on running plays Saturday to Ela's minus 30 but only won, 19-7. . . . Gerry Herrmann, outstanding track man and captain of the cross country team at Palatine High, is also president of the student council. . . . Jim Beitzel, Libertyville fullback, is rated by Mr. Underbrink, his school principal, as the best line plunger the Wildcats have ever had. That is quite a compliment for Libertyville could list an entire team over the years of all-state performers and Mr. Underbrink has watched them all.

Northwest conference coaches have recommended to the principals' group that admission to conference games be raised from 30c and 60c to 40c and 80c, that a full schedule of freshmen basketball games be carded and that a set order of track events be established. The principals hold their first meeting of the year next Wednesday at Antioch. . . . Barrington has started construction on a new quarter mile running track. This should relieve the situation of having the conference meets at Palatine all the time. . . . They seem never to run out of Schmidts at Northbrook for football. A couple of years ago there were three on the team. This year Ray Schmidt plays guard and Art is the quarterback.

Ed Thommen, who used to coach at Hopedale, is the new varsity basketball coach at Ela. Bill Lehmann, who handled both varsity football and basketball, will take over freshman basketball when his varsity grid season closes. . . . First inquiry about the 1952 Palatine Relays was received this week from Ralph Steben who moved from Wauconda to coach track at Bloom High of Chicago Heights. He wants to enter Bloom in the relay meet and we are going to accept his entry. The new limit for class "A" will be 2,000 enrollment.

Rain wins as Arlington and Marmion battle to 0-0 draw

The rains came—that could easily be the title of Friday night's 0-0 deadlock between Arlington and Marmion of Aurora gridders on the local field as three officials, chain boys, scorer, one pigskin and 22 players glided about in the pouring rain.

The deluge started just as the Heights frosh-sophs were pounding out an 18-0 decision over the visitors. And by the time the varsity kicked off, the field was thoroughly wet with the rain continuing throughout the contest.

IN SPITE of the weather, however, Arlington performed creditably. Their defense was good. A Marmion ball on the Arlington one yard line on a pass interference still did not mean a score as the visitors were pushed back to the four before fumbling.

At that, the fumbles weren't too disastrous as both teams recovered most of their own miscues. The Marmion single wing attack proved a better policy in the rain, with ace fullback Bi-Muzzi hitting the Heights' line again and again. Arlington's T-formation tempts the fates of fumbling in wet weather and could possibly have fared better on a dry field.

HEIGHTS' substitutes were bright spots in the Arlington picture, though the entire line played another good game. Strauss and Klehm both played well ,as did Cummins, subbing for Leckband as linebacker.

Leckband and Brant were both out due to illness, though the former was on the bench in civvies in spite of a 101 fever. Rezek was also sick, seeing action only part of one quarter.

ONCE AGAIN Arlington's forward wall played an iron man game as three boys were never relieved. Ronnie Grace at guard, John Cooper at tackle, and Intravartolo at center were in the entire contest. They have 96 minutes playing time toward their letters in the first two games. Sander saw action all but a few minutes of the game.

There were two injuries during the night. R. L. Buss, Marmion frosh-soph, suffered a broken collar bone, while Denny Snyder, Marmion varsity left half, dislocated a hip. Snyder was taped heavily starting the game as a result of a previous injury.

HEIGHTS WON the preliminary, 18-0, when the locals pushed across three scores just before the rain started. Hauff scored the first one on a 15 yard dash, with the attempt for extra point by running failing in the third period after a scoreless first half.

Two off tackle runs, one from the two yard line, accounted for the other two touchdowns with Werner carrying the ball.

OUTSTANDING for Arlington was the Dotts-to-Lemke passing combination which clicked, spreading Marmion wide and making Arlington's running game work. Hauff performed creditably as line backer.

Outstanding for Marmion was their punter who kicked out of danger time after time. In fact, Arlington had to kick the first four times it had the ball due to Marmion's long punts.

The Heights defense held the last three quarters after a shaky opening period.

Men, who are interested in hunting, fishing, etc., are cordially invited.

Trotters end season with 334-6 record

A number of basketball records went by the boards when the Harlem Globe Trotters recently completed their 1950-51 season. The Negro quintet, owned and coached by Abe Saperstein of Chicago, wound up with a record of 334 victories against only six defeats for a percentage of .982.

Their 25 season total stands at 3,908 victories against 252 defeats and one tie. The Trotters' silver anniversary season will begin at Chicago Stadium Oct. 19.

Wauconda spirit and speed hold Palatine

Palatine and Wauconda battled to a 6-6 tie in the Northwest conference opening game for both teams Saturday night at Palatine Community Park. Wauconda scored in the second quarter on running plays after blocking a Palatine punt. Palatine tallied at the start of the third quarter on a 60 yard march culminating in a touchdown pass from Abrahamson to Grever. Both teams missed their kicks for extra points.

At the start of the second quarter Zoellick of Palatine stopped Wauconda by intercepting a pass on his own 20. A little later Zoellick's punt was blocked and Wauconda took over on the 18. Moestue chalked up 14 yards through the line on the first play and Nolan hit the middle for two and then smashed over for the touchdown. The place kick was wide.

SOON AFTER Palatine punted to the Wauconda 45 yard line where George Sutko, speedy Bulldog half back, reversed his field and ran 55 yards to the goal. Wauconda roughed the kicker though and Palatine took a first down, their only one of the first half, on the resulting 15 yard penalty. However the Pirates soon fumbled and Wauconda recovered and when Wauconda punted Palatine again lost the ball on a fumble on their own 28 yard line. Wauconda could not gain however and the threat ended.

Just before the half, Harry Frette, Palatine guard, snared a Wauconda pass at midfield and had a 10 yard lead on the field but was overtaken and downed on the Wauconda 13 yard line by George Sutko. With 10 seconds left in the half Palatine elected to run the ball and used up the time on one unsuccessful play.

WITH BOB WARD making the long gains Palatine took the second half kickoff and marched 60 yards to a touchdown including four first downs. The final play was a 10 yard pass from Dick Abrahamson to Walter Grever in the end zone. Lorden's place kick was straight but under the cross bar.

There was plenty of action in the final quarter. Wauconda's hopes rose with a 35 yard pass completion from Bob Nolan to sophomore brother Tom Nolan, but Palatine's defense stiffened and the threat ended. Later Palatine blocked a punt and had the ball on the Wauconda 33 but could go nowhere and gave up the ball on downs. Right away Dan Day intercepted a Wauconda pass and two first downs took the ball to the Wauconda 15. Two plays failed and then a plat pass was intercepted by Bob Nolan who was in the clear but slipped and fell at the 35 yard line. Sutko ran Palatine's left end for 12 yards as the game ended.

The game statistics favored Palatine by quite a margin, but for team spirit, speed, and individual performance Wauconda was superior.

WAUCONDA played inspired ball the first half and later faltered only due to lack of manpower in the face of injuries to key players. Norman Kersten, little Wauconda end, played the best game of any man on the field and looked like one of the top performer in the conference with his unusual defensive playing. George Sutko and Bob Nolan were Wauconda's best backs but both lost effectiveness in the second half due to injuries.

Bob Ward and Dan Day bore the brunt of the Palatine ball carrying which netted 110 yards to Wauconda's 33. Ward had a net of 80 yards in 14 plays, Day made 27 in nine plays, and Nessett 16 yards in six tries. Palatine completed four passes for 44 yards in 10 attempts including three interceptions. Wauconda made good on three passes out of 10 for 57 yards having two intercepted.

Wauconda was handicapped by 11 penalties which nullified their best gains including the calling back of a long touchdown run. Palatine's worst offense was three fumbles they allowed Wauconda to recover.

It was a moral victory for Coach Haley's Wauconda team as the Bulldogs have yet to win a Northwest conference football game in three seasons they have played the sport.

PALATINE'S frosh-sophs won the preliminary, 25-6, on long runs by Norman Stenzel. Palatine failed to score in the first period when penalties nullified two scoring chances, including a 50 yard run by Stenzel. In the second quarter "Tinker" Meyer went over from the two yard line after a drive in which Stenzel and McElroy each had runs of more than 10 yards. A little later McElroy threw a pass to Breyer who lateraled to Jesse and the latter ran 70 yards to score. Meyer place kicked the point and the half ended 13-0.

Early in the second half Stenzel carried the ball three times in a row and traveled a total of 55 yards for a touchdown. Late in the game Wauconda completed a long pass for first down on the Palatine 10 yard line. Palatine held for downs on the 5 and on the first play Stenzel on a reverse ran 95 yards for a touchdown. On the kickoff which followed Wauconda ran the ball all the way back to score their lone tally.

Palatine's squad showed much promise but was playing one of its weaker opponents since six of Wauconda's sophomores play with their varsity team and are not available for frosh-soph ball.

Steve Roake moves up to quarterback

Steve Roake of Barrington has shifted from end into the top junior varsity quarterback slot on the University of Washington football team. Steve is only a freshman.

The switch and promotion came about when Don Heinrich, all-American quarterback, suffered a shoulder separation.

Heinrich's injury will sideline him at least six weeks, possibly the entire season. Coach Howie Odell moved four quarterbacks up to the varsity, leaving the jayvee team with no signal caller. After looking over the talent Coach Johnny Cherberg decided to switch Steve from end and give him the key T-formation spot.

Second quarter rush beats Downers Grove

Naperville high school scored two touchdowns in the second quarter Saturday to hand Downers Grove a 13 to 0 defeat in an exhibition football game in Downers Grove. Ronald Haidau raced off left tackle in the second quarter for a 42 yard touchdown jaunt.

Honestly, we don't think Barrington's string will be broken this season but we are certain that Wauconda will come through with a victory and soon.

Sports shorts

Barrington power rolled up a net of over 450 yards on running plays Saturday to Ela's minus 30 but only won, 19-7. . . . Gerry Herrmann, outstanding track man and captain of the cross country team at Palatine High, is also president of the student council. . . . Jim Beitzel, Libertyville fullback, is rated by Mr. Underbrink, his school principal, as the best line plunger the Wildcats have ever had. That is quite a compliment for Libertyville could list an entire team over the years of all-state performers and Mr. Underbrink has watched them all.

Northwest conference coaches have recommended to the principals' group that admission to conference games be raised from 30c and 60c to 40c and 80c, that a full schedule of freshmen basketball games be carded and that a set order of track events be established. The principals hold their first meeting of the year next Wednesday at Antioch. . . . Barrington has started construction on a new quarter mile running track. This should relieve the situation of having the conference meets at Palatine all the time. . . . They seem never to run out of Schmidts at Northbrook for football. A couple of years ago there were three on the team. This year Ray Schmidt plays guard and Art is the quarterback. Ed Thommen, who used to coach at Hopedale, is the new varsity basketball coach at Ela. Bill Lehmann, who handled both varsity football and basketball, will take over freshman basketball when his varsity grid season closes. . . . First inquiry about the 1952 Palatine Relays was received this week from Ralph Steben who moved from Wauconda to coach track at Bloom High of Chicago Heights. He wants to enter Bloom in the relay meet and we are going to accept his entry. The new limit for class "A" will be 2,000 enrollment.

The rains came—that could easily be the title of Friday night's 0-0 deadlock between Arlington and Marmion of Aurora gridders on the local field as three officials, chain boys, scorer, one pigskin and 22 players glided about in the pouring rain.

The deluge started just as the Heights frosh-sophs were pounding out an 18-0 decision over the visitors. And by the time the varsity kicked off, the field was thoroughly wet with the rain continuing throughout the contest.

IN SPITE of the weather, however, Arlington performed creditably. Their defense was good. A Marmion ball on the Arlington one yard line on a pass interference still did not mean a score as the visitors were pushed back to the four before fumbling.

At that, the fumbles weren't too disastrous as both teams recovered most of their own miscues. The Marmion single wing attack proved a better policy in the rain, with ace fullback Bi-Muzzi hitting the Heights' line again and again. Arlington's T-formation tempts the fates of fumbling in wet weather and could possibly have fared better on a dry field.

HEIGHTS' substitutes were bright spots in the Arlington picture, though the entire line played another good game. Strauss and Klehm both played well as did Cummins, subbing for Leckband as linebacker.

Leckband and Brant were both out due to illness, though the former was on the bench in civvies in spite of a 101 fever. Rezek was also sick, seeing action only part of one quarter.

ONCE AGAIN Arlington's forward wall played an iron man game as three boys were never relieved. Ronnie Grace at guard, John Cooper at tackle, and Intravartolo at center were in the entire contest. They have 96 minutes playing time toward their letters in the first two games. Sander saw action all but a few minutes of the game.

There were two injuries during the night. R. L. Buss, Marmion frosh-soph, suffered a broken collar bone, while Denny Snyder, Marmion varsity left half, dislocated a hip. Snyder was taped heavily starting the game as a result of a previous injury.

HEIGHTS WON the preliminary, 18-0, when the locals pushed across three scores just before the rain started. Hauff scored the first one on a 15 yard dash, with the attempt for extra point by running failing in the third period after a scoreless first half.

Two off tackle runs, one from the two yard line, accounted for the other two touchdowns with Werner carrying the ball.

OUTSTANDING for Arlington was the Dotts-to-Lemke passing combination which clicked, spreading Marmion wide and making Arlington's running game work. Hauff performed rcreditably as line backer.

Outstanding for Marmion was their punter who kicked out of danger time after time. In fact, Arlington had to kick the first four times it had the ball due to Marmion's long punts.

The Heights defense held the last three quarters after a shaky opening period.

Sportsmen's club holds first meeting

Men, who are interested in hunting, fishing, etc., are cordially invited.

Trotters end season with 334-6 record

A number of basketball records went by the boards when the Harlem Globe Trotters recently completed their 1950-51 season. The Negro quintet, owned and coached by Abe Saperstein of Chicago, wound up with a record of 334 victories against only six defeats for a percentage of .982.

Their 25 season total stands at 3,908 victories against 252 defeats and one tie. The Trotters' silver anniversary season will begin at Chicago Stadium Oct. 19.

Wauconda spirit and speed hold Palatine

Palatine and Wauconda battled to a 6-6 tie in the Northwest conference opening game for both teams Saturday night at Palatine Community Park. Wauconda scored in the second quarter on running plays after blocking a Palatine punt. Palatine tallied at the start of the third quarter on a 60 yard march culminating in a touchdown pass from Abrahamson to Grever. Both teams missed their kicks for extra points.

At the start of the second quarter Zoellick of Palatine stopped Wauconda by intercepting a pass on his own 20. A little later Zoellick's punt was blocked and Wauconda took over on the 18. Moestue chalked up 14 yards through the line on the first play and Nolan hit the middle for two and then smashed over for the touchdown. The place kick was wide.

SOON AFTER Palatine punted to the Wauconda 45 yard line where George Sutko, speedy Bulldog half back, reversed his field and ran 55 yards to the goal. Wauconda roughed the kicker though and Palatine took a first down, their only one of the first half, on the resulting 15 yard penalty. However the Pirates soon fumbled and Wauconda recovered and when Wauconda punted Palatine again lost the ball on a fumble on their own 28 yard line. Wauconda could not gain however and the threat ended.

Just before the half, Harry Frette, Palatine guard, snared a Wauconda pass at midfield and had a 10 yard lead on the field but was overtaken and downed on the Wauconda 13 yard line by George Sutko. With 10 seconds left in the half Palatine elected to run the ball and used up the time on one unsuccessful play.

WITH BOB WARD making the long gains Palatine took the second half kickoff and marched 60 yards to a touchdown including four first downs. The final play was a 10 yard pass from Dick Abrahamson to Walter Grever in the end zone. Lorden's place kick was straight but under the cross bar.

There was plenty of action in the final quarter. Wauconda's hopes rose with a 35 yard pass completion from Bob Nolan to sophomore brother Tom Nolan, but Palatine's defense stiffened and the threat ended. Later Palatine blocked a punt and had the ball on the Wauconda 33 but could go nowhere and gave up the ball on downs. Right away Dan Day intercepted a Wauconda pass and two first downs took the ball to the Wauconda 15. Two plays failed and then a plat pass was intercepted by Bob Nolan who was in the clear but slipped and fell at the 35 yard line. Sutko ran Palatine's left end for 12 yards as the game ended.

The game statistics favored Palatine by quite a margin, but for team spirit, speed, and individual performance Wauconda was superior.

WAUCONDA played inspired ball the first half and later faltered only due to lack of manpower in the face of injuries to key players. Norman Kersten, little Wauconda end, played the best game of any man on the field and looked like one of the top performer in the conference with his unusual defensive playing. George Sutko and Bob Nolan were Wauconda's best backs but both lost effectiveness in the second half due to injuries.

Bob Ward and Dan Day bore the brunt of the Palatine ball carrying which netted 110 yards to Wauconda's 33. Ward had a net of 80 yards in 14 plays, Day made 27 in nine plays, and Nessett 16 yards in six tries. Palatine completed four passes for 44 yards in 10 attempts including three interceptions. Wauconda made good on three passes out of 10 for 57 yards having two intercepted.

Wauconda was handicapped by 11 penalties which nullified their best gains including the calling back of a long touchdown run. Palatine's worst offense was three fumbles they allowed Wauconda to recover.

It was a moral victory for Coach Haley's Wauconda team as the Bulldogs have yet to win a Northwest conference football game in three seasons they have played the sport.

PALATINE'S frosh-sophs won the preliminary, 25-6, on long runs by Norman Stenzel. Palatine failed to score in the first period when penalties nullified two scoring chances, including a 50 yard run by Stenzel. In the second quarter "Tinker" Meyer went over from the two yard line after a drive in which Stenzel and McElroy each had runs of more than 10 yards. A little later McElroy threw a pass to Breyer who lateraled to Jesse and the latter ran 70 yards to score. Meyer place kicked the point and the half ended 13-0.

Early in the second half Stenzel carried the ball three times in a row and traveled a total of 55 yards for a touchdown. Late in the game Wauconda completed a long pass for first down on the Palatine 10 yard line. Palatine held for downs on the 5 and on the first play Stenzel on a reverse ran 95 yards for a touchdown. On the kickoff which followed Wauconda ran the ball all the way back to score their lone tally.

Palatine's squad showed much promise but was playing one of its weaker opponents since six of Wauconda's sophomores play with their varsity team and are not available for frosh-soph ball.

Steve Roake moves up to quarterback

Steve Roake of Barrington has shifted from end into the top junior varsity quarterback slot on the University of Washington football team. Steve is only a freshman.

The switch and promotion came about when Don Heinrich, all-American quarterback, suffered a shoulder separation.

Heinrich's injury will sideline him at least six weeks, possibly the entire season. Coach Howie Odell moved four quarterbacks up to the varsity, leaving the jayvee team with no signal caller. After looking over the talent Coach Johnny Cherberg decided to switch Steve from end and give him the key T-formation spot.

Second quarter rush beats Downers Grove

Naperville high school scored two touchdowns in the second quarter Saturday to hand Downers Grove a 13 to 0 defeat in an exhibition football game in Downers Grove. Ronald Haidau raced off left tackle in the second quarter for a 42 yard touchdown jaunt.

UCLA series a thriller for Illini

The U.C.L.A. football team moves into Memorial Stadium Saturday for its third game with Illinois in a short, thrill-packed series. The Bruins, twice losers to the Big Ten school, should provide the Illini with one of their most formidable 1951 opponents.

Hostilities began New Year's Day, 1947, in Pasadena. Illinois, Big Ten champs in 1946, entered the Rose Bowl under a storm of protests and embarrassed the previously unbeaten Bruins, 45 to 14. The game inaugurated a five-year bowl pact between the two conferences, and the Pacific Coast has yet to experience a happy New Year's Day.

With the Los Angeles Coliseum as the battleground, Illinois and U.C.L.A. clashed for the second time, on a hot October night of last year. The Illini overcame 80-degree temperatures and a fighting Bruin team that Coach Red Sanders had taught to block and tackle, 14 to 6.

ILLINOIS passing attack struck quickly in the first period. Quarterback Fred Major connected with end Tony Klimek for a 52-yard pass play. Shortly afterwards Major lobbed a nine-yard pass to Klimek in the end zone and Sam Rebecca's kick gave Illinois a 7-0 halftime margin.

U.C.L.A. defenders shadowed Illini halfback Johnny Karras all evening, but the 175-pounder had occasional chances to show the finesse that gave him the Big Ten rushing title in 1949. Once, trapped six yards behind scrimmage, Karras twisted his way clear of 7 additional yards and a first down.

The man who gave the 1950 Uclans a glimpse of the Illini ghosts that still haunt their predecessors was Dick "Rocky" Raklovits, Illinois fullback. In the third quarter, Rocky, who gained 114 yards during the game, broke through center and simply outran the USLA secondardy for a 76-yard touchdown sprint. Rebecca added the extra point and Illinois led 14-0.

Bears to open league Sunday at Green Bay

Just whether the Chicago Bears are as bad as they looked in the topsy-turvy football exhibition circuit will perhaps be proven Sunday afternoon at Green Bay when the Halasmen open the official National league schedule as guests of the Packers.

Once again Sunday that "something" so prevalent in Bear teams of the past was missing against the Pittsburgh Steelers as the Chicagoans fell, 23-21. A missed field goal attempt by Lujack could have provided the winning margin.

The Bears begin the season with such all-league stars as George Connor, Dick Barwegen, Ray Bray, Johnny Lujack and Ed Sprinkle, plus Paul Stenn, Fred Davis, Bulldog Turner, George Gulyanics, Julie Rykovich and John Hoffman. They can be counted upon to deliver the goods as they have in the past.

CONSIDERABLE improvement is expected from the current "sophomores," Chuck Hunsinger, Bill Wightkin, Harper Davis, Fred Morrison, Steve Romanik, Al Campana, Wayne Hansen and John O'Quinn.

Bear officials regard the 1951 rookie crop as one of the best in years. Wilford "Whizzer" White, the breakaway runner from Arizona, already has won his spurs. He shapes up as a real touchdown threat both as a running halfback and pass receiver. Other newcomers who are bidding strongly for top recognition are John "Kayo" Dottley, the big fullback from the University of Mississippi; Gene Schroeder, swift end from the University of Virginia; Brad Rowland, Little All American from McMurry college; Bob Williams, Herb Falkenberg, Les Cowan, Bob Moser and Billy Stone, who was acquired from the defunct Baltimore Colts. White, Dottley, Schroeder, Rowland and Cowan starred against the Cleveland Browns in the Armed Forces game at Soldier Field. They give promise of developing into standouts.

BIGGEST JOB for this week for Coach Halas and aides Johnsos, Driscoll and Shaughnessy is the weeding of a dozen players from the roster to reach the 33 limit. Some veterans are certain to disappear from the scene.

'Silver Whistle' first theatre guild play at Des Plaines

The Des Plaines Theatre Guild is opening the 1951-52 season with a new comedy recently presented in New York and Chicago by the New York theatre guild and American theatre society, at that time featuring Jose Ferrer in the leading role.

It is a different type comedy story, based around a tramp who finds a birth certificate for a man much older than himself and uses it for his entree to get into an old people's home. He is trying to develop a theory to find out whether or not he wants to become old. The entire play revolves around this psyhcology and the things he does to change the thinking of the old people who are residents of this home plus the ministerial sponsors of the home.

"The Silver Whistle" (October 18, 19, 20) will be sponsored Saturday evening by the Mr. and Mrs. Club of the Park Ridge Methodist church. Friday evening's performance is sponsored by the Des Plaines Theatre Guild. Admission Friday and Saturday nights is $1.00. Tickets are available from members of both groups and Speigler's department store.

Tickets for the first nighters season, the Thursday night productions, are still available at $2.50 for the season (four plays).

The Bears begin the season with such all-league stars as George Connor, Dick Barwegen, Ray Bray, Johnny Lujack and Ed Sprinkle, plus Paul Stenn, Fred Davis, Bulldog Turner, George Gulyanics, Julie Rykovich and John Hoffman. They can be counted upon to deliver the goods as they have in the past.

CONSIDERABLE improvement is expected from the current "sophomores," Chuck Hunsinger, Bill Wightkin, Harper Davis, Fred Morrison, Steve Romanik, Al Campana, Wayne Hansen and John O'Quinn.

Bear officials regard the 1951 rookie crop as one of the best in years. Wilford "Whizzer" White, the breakaway runner from Arizona, already has won his spurs. He shapes up as a real touchdown threat both as a running halfback and pass receiver. Other newcomers who are bidding strongly for top recognition are John "Kayo" Dottley, the big fullback from the University of Mississippi; Gene Schroeder, swift end from the University of Virginia; Brad Rowland, Little All American from McMurry college; Bob Williams, Herb Falkenberg, Les Cowan, Bob Moser and Billy Stone, who was acquired from the defunct Baltimore Colts. White, Dottley, Schroeder, Rowland and Cowan starred against the Cleveland Browns in the Armed Forces game at Soldier Field. They give promise of developing into standouts.

BIGGEST JOB for this week for Coach Halas and aides Johnsos, Driscoll and Shaughnessy is the weeding of a dozen players from the roster to reach the 33 limit. Some veterans are certain to disappear from the scene.

'Silver Whistle' first theatre guild play at Des Plaines

The Des Plaines Theatre Guild is opening the 1951-52 season with a new comedy recently presented in New York and Chicago by the New York theatre guild and American theatre society, at that time featuring Jose Ferrer in the leading role.

It is a different type comedy story, based around a tramp who finds a birth certificate for a man much older than himself and uses it for his entree to get into an old people's home. He is trying to develop a theory to find out whether or not he wants to become old. The entire play revolves around this psychology and the things he does to change the thinking of the old people who are residents of this home plus the ministerial sponsors of the home.

"The Silver Whistle" (October 18, 19, 20) will be sponsored Saturday evening by the Mr. and Mrs. Club of the Park Ridge Methodist church. Friday evening's performance is sponsored by the Des Plaines Theatre Guild. Admission Friday and Saturday nights is $1.00. Tickets are available from members of both groups and Speigler's department store.

Tickets for the first nighters season, the Thursday night productions, are still available at $2.50 for the season (four plays).

PAINT FURNITURE

It is easier to paint furniture after all metal hardware has been removed. Difficult parts should be painted first, leaving the top, exposed surfaces until last. A small brush should be used to achieve a thin, even coat over the entire surface.

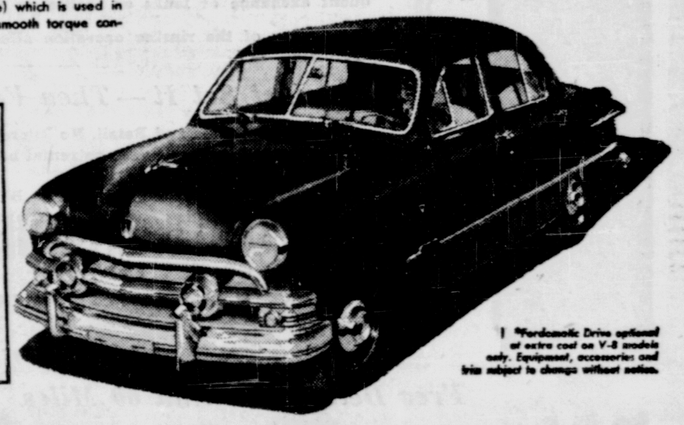
Just touch and GO

IN FORDOMATIC YOU GET THE NEWEST, SMOOTHEST, MOST FLEXIBLE AUTOMATIC DRIVE THERE IS!

Traffic or open country, driving's a cinch with Fordomatic. For a touch on the gas pedal gives you just the right amount of power you need. And unlike other drives with only automatic gears, you'll enjoy smoother acceleration with Fordomatic. Unlike those with just a torque converter, you'll notice no lag or power slip. You see, Fordomatic combines the best features of both types of drives!

LIGHTNING FAST GETAWAY! Fordomatic gives faster starts because Fordomatic has an extra automatic gear (intermediate) which is used in combination with the liquid smooth torque converter.

CHOICE OF 3 GREAT DRIVES!
Only Ford, among all the low-priced cars, gives you a choice of three transmissions. You can get new Fordomatic,* the finest, most flexible automatic drive. And you can get free and easy Overdrive* that not only saves your engine, but saves up to 15% on fuel! Or, if you prefer, you can have Conventional Drive.



* Fordomatic Drive optional at extra cost on V-8 models only. Equipment, accessories and trim subject to change without notice.

EASIER ROCKING! It's even easier to "rock" out of mud, sand or snow with Fordomatic than with Conventional Drive. All you do is flick the drive selector between low (LO) and reverse (R)!

COMBINES BEST FEATURES OF PREVIOUS DRIVES. Fordomatic offers you the smoothness and flexibility of fluid torque converter plus automatic gears. It starts where the others left off.

YOU'RE BOSS EVERY SECOND!
Unlike all other automatics, Fordomatic can be safely put into "LO" at speeds up to 70 m.p.h., for safe engine holdback on down-grades! And, for automatic passing power, you only have to step down on the gas pedal to shift the transmission into passing gear.

You can pay more, but you can't buy better!

With Merchant Marine

Wesley Kurtz, a cadet-midshipman of the United States Merchant Marine academy, was assigned to the Watermann steamship company office for one month beginning August 5. Cadet-Midshipman Kurtz is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Kurtz of 657 Prairie ave., Des Plaines.

This assignment was an important part of his four year curriculum of intensive scientific, academic, and practical study. It was designed to enable him to become acquainted with the methods of operation of a shipping office, so that he may better understand the interrelation between the shore side of ship operation and the actual sailing of the company's vessels.

Cadet-Midshipman Kurtz entered the Merchant Marine cadet corps in September of 1948. He received his basic education at Pass Christian, Miss. During his year of practical training at sea, cadet-midshipman Kurtz served aboard the SS Margaret Lykes, MV Del Rio, SS. Tillie Lykes. His sea year included visits to such ports as France, Italy, Spain, Holland, Germany, Belgium, Liberia, and Cuba, enabling him to evaluate the commercial, political, and economic conditions of the countries engaged in beneficial trade with the United States.

Cadet-midshipman Kurtz graduated from Arlington Heights high school.

Upon graduation from the Merchant Marine academy in August of 1952, cadet-midshipman Kurtz will receive a bachelor of science degree, a license as third officer, and concurrent commissions as ensign, United States naval reserve and ensign, United States maritime service.

From Korea

Edward O. Johnson, machinist's mate fireman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Olaf J. Johnson of 119 Hill st., Mt. Prospect, has recently returned to the U. S. aboard the high speed transport USS Begor.

The Begor participated in the UN amphibious operation at Hungnam, and later transported a Navy Underwater Demolition team to make night reconnaissance and hit and run raids all along the Korean coast.

As a part of the UN Blockading and Escort Force she took part in coastal bombardment of important Communist ports along Korean east coast.

In Korea

Word has been received from Pfc. Robert E. Camm of Wheeling giving a change of address—Pfc. Robert E. Camm, No 1167679 U.S.M.C. 1st S.P. B.N. "C" Company, First Marine Div. F.M.F. % F.P.O. San Francisco, Calif.

He writes from Korea: "We are handling supplies now and they usually are 150 lb. boxes of mortar shells, rifle bullets, or anything else that you can shoot with. They have a new way of hauling—instead of trucks, they use helicopters.

"Yesterday we went up to about 75 yards from the front line and what a sight that was. After the supplies were unloaded, we loaded up with wounded men—two of them died before we got back. The helicopters only haul the really serious cases and yesterday 250 were hauled out from only one division.

"Before the helicopters can land we have to climb to the ground on ropes to clear a place for them and that means work. The land is all mountains, covered with trees and underbrush, and it has to be level, with the trees and underbrush cut away for an area about 100 feet square, and this has to be done in just a few minutes."

He hasn't received any mail since arriving in Korea, but hopes that with this new, permanent address the mail will be coming through regularly and is anxiously awaiting his mail from home.

'Silver payday' to focus attention on Culligan plant in Northbrook

The clinking of heavy silver in the cash registers and pockets of Northbrook and other suburbs will be a reminder next week that the Culligan Zeolite company is opening a new plant in that Chicago suburb.

The plant opening, coinciding with the 15th anniversary of the firm, will be held Saturday, Oct. 13. As an advance notice, all 195 employees of the firm will be paid in silver dollars Wednesday, Oct. 3, the regular payday.

More than 20,000 of the cart wheels will go into the community to serve as a reminder of the close relationship that exists between the company and the community. Culligan manufactures zeolite-type service water softeners and other water treatment equipment and chemicals for the more than 1,000 Culligan soft water service dealers throughout the United States and Canada.

The company was founded by Emmett J. Culligan in Northbrook in 1936, a bad year for the nation's business and citizens. Culligan arrived in Northbrook with a stake of only $50 in his pocket. He persuaded the Northbrook city council to let him use the paved streets of a defunct subdivision to dry zeolite, a man-made mineral which is the substance used in the Culligan service softeners.

Easy Rug Dye

Household rugs as large as 9x12 feet can now be dyed right on the floor with a new concentrated liquid dye. The dye, called "Rugadub," is mixed with water, and applied with an ordinary scrub brush on pile-type, woven or hooked rugs. It comes in billiard green, deep hedge green, tobacco brown, maroon and midnight blue and is said to dry to a smooth, even color overnight.

Gems of thought

SILENCE

"Speech is silvern, Silence is golden"; or, as I might rather express it, Speech is of Time, Silence is of Eternity."

—Thomas Carlyle.

Surely human affairs would be far happier if the power in men to be silent were the same as that to speak. But experience more than sufficiently teaches that men govern nothing with more difficulty than their tongues.

—Benedict Spinoza.

If people would confine their talk to subjects that are profitable, that which St. John informs us took place once in heaven, would happen very frequently on earth, — silence for the space of half an hour.

—Mary Baker Eddy.

The temple of our purest thoughts is silence.

—Mrs. S. J. Hale.

Blessed is the man who, having nothing to say, abstains from giving wordy evidence of the fact.

—George Eliot.

'Silver payday' to focus attention on Culligan plant in Northbrook

The clinking of heavy silver in the cash registers and pockets of Northbrook and other suburbs will be a reminder next week that the Culligan Zeolite company is opening a new plant in that Chicago suburb.

The plant opening, coinciding with the 15th anniversary of the firm, will be held Saturday, Oct. 13. As an advance notice, all 195 employees of the firm will be paid in silver dollars Wednesday, Oct. 3, the regular payday.

More than 20,000 of the cart wheels will go into the community to serve as a reminder of the close relationship that exists between the company and the community. Culligan manufactures zeolite-type service water softeners and other water treatment equipment and chemicals for the more than 1,000 Culligan soft water service dealers throughout the United States and Canada.

The company was founded by Emmett J. Culligan in Northbrook in 1936, a bad year for the nation's business and citizens. Culligan arrived in Northbrook with a stake of only $50 in his pocket. He persuaded the Northbrook city council to let him use the paved streets of a defunct subdivision to dry zeolite, a man-made mineral which is the substance used in the Culligan service softeners.

Easy Rug Dye

Household rugs as large as 9x12 feet can now be dyed right on the floor with a new concentrated liquid dye. The dye, called "Rugadub," is mixed with water, and applied with an ordinary scrub brush on pile-type, woven or hooked rugs. It comes in billiard green, deep hedge green, tobacco brown, maroon and midnight blue and is said to dry to a smooth, even color overnight.

Gems of thought

SILENCE

"Speech is silvern, Silence is golden"; or, as I might rather express it, Speech is of Time, Silence is of Eternity."

—Thomas Carlyle.

Surely human affairs would be far happier if the power in men to be silent were the same as that to speak. But experience more than sufficiently teaches that men govern nothing with more difficulty than their tongues.

—Benedict Spinoza.

If people would confine their talk to subjects that are profitable, that which St. John informs us took place once in heaven, would happen very frequently on earth,—silence for the space of half an hour.

—Mary Baker Eddy.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

That the joyous and comforting truths in the Bible are for man's immediate recognition and acceptance, will be explained in next Sunday's services in all Churches of Christ, Scientist. The title of the Lesson-Sermon on Sunday, September 30, is "REALITY."

The Golden Text is from Jeremiah (51: 10) "The Lord hath brought forth our righteousness: come, and let us declare in Zion the work of the Lord our God."

Bible selections (King James Version) in the Lesson-Sermon include these passages:

"And he opened his mouth and taught them, saying . . . Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled . . . Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God" (Matt. 5: 2, 6, 8).

Selections from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures", by Mary Baker Eddy, include:

"The understanding of his spiritual individuality makes man more real, more formidable in truth, and enables him to conquer sin, disease, and death . . . Let unselfishness, goodness, mercy, justice, health, holiness, love—the kingdom of heaven—reign within us, and sin, disease, and death will diminish until they finally disappear" (pp. 317, 248).

Lutheran Hour rally at Stadium Sunday

The sixth Chicagoland Lutheran Hour rally, based on the theme, "Send Out Thy Truth," will be held Sunday afternoon, September 30, at 2:45, in the Chicago Stadium, 1800 W. Madison st., Chicago.

Highlight of the rally program will be a dynamic and colorful pageant "Christianity Through the Ages" depicting the spread of Christianity from the days of the Apostle Paul through the time of Martin Luther and the Reformation. More than fifty narrated scenes, chronicling an authentic and historically accurate portrayal of events, will be projected in fine color photography on two oversize translucent screens, while costumed members of the cast of 400 provide living dramatizations of the activities.

This elaborate pageant will close in a climactic crescendo with its presentation of the modern missionary miracle, the International Lutheran Hour broadcasts, whereby the fundamental doctrines of Christianity are proclaimed each Sunday to a radio audience of 20,000,000 listeners over 1,034 stations in 52 countries. It will be at this point in the rally pageant that Rev. Prof. Oldsen will deliver a short address.

A fifteen minute pre-pageant demonstration of the color organ will open the afternoon program at 2:45 o'clock. A unique fantasia will display dazzling color harmonies in never-duplicating designs, while a cantata chorus of 200 trained voices and the mighty Stadium pipe organ resound in musical settings.

A Lecture on Christian Science

Entitled

Christian Science: God's Antidote for Trouble

Paul Stark Seeley, C. S. B.
of Portland, Oregon

Member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The lecture was given Sunday, September 23, at Arlington Heights high school under the auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Arlington Heights.

The lecturer spoke substantially as follows:

One of the commonest things in the world is trouble. Nearly everyone has some of it. There are many kinds. A few are sin, sickness, sorrow, fear, lack, discouragement, strife, and world problems. One thing all men can agree on: they would all like to be rid of trouble. It is mankind's number-one enemy. Trouble takes the joy out of life; it robs us of happiness, health, and peace. The common need of everyone, everywhere, is to learn how to get rid of trouble. Christian Science provides this knowhow.

Where Trouble Originates

The first step towards getting rid of trouble is to find out what causes trouble. Then one can better judge the means suited to getting rid of it. Christian Science exposes its source as being the devil, God's opposite; not a hoofed and horned person, but the one evil, material mind. All trouble-making thoughts such as sin, fear, hate, selfishness, and cruelty derive from this evil sense of mind. Furthermore, it is this evil, material sense of mind, not God, which produces the material, Adamic concept of man who is mortal, afflictable, and as Job says, "of few days, and full of trouble" (Job 14:1), in contrast to the true and spiritual man, made, as the Bible says, in God's likeness.

All should know that Christian Science is based on the Bible. It teaches nothing which is at variance with the Scriptures. Christian Scientists use the King James Version of the Bible, and they diligently study it. At every Sunday service a Lesson-Sermon is read, consisting of chosen references from the Bible and from Science and Health.

Trying to get rid of disease, or any trouble, without knowing the nature of its cause, is like trying to get rid of an obnoxious weed by slashing at its top, leaving its root to sprout again. "Every plant," said Jesus, "which my heavenly Father hath not planted, shall be rooted up" (Matt. 15:13). To uproot the trouble plant you must master the evil mind that is its root. Christian Science does this.

An eminent physician saw something of the mental cause for disease when he said, "A man cannot fear, he cannot hate, he cannot worry intellectually; he does these things with all his organs." A hate "jag," or a fear or jealously "drunk," he observed, does oneself great physical harm (Dr. Crile in the Cosmopolitan, May, 1933). Physicians and psychiatrists see this. What they now need to recognize is that the one antidote for these trouble-making thoughts is to recognize and utilize the spiritual fact that man's only real consciousness is constituted of the harmonious, health-producing thoughts whose substance is the Mind that is God.

Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, names the source of all trouble mortal mind. On page 405 of the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," she writes, "The basic error is mortal mind." This simple fact must be recognized if we are ever to overcome trouble. Never forget that when any trouble argues to you, it is the evil, mortal mind talking—the same talking serpent that got Eve and Adam into so much trouble. The way has now been found in Christian Science to nullify and silence it.

True Idea of God Antidotes Trouble

Now for step two, which is to find how to get rid of trouble once we have found its root, the evil, mortal mind.

What we all want is harmony and peace. So we must find the source of these. As evil, negative, mortal mind is the source of trouble-making thoughts, is it not logical to conclude that from the altogether good, intelligent, and divine Mind come the thoughts which bring harmony and peace? Christian Science teaches that God is this all-intelligent, good Mind, the one universal cause. In this causative, good Mind there is not one trouble-making thought. Its ideas produce concord and peace.

Your one true selfhood and mine is this positive Mind's untroubled individual expression. This selfhood derives its substance, individuality, thoughts, and faculties from Mind alone. for it is caused, conditioned, and governed by nothing else. What is capable of being basic cause but absolute intelligence, and can there be absolute intelligence apart from pure Mind? As long as we cling to the evil, mortal sense of mind and man, trouble grows. In the degree we accept and express the true sense of Mind and man, trouble goes.

We Are United to Something

Whether you will or no, you are united to something greater than you are. Most mortals think of themselves as united to a material body, and also united to a mind that causes them, at times, to be worried, resentful, discouraged, bad tempered, sinful, critical, and so on. They also believe they are somehow united to a better mind that provides for them thoughts of kindness, honesty, justice, and wisdom. But this mortal, mixed sense of things leaves God, the altogether good Mind, out of account.

This causative Mind inevitably contains in itself all its ideas, its manifestation. How could it be otherwise? The sun does not evolve sunbeams, or the principle of music tones, and then cast them adrift. They remain coexistent with their source, included in, and governed by, their source. It is so with the infinite causative Mind and man, its highest idea, or expression. Man is indeed joined to something greater than himself, and that something is the one causative Mind, his God and Father.

Man's Oneness with God's Allness

You cannot be a trouble-expressing mortal and also the child, or expression, of God, who destroys trouble. Which concept do you accept as the true? With Jesus, Christian Science accepts sonship with God, Spirit, Mind, as man's only true status, and repudiates the claim of his sonship with matter as negative and untrue. The advantages of being humble enough to accept your true status as an individual manifestation of eternal Life, or causative Mind, are great. As you come to understand somewhat that your only real Mind is God and that as God's expression you have the limitless resources of wisdom, ability, and love which belong to God, you begin to see something of the deep meaning of Jesus' statement, "I am in the Father, and the Father in me" (John 14:11). Know this for yourself every day.

The oneness of man, not with ignorant enigmatical matter, but with all-intelligent Mind, is the cornerstone of the Science of Life. As it is understood it becomes the antidote for all trouble. Says Mrs. Eddy on page 91 of Science and Health: "Let us rid ourselves of the belief that man is separated from God, and obey only the divine Principle, Life and Love. Here is the great point of departure for all true spiritual growth." Our freedom from trouble appears in the measure that this ridding ourselves of the belief we are separated from God is accomplished. The demand on us to do this is inexorable.

Tennyson said of God, "Closer is He than breathing, and nearer than hands and feet." God is nearer to us than any material thing, feet or breathing. The word "near" implies closeness, but with some space between. Ever-present Mind, God, is not "near" us in this sense, because it is the substance and Life of us. Between us and our causing Mind and sustaining Life there is nothing. We must more constantly realize we dwell in this "secret place of the most High," in living unity with the Almighty. No trouble is there or comes there. In the understanding of our oneness with God's allness is our superiority to godless trouble.

Christian Science a Revelation

Mind naturally expresses itself in ideas and causes these ideas to be manifest in man. How else could causative Mind, basic intelligence, make its nature known? Referring to his God-given qualities and ideas, the Master said, "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father" (John 14:9).

Christian Science is a revelation; its source is the one Mind. The revelator, Mary Baker Eddy, discerned the true ideas of God and man because, like the spiritual-minded prophets, her thought was less darkened with mistaken material concepts than the thought of those about her. When there is a rift in the clouds, the sun shines through.

From her early childhood in New Hampshire, she evidenced a deeply religious nature and outstanding faith in God as Love. A wilderness of trouble in early womanhood, including the loss of her husband, separation from her child, and poor health, deepened her resolve to learn more of God and His power to free men from trouble.

In 1866, not long after Lincoln's great work for freedom from slavery was accomplished, more spiritual light came to her through a remarkable healing of herself by complete reliance on the deific Mind and its government of her being. She then knew that God could and would free men of trouble when they understand Him. Nine years of intense study of the Bible followed to find the way by which God heals men.

In 1875 Science and Health, the textbook of Christian Science, was published. It has been translated into French, German, Spanish, and Swedish and is available in Braille. It is in many public libraries and can be read, borrowed, and purchased in all Christian Science Reading Rooms. It is a book of seven hundred pages and eighteen chapters. Many have been healed by reading it.

Where Prayer Comes In

Prayer of the right sort is the way by which to overcome trouble—not the prayer that asks God for personal favors as though He liked to be implored, and then to grant or withhold His favor as suits His fancy. "Prayer," writes Mrs. Eddy, "cannot change the Science of being, but it tends to bring us into harmony with it" (Science and Health, p. 2). This is the motive of prayer, to bring our thought into harmony with, into agreement with, God and His law. In the degree this is done we benefit. All that is needed to overcome the trouble-making lie that there is an evil mind, expressed in a discordant material world and an afflictable man, is the Christ-idea revealing to individual consciousness that there is but one infinite Mind, intelligent, supreme, and good, and one man, the man who is this Mind's idea, or expression.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

That the joyous and comforting truths in the Bible are for man's immediate recognition and acceptance, will be explained in next Sunday's services in all Churches of Christ, Scientist. The title of the Lesson-Sermon on Sunday, September 30, is "REALITY."

The Golden Text is from Jeremiah (51: 10) "The Lord hath brought forth our righteousness: come, and let us declare in Zion the work of the Lord our God."

Bible selections (King James Version) in the Lesson-Sermon include these passages:

"And he opened his mouth and taught them, saying . . . Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled . . . Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God" (Matt. 5: 2, 6, 8).

Selections from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures", by Mary Baker Eddy, include:

"The understanding of his spiritual individuality makes man more real, more formidable in truth, and enables him to conquer sin, disease, and death . . . Let unselfishness, goodness, mercy, justice, health, holiness, love—the kingdom of heaven—reign within us, and sin, disease, and death will diminish until they finally disappear" (pp. 317, 248).

Lutheran Hour rally at Stadium Sunday

The sixth Chicagoland Lutheran Hour rally, based on the theme, "Send Out Thy Truth," will be held Sunday afternoon, September 30, at 2:45, in the Chicago Stadium, 1800 W. Madison st., Chicago.

Highlight of the rally program will be a dynamic and colorful pageant "Christianity Through the Ages" depicting the spread of Christianity from the days of the Apostle Paul through the time of Martin Luther and the Reformation. More than fifty narrated scenes, chronicling an authentic and historically accurate portrayal of events, will be projected in fine color photography on two oversize translucent screens, while costumed members of the cast of 400 provide living dramatizations of the activities.

This elaborate pageant will close in a climactic crescendo with its presentation of the modern missionary miracle, the International Lutheran Hour broadcasts, whereby the fundamental doctrines of Christianity are proclaimed each Sunday to a radio audience of 20,000,000 listeners over 1,034 stations in 52 countries. It will be at this point in the rally pageant that Rev. Prof. Oldsen will deliver a short address.

A fifteen minute pre-pageant demonstration of the color organ will open the afternoon program at 2:45 o'clock. A unique fantasia will display dazzling color harmonies in never-duplicating designs, while a cantata chorus of 200 trained voices and the mighty Stadium pipe organ resound in musical settings.

A Lecture on Christian Science

Christian Science: God's Antidote for Trouble

Paul Stark Seeley, C. S. B.
of Portland, Oregon

Member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The lecture was given Sunday, September 23, at Arlington Heights high school under the auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Arlington Heights.

The lecturer spoke substantially as follows:

One of the commonest things in the world is trouble. Nearly everyone has some of it. There are many kinds. A few are sin, sickness, sorrow, fear, lack, discouragement, strife, and world problems. One thing all men can agree on: they would all like to be rid of trouble. It is mankind's number-one enemy. Trouble takes the joy out of life; it robs us of happiness, health, and peace. The common need of everyone, everywhere, is to learn how to get rid of trouble. Christian Science provides this know-how.

Where Trouble Originates

The first step towards getting rid of trouble is to find out what causes trouble. Then one can better judge the means suited to getting rid of it. Christian Science exposes its source as being the devil, God's opposite; not a hoofed and horned person, but the one evil, material mind. All trouble-making thoughts such as sin, fear, hate, selfishness, and cruelty derive from this evil sense of mind. Furthermore, it is this evil, material sense of mind, not God, which produces the material, Adamic concept of man who is mortal, afflictable, and as Job says, "of few days, and full of trouble" (Job 14:1), in contrast to the true and spiritual man, made, as the Bible says, in God's likeness.

All should know that Christian Science is based on the Bible. It teaches nothing which is at variance with the Scriptures. Christian Scientists use the King James Version of the Bible, and they diligently study it. At every Sunday service a Lesson-Sermon is read, consisting of chosen references from the Bible and from Science and Health.

Trying to get rid of disease, or any trouble, without knowing the nature of its cause, is like trying to get rid of an obnoxious weed by slashing at its top, leaving its root to sprout again. "Every plant," said Jesus, "which my heavenly Father hath not planted, shall be rooted up" (Matt. 15:13). To uproot the trouble plant you must master the evil mind that is its root. Christian Science does this.

An eminent physician saw something of the mental cause for disease when he said, "A man cannot fear, he cannot hate, he cannot worry intellectually; he does these things with all his organs." A hate "jag," or a fear or jealously "drunk," he observed, does oneself great physical harm (Dr. Crile in the Cosmopolitan, May, 1933). Physicians and psychiatrists see this. What they now need to recognize is that the one antidote for these trouble-making thoughts is to recognize and utilize the spiritual fact that man's only real consciousness is constituted of the harmonious, health-producing thoughts whose substance is the Mind that is God.

Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, names the source of all trouble mortal mind. On page 405 of the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," she writes, "The basic error is mortal mind." This simple fact must be recognized if we are ever to overcome trouble. Never forget that when any trouble argues to you, it is the evil, mortal mind talking—the same talking serpent that got Eve and Adam into so much trouble. The way has now been found in Christian Science to nullify and silence it.

True Idea of God Antidotes Trouble

Now for step two, which is to find how to get rid of trouble once we have found its root, the evil, mortal mind.

What we all want is harmony and peace. So we must find the source of these. As evil, negative, mortal mind is the source of trouble-making thoughts, is it not logical to conclude that from the altogether good, intelligent, and divine Mind come the thoughts which bring harmony and peace? Christian Science teaches that God is this all-intelligent, good Mind, the one universal cause. In this causative, good Mind there is not one trouble-making thought. Its ideas produce concord and peace.

Your one true selfhood and mine is this positive Mind's untroubled individual expression. This selfhood derives its substance, individuality, thoughts, and faculties from Mind alone, for it is caused, conditioned, and governed by nothing else. What is capable of being basic cause but absolute intelligence, and can there be absolute intelligence apart from pure Mind? As long as we cling to the evil, mortal sense of mind and man, trouble grows. In the degree we accept and express the true sense of Mind and man, trouble goes.

We Are United to Something

Whether you will or no, you are united to something greater than you are. Most mortals think of themselves as united to a material body, and also united to a mind that causes them, at times, to be worried, resentful, discouraged, bad tempered, sinful, critical, and so on. They also believe they are somehow united to a better mind that provides for them thoughts of kindness, honesty, justice, and wisdom. But this mortal, mixed sense of things leaves God, the altogether good Mind, out of account.

This causative Mind inevitably contains in itself all its ideas, its manifestation. How could it be otherwise? The sun does not evolve sunbeams, or the principle of music tones, and then cast them adrift. They remain coexistent with their source, included in, and governed by, their source. It is so with the infinite causative Mind and man, its highest idea, or expression. Man is indeed joined to something greater than himself, and that something is the one causative Mind, his God and Father.

Man's Oneness with God's Allness

You cannot be a trouble-expressing mortal and also the child, or expression, of God, who destroys trouble. Which concept do you accept as the true? With Jesus, Christian Science accepts sonship with God, Spirit, Mind, as man's only true status, and repudiates the claim of his sonship with matter as negative and untrue. The advantages of being humble enough to accept your true status as an individual manifestation of eternal Life, or causative Mind, are great. As you come to understand somewhat that your only real Mind is God and that as God's expression you have the limitless resources of wisdom, ability, and love which belong to God, you begin to see something of the deep meaning of Jesus' statement, "I am in the Father, and the Father in me" (John 14:11). Know this for yourself every day.

The oneness of man, not with ignorant enigmatical matter, but with all-intelligent Mind, is the cornerstone of the Science of Life. As it is understood it becomes the antidote for all trouble. Says Mrs. Eddy on page 91 of Science and Health: "Let us rid ourselves of the belief that man is separated from God, and obey only the divine Principle, Life and Love. Here is the great point of departure for all true spiritual growth." Our freedom from trouble appears in the measure that this ridding ourselves of the belief we are separated from God is accomplished. The demand on us to do this is inexorable.

Tennyson said of God, "Closer is He than breathing, and nearer than hands and feet." God is nearer to us than any mate or thing, feet or breathing. The word "near" implies closeness, but with some space between. Ever-present Mind, God, is not "near" us in this sense, because it is the substance and Life of us. Between us and our causing Mind and sustaining Life there is nothing. We must more constantly realize we dwell in this "secret place of the most High," in living unity with the Almighty. No trouble is there or comes there. In the understanding of our oneness with God's allness is our superiority to godless trouble.

Christian Science a Revelation

Mind naturally expresses itself in ideas and causes these ideas to be manifest in man. How else could causative Mind, basic intelligence, make its nature known? Referring to his God-given qualities and ideas, the Master said, "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father" (John 14:9).

Christian Science is a revelation; its source is the one Mind. The revelator, Mary Baker Eddy, discerned the true ideas of God and man because, like the spiritual-minded prophets, her thought was less darkened with mistaken material concepts than the thought of those about her. When there is a rift in the clouds, the sun shines through.

From her early childhood in New Hampshire, she evidenced a deeply religious nature and outstanding faith in God as Love. A wilderness of trouble in early womanhood, including the loss of her husband, separation from her child, and poor health, deepened her resolve to learn more of God and His power to free men from trouble.

In 1866, not long after Lincoln's great work for freedom from slavery was accomplished, more spiritual light came to her through a remarkable healing of herself by complete reliance on the deific Mind and its government of her being. She then knew that God could and would free men of trouble when they understand Him. Nine years of intense study of the Bible followed to find the way by which God heals men.

In 1875 Science and Health, the textbook of Christian Science, was published. It has been translated into French, German, Spanish, and Swedish and is available in Braille. It is in many public libraries and can be read, borrowed, and purchased in all Christian Science Reading Rooms. It is a book of seven hundred pages and eighteen chapters. Many have been healed by reading it.

Where Prayer Comes In

Prayer of the right sort is the way by which to overcome trouble—not the prayer that asks God for personal favors as though He liked to be implored, and then to grant or withhold His favor as suits His fancy. "Prayer," writes Mrs. Eddy, "cannot change the Science of being, but it tends to bring us into harmony with it" (Science and Health, p. 2). This is the motive of prayer, to bring our thought into harmony with, into agreement with, God and His law. In the degree this is done we benefit. All that is needed to overcome the trouble-making lie that there is an evil mind, expressed in a discordant material world and an afflictable man, is the Christ-idea revealing to individual consciousness that there is but one infinite Mind, intelligent, supreme, and good, and one man, the man who is this Mind's idea, or expression.

The Healing Power of Christian Science

To those who live and look for something better, this message offers help, regardless of present circumstances.

It has been put to the test by countless others in all manner of human need and has not failed them. Through sincere study of

SCIENCE AND HEALTH with Key to the Scriptures
by Mary Baker Eddy

that remarkable book containing the full statement of Christian Science, they have learned how to avail themselves of help and healing.

As a result, a new day has dawned for them, a new way of living — free and fearless. This light of understanding can be yours in the same way, through thoughtful study of Science and Health.

Movies give pointers for civil defense

Monday evening the Arlington Heights police presented the showing of "Beginning or The End," and "Texas City Disaster," to a group of police, firemen, and members of various civic organizations, at the high school auditorium.

THE FILM, "Beginning or the End" portrayed atomic research work and experiments, leading up to the first successful atomic bomb, and the atomic bombing of Hiroshima, Japan, August 6, 1945. The second film, "Texas City Disaster," brought home a lesson in close cooperation between the police, firemen, and civilians of Texas City, Texas, and neighboring towns, in the rebuilding of that city, following their disaster, in 1947. It showed how identification of bodies was made possible following the careful removal of the bodies, listing of personal effects found on or near the bodies, dental work, operations, etc.

Chief Skoog welcomed the audience, and introduced Officer Johnson who spoke to the group on the importance of Civil Defense, preparedness, and the part the police department has in Civil Defense. Preparedness and cooperation are his answers to any emergency or disaster that may arise. Following the showing of "Beginning or The End," Officer Johnson explained the fundamentals of the "A" bomb, and how we can survive an atomic attack. He also pointed out the part we in Arlington Heights would have to play in the event of an atomic bombing of Chicago, stressing the importance of subduing false rumors, panics, or hysteria.

MONDAY NIGHT'S program was part of the Arlington Hts. police training school, which is being conducted every Wednesday night in the village hall council room, for both the regular and special police. Close cooperation and working together is being dwelt upon, along with such subjects as first aid, police courtesies, proper patroling, traffic control, mass hysteria, panics, riots, communications, communism, arrests, searches, seizures, investigations, and other phases of police work.

Chief Skoog is being assisted in these classes by Raymond Tegtmeier, American Red Cross, who will give the boys 20 hours of first aid instruction, Officer Johnson and several F. B. I. agents from the Chicago office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

About your health

Early each September a new generation of students makes its appearance in the schools for the first time. Most of these youngsters who are approaching life outside the shelter of the home for the first time will develop powers of adjustment, both physically and emotionally, to the new environment. A certain number, however, find it difficult to meet the changes of environment and supervision brought about by entrance into school life.

The foresight of some parents has sent many of these children to their doctors for a physical examination before school opens. This practice has been responsible for the discovery of many defects, making it possible to correct them early.

THE PARENT of the child entering school for the first time should be understanding and sympathetic with the child and help him meet the new problems that arise. The child, for instance, will pick up words or traits from other children which are undesirable, though usually meaningless; they must be eliminated by patient effort. Patience will also be necessary to answer the many questions brought on by the instruction at school; a child's curiosity is a natural development and should be satisfied.

Care must be exercised in the handling of children who will show excitability on mingling with others.

Parents should remember that careful training will help the child to adjust more easily to the new life of learning as apart from the protected atmosphere of the home.

PROPER SLEEP is especially important for the child starting to school. Some experts recommend one to two hours a day in bed each afternoon for children from the ages of six to thirteen, and the afternoon naps should be encouraged until they seem to delay the going to sleep in the evening. Children under seven or eight should sleep twelve hours daily.

Movies give pointers for civil defense

Monday evening the Arlington Heights police presented the showing of "Beginning or The End," and "Texas City Disaster," to a group of police, firemen, and members of various civic organizations, at the high school auditorium.

THE FILM, "Beginning or the End" portrayed atomic research work and experiments, leading up to the first successful atomic bomb, and the atomic bombing of Hiroshima, Japan, August 6, 1945. Preparedness and cooperation are his answers to any emergency or disaster that may arise. Following the showing of "Beginning or The End," Officer Johnson explained the fundamentals of the "A" bomb, and how we can survive an atomic attack. He also pointed out the part we in Arlington Heights would have to play in the event of an atomic bombing of Chicago, stressing the importance of subduing false rumors, panics, or hysteria.

MONDAY NIGHT'S program was part of the Arlington Hts. police training school, which is being conducted every Wednesday night in the village hall council room, for both the regular and special police. Close cooperation and working together is being dwelt upon, along with such subjects as first aid, police courtesies, proper patrolling, traffic control, mass hysteria, panics, riots, communications, communism, arrests, searches, seizures, investigations, and other phases of police work.

Chief Skoog is being assisted in these classes by Raymond Tegtmeier, American Red Cross, who will give the boys 20 hours of first aid instruction, Officer Johnson and several F. B. I. agents from the Chicago office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Off-campus fiction workshop at Glencoe

The off-campus fiction workshop, sponsored by the literature departments of the woman's library club of Glencoe and the woman's club of Wilmette will reopen for the fall-winter sessions Thursday, October 11. The group will meet this year at the woman's library club of Glencoe. The workshop is not limited to members of the two clubs, but draws from a wide surrounding area.

Due to the death of the former director, Frederic Nelson Litten, the group is now under the supervision of Lawrence Keating of Milwaukee, and Adelaide Gerstley of Chicago. The three eight week terms will be divided between the two teachers—the first twelve weeks conducted by Mr. Keating, the second by Mrs. Gerstley.

Lawrence Keating, a graduate in journalism from Marquette university, teaches feature writing in journalism at Marquette, and two fiction courses at Northwestern. He is the author of over 450 published stories and articles, and his work has appeared in many national publications—Harper's Bazaar, Liberty, Country Gentlemen, and Vogue, to name a few.

Adelaide Gerstley, a student of the late Mr. Litten, is also a member of the faculty at Medill school of journalism, Northwestern university. She sells regularly to national publications, including the top women's magazines—Ladies' Home Journal, Woman's Home Companion, Good Housekeeping, and McCall's.

Classes will be held every Thursday morning from 9:30 to 12:30.

Further information may be obtained from the chairman, Mrs. Burton Morris, Kenilworth 2265, or her co-chairman, Mrs. W. S. Christopher, Glencoe 21.

Increase quotas for Navy commissions

Recent increases in quotas for various navy commission programs permit more applications for unrestricted line, staff corps, and restricted line to be accepted according to Commander I. L. Powell, officer-in-charge, office of naval officer procurement, Chicago. Vacancies now exist for men to attend the officer candidate school in Newport, R. I., which has a new class every two months. Applications from all qualified men will be considered.

College graduates between the ages 19-27 may apply for Unrestricted Line and Staff Corps commission. Specialists who desire to apply for Restricted Line Commissions must be between the ages 19-33 at time of commission of application. Those accepted candidates who are over 27½ years of age will be appointed Lieutenant junior grade.

Complete information concerning commission opportunities may be received by calling or visiting the Office of Naval Officer Procurement, 844 N. Rush St., Chicago.

Open rehearsals for Hollywood ice revue

With the signing of Carol Lynne, sensational star of New York's Center Theatre show, the 1952 Hollywood Ice Review began rehearsals at the Chicago Stadium Monday, September 24.

With Carol Lynne in the fold, the show has taken on a new format. Barbara Ann Scott, current olympic and world championship figure skater will have the top spot in the fabulous production. However Miss Lynne, Skippy Baxter, Michael Kirby, the Three Bruises and Freddie Trenkler will all have their own feature numbers.

Miss Lynne was originally signed by Mr. Wirtz in 1941 and was brought to New York as the star of the Center Theater show which drew 12,000,000 people during its run there.

The show will open in Milwaukee on November 7

Wilson school news

Miss G. Madro, school nurse for this area, informed Miss Klehm, Wilson school principal, that free chest X-rays for this district will be given at the Northwestern hospital, Des Plaines, every Tuesday from 9:30 a.m. until noon.

A free baby and pre-school clinic is held at the Palatine police station every second and fourth Thursday of the month, from 1 to 2:30 p.m.

Last Monday and Tuesday, the pupils of the Wilson school had vision tests under the supervision of Mrs. Schroeder, Mrs. Steiger, Mrs. Schwantz and Mrs. Wallor. The children were also weighed and measured. Those failing the eye tests will be re-checked Friday by the nurse. Miss Madro will give hearing tests to all the pupils Friday.

Physical tests for the first, fourth and seventh grades will be given at a later date by the county doctor. If parents prefer their own physician, they must bring in their doctor's report for the school files.

Harry Sopp of the Karnes Music school, which has a studio in Palatine, visited the Wilson school Friday and Monday and gave music aptitude tests to all students except the first grade. Mr. Sopp is director of a program dealing exclusively in public school music appreciation, which is sanctioned by the board of education. Students desiring to learn an instrument may apply for an instrument trial plan at $5 for a ten-week period. This includes use of the instrument and necessary music. Private lessons will be given at the school at $2.50 per half hour once a week. The Karnes Music school operates in Cook, Lake and DuPage counties. Lou Dochterman is teacher for this area.

A tea will be given for new mothers of the Wilson school children by the PTA October 4 from 1 to 4 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Carl Sundquist. Those desiring transportation please phone Mrs. Robert Huebner, Arlington Heights 2856.

The Ladies of Arlington Knolls will meet October 3 at the home of Mrs. Edward Sepanik, N. Evergreen.

A Cub Scout troop in this area would be a great asset and considerable interest has been shown in such a project. The Wilson PTA executive committee has investigated the possibilities and have engaged a speaker to be at the next regular PTA meeting.

Mrs. George Flenner entertained Miss Klehm and Mrs. Magnussen at a tea in her home Thursday afternoon.

Charles Milbratz died Sunday afternoon and funeral services were held Wednesday. Mr. Milbratz had been living with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Berry of N. Highland for the past several years. He was Mrs. Berry's grandfather.

SLOW DOWN

Increasing the speed of the average car from 40 to 60 miles per hour requires an extra gallon of gas for about every 50 miles. So for economy as well as safety, the Chicago Motor club advises, slow down on the open road.

Berwyn's water bill up $6,000 in month

Berwyn's water bill will be increased by about $6,000 a month from now on. The increase was shown in the first bill received since Chicago raised the rates to suburbs 50 per cent over Chicago consumers.

Berwyn's water bill for the period July 31 to August 31 was $17,804.70, an increase over the previous month's bill of $6,647.67.

GAS TAX

The average car consumes about 8,000 gallons of gasoline in its lifetime, and, at present tax rates, its owner will pay the State and Federal governments about $440 in taxes on that gasoline in Illinois.

Our Aim: To Fear God, Tell The Truth, and Make Money

Southern Guerillas action delay trip home by men on furlough

This is the second installment of the diary kept by Sgt. Lamb. It started last week with the attack on Atlanta. The diary of his first 18 months service was lost with his knapsack when his company was driven from their positions by the rebels. The first entries in the diary being published in this department appeared in last week's edition. They will continue in serial form. Concluding installment will tell of his discharge in the spring of 1865.

The diary publication will be interrupted next week when Sgt. Lamb's story of the burning of Atlanta and Sherman's March to the Sea will appear.

HOMEWARD BOUND
Sept. 25, 1864

Having obtained a short furlough, I left Atlanta at 4 a. m. on top of the cars. The cars were filled with refugees, and General Sherman had given them transportation northward.

At Marietta we were obliged to stop over all day on account of guerillas destroying a train of cars and the road north of us. I drew ration for our furlough squad. The soldiers' home has been moved to Atlanta.

Left Marietta in the evening, passing Kenesaw and the grand Altoona range, which was very imposing after dark. We had a very perilous journey. We were on a road infested with guerillas and the cars and track were very poor.

To add to the dangers we had a drunken railroad crew. There were plenty of officers and soldiers aboard, but all were so filled with anxious thoughts of home that there was no order forbidding the cars running at full speed.

At Atlanta the corpse of a woman had been placed on board in a rough coffin. Sometime during the night, some of the drunken crew, wanting to change its location, opened the side door of the box car and shoved the coffin in among the women and children.

Our night of darkness was made more hideous by the screams and screeches of the terrified southerners, and they were not quieted by drunken profanity. On we sped all that dreadful night, passing Ashworth, Altoona, Cartersville and the tunnels to Chattanooga.

CHATTANOOGA
Sunday, Oct. 2, 1864

A whole week we have been waiting in this dirty, filthy place, hardly venturing off the top of the cars for fear of missing the first train. Still our furloughs are going on. None but a soldier knows how to wait and watch.

I could find no church meeting in town today. Read my testament and the Independent some. After dinner I strolled over the military works forts, took a bath and returned to the cars.

The weather has been very bad and rainy and we are nearly sick staying here. No train has been allowed to go north except those with armed soldiers.

When we saw a train move at 6 p. m. we boarded the top although we had to jam ourselves into a very small compass. We were on the road to our homes which we had not visited in two years. We do not heed the crowded "upper story" or the cold drenching rain which pours its cold sleet on us at night. We wrap our blankets around us and try to sleep on the road to Nashville.

There are many costly residences and fine churches which will not be burned, as the intent of our army is only to prevent its use again for military purposes.

It is the finest city I have ever seen in the South and is a healthy and desirable place to live. If I ever return to the South after the war I will pitch my tent in Atlanta.

Chaplain Harwood called a meeting in the vacant Baptist church and organized a regimental church society of all denominations. Some fifty men joined by signing their names and place of residence when at home. He preached a good sermon and told us it might be many months before we could again worship God in a house.

ON THE MARCH THROUGH GEORGIA
Sunday, Nov. 20, 1864

Gen. Sherman commenced his grand March to the Sea on the 15th. We move rapidly and have already marched two whole nights, catching a little sleep beside the roads when the wagons are compelled to stop because of bad roads.

We march on four different roads through the country, 60 miles wide, which is thoroughly devastated by our army. We have very little government rations and we have to depend almost entirely upon the enemy's country, which abounds in all of the luxuries of this most fertile state of Georgia.

Each soldier is expected to carry his own provisions and cook the same. In my mess of four we have a native mulatto boy who cooks for us and leads the pack mule and gathers forage for us.

Having no direct communication with headquarters, we make the best of circumstances and the troops usually enjoy themselves in the absence of the enemy.

Today we marched six miles. A forage party was sent out and a quantity of meal, molasses, poultry, and pigs were brought in. The weather is cold and the wind blows hard; also flurries of snow.

NEAR OCONEE
Sunday, Nov. 27, 1864

Crossed the Oconee river on pontoons. The rivers and streams are very numerous. The bridges, many of them fine structures, are all burned by the rebels to retard our march.

Poor fools. It only takes Gen. Sherman's army two hours to build a bridge and cross the biggest river there is in the Confederacy.

Our regiment is guarding the pontoon train, which is a number of frames of boats, fitted to wagon wheels, to be covered with canvas and launched into a stream and covered with planks for a bridge.

IN LA CROSSE, WIS.
Sunday, Oct. 9, 1864

I went into a church for the first time in ten months. Friends in La Crosse were glad to see me and to learn I had returned from the war.

(Note—Diary notes covering Sundays, Oct 16, 23 and 30 tell of church services attended and visits with relatives and friends.)

CHATTANOOGA, TENN.
Sunday, Nov. 6, 1864

Arrived at Chattanooga with 100 drafted men from Camp Randall, Wis., for the 25th regiment. They were in my charge.

I reported to Gen. Steedman and was directed to go into the convalescent camp, which meant to pitch tents in the muddy field back of the town. The weather is cold and rainy and the new soldiers complain.

I drew 101 shelter tents and we made a regular camp and went to cooking. The boys soon learned to gather sticks and weeds for fuel and for making beds.

I had plenty of business answering questions about war. We were ordered to remain here until we obtained arms and accoutrements. But at midnight an order arrived directing us to strike tents and be ready to move at a moment's notice.

ATLANTA, GA.
Sunday, Nov. 13, 1864

We are in camp in the front yard of a very wealthy residence which overlooks the city. This fine city is depopulated and in a few days the town will be weeping in ashes.

The railroad and depots are already destroyed and burned.

Liquor and Sex

The Illinois Press Association, meeting at Decatur next week, will discuss at one session newspaper ethics regarding the publication of police, sex, divorce and crime stories.

Paddock Publications have always played down such stories. Divorce and sex stories are not touched and the teen-ager who happens to get into trouble is given every possible break.

However, the editor feels that he would be derelict in his duty if he did not draw to the attention of parents of this area two incidents that the local police have recently handled with the utmost delicacy, but which would not have happened if the parents of the boys and girls involved had given their children proper supervision.

CASE NO. 1:

The Readers Digest carried an article this month which stated that two cocktails can seriously affect the driving ability of an autoist.

We do not know how many cocktails were taken by a Palatine boy last Saturday night at a party held in Roselle, following the Palatine-Wauconda football game, but we do know that the young man who did the drinking, when returning home alone, wrecked his father's car about 2 a. m.

The father blames the Arlington Heights liquor dealer who sold the beer and the wine. He has been arrested and the trial has been postponed until October 2.

In this case, the only persons who suffered, were the boy and the father through the loss of the car.

CASE NO. 2:

Includes a dozen boys and girls who were members of the "Facts of Life Club," holding meetings in a barn.

The expose came when the mother of a 15-year-old girl took her daughter to a physician.

The local police handled the case efficiently. One boy, 17 years old, is now in the navy, but there is another who is too young for any branch of the armed forces.

Confessions in the presence of parents have been given by all members of the so-called club, which had been in existence nearly two years.

Judge Neumann will give the first answer to Case No. 1 next Tuesday.

Case No. 2? If the publication of this editorial prevents a similar happening, it has served its purpose.

4-Way Stop Signs Needed

A number of bad traffic accidents have occurred recently at two northwest suburban traffic intersections and we propose that highway traffic engineers take cognizance of the fact.

We are referring to the dangerous intersections of Rt. 58 and Rt. 83, and Rt. 58 and State rd.

Police investigating the accidents usually find that the direct cause of the mishaps stems from the inadequate stop signs at these intersections.

Traffic on State rd. and Rt. 83 must stop when they approach the Rt. 58 highway. Traffic on Rt. 58 continues along at high speeds.

Motorists who fail to see the stop signs have no chance. Motorists who stop and then start slowly through the intersections are faced with meeting the speeding autos traveling on Rt. 58.

We propose that both intersections be made a four-way stop intersection. This would be a start towards the elimination of some traffic accidents in this area.

A good deal

Much has been said the past few weeks, of row-housing and tin chimneys by the Lorraine Homes, Inc. For the past year and a half there has been a building program going on in the northeast part of Arlington from the 800 block north on Beverley Lane, Hickory and Douglas aves.

Here every other house is of the same construction and every one has a tin chimney and are being put up by the dozens. Surely one builder is not any better than another. This is real row-housing and of the poorest construction anywhere; and not a word has been said.

I think it's high time our village officials take a ride for themselves and see what's going on in all parts of Arlington Heights.

Where is our village inspector? Or do we have one? Or is it because two of our trusted village trustees are silent partners of this building firm?

Lorraine homes

The Fence Post is in receipt of a letter signed "Lorraine Home Owner," that was mailed two weeks ago, but mislaid in the publication office.

It was so vitriolic that a reporter was sent out to learn how many Lorraine owners felt the same as the writer. The reporter found their thoughts in the matter so contrary to the Fence Post letter that publishers of this paper question the authenticity of the letter and consquently it is not being published.

Fine paper

Enclosed find check for my subscription renewal for the Cook County Herald for one year, taking advantage of your offer before the advance in price. Tour of Galena homes slated for this week

It is truly an adventure into the past to visit Galena, Illinois, with its many public historic buildings and its album-like way of life. This year, Saturday and Sunday, September 29 and 30, nine beautiful privately-owned homes will be open to the public for a tour sponsored by the Guild of the First Presbyterian church, itself the oldest church in Illinois still being used regularly for worship services.

In 1826 the town was called Galena, a name associated with its lead mining ventures that put money in the pockets of explorers and exploiters, and served to catapult the town into the most important in the Old Northwest Territory. Mining wealth helped to build the grand mansions that top its steep bluffs while tucked here and there on the hillsides at every conceivable angle, are old stone and weathered rosebrick homes that artists strive to capture on canvas.

Many persons have admired the exteriors of these handsome houses; the interiors that feature an original Victorian Parlor (1870); the Dowling Mansion (1847); the Chetlain Homestead (1832); the Elihu Washburne Home; Double Miner's Cottage (1838); The Old Rock House (1840); Galena's hostess for 91 years, Miss Anna Felt's home; Grant's home before the Civil War; and an outstanding example of the Mid-west's own, Steamboat Gothic Architecture.

Inside these homes are a treasure-trove of antiques collected and in daily use during the last one hundred twenty-five years and it is these heirlooms that will be proudly displayed by their owners during Galena's tour of historic Galena homes.

In the future

Two new protective coatings for metal surfaces will soon appear on the market. One is designed for such things as chromeplated automobile trimmings and the other for silver, gold, brass, copper and others, but both are applied easily by brushing on . . . A new bobby pin for the gals is designed to prevent chipped teeth, broken finger nails and scratched scalps. It's tipped with synthetic rubber . . . Now they're putting household lubricating oil in collapsible tubes, with a spout that dispenses drops or a steady stream . . . An Illinois firm has come up with a tubular guide which can be attached to supermarket shopping baskets, lists all the items in the store and tells where to find them.

Illinois licenses to be blue on orange

Secretary of State Edward J. Barrett announced that the color combination of the 1952 Illinois license plate will feature midnight blue figures against an orange background.

Secretary Barrett said that based on 1951 figures he anticipates the sale of approximately 2,500,000 passenger car and about 500,000 truck and miscellaneous plates in 1952.

Libertyville park fund now at $25,000

The Adler park, Libertyville's fast developing recreational park, fund-raising campaign is in the home stretch.

Directors of the park project revealed that an anonymous donor has agreed to make a $5,000 cash contribution to the fund when the community raises $30,000.

Since the Adler thermometer now stands at $25,850, only $4,150 more must be gathered by public donations before the 1951 goal of $35,000 is reached.

Weekly Recipe

One of our most popular combinations during the fall months is that of cider and doughnuts. Use butter cream (soured cream) in making your doughnuts, because it gives a flavor you will appreciate. Here is your recipe—buy some fresh cider—call in the neighbors — and enjoy the glory of these wonderful evenings.

Doughnuts

½ cup sugar
¼ cup butter cream (soured cream)
1 tsp. baking powder
2 tbsp. butter
½ tsp. salt
2 eggs
2 cups all purpose flour
½ tsp. nutmeg vanilla
½ tsp. soda dissolved in 1 tbsp. water

Method: Cream butter and sugar—add eggs—add soda mixture to butter cream. Sift dry ingredients; add alternately with butter cream mixture to first mixture. Chill.

Roll dough 3-8" thick — cut with doughnut cutter — fry in vegetable oil heated to 375 degrees. Drain on brown paper.

Variations for serving

1. Roll in powdered sugar.
2. Roll in mixture of cinnamon and sugar (2 tsp. cinnamon to ½ cup sugar).
3. Top with nuts and maraschino cherries.
4. Cut in half and fill with custard and top with meringue.
5. Top with hot fudge sauce.
6. Fill with strawberries and serve with cream.
7. Cut in half and fill with ice cream—cover with meringue and bake as an individual baked alaska.

THE MAILMAN'S CORNER

BY LELAND ELLIS TRUXELL

I was talking to an engineer with 40 years' service the other day, and we were talking about the increased number of train and auto accidents.

"You know," he said slowly. "I think the trouble lies in the fact that the whole world seems to have taken an 'I don't care' attitude. Take trains. I may be wrong, but it seemed to me that the younger men in the railroad service are not as careful as young men used to be. They rely on warning signals, automatic switches, and the mechanics who repair their engines to do a good job, but you can't shirk personal responsibility when you are driving a locomotive and be safe in doing it."

His words made sense to me. It does seem that there is a careless attitude all about us today. There seems to be quite a general lack of personal pride and responsibility. A sort of universal feeling of "I don't care." You go into a store to make a purchase, and the clerks don't seem to care whether you buy or not. Their attitude says, "take it or leave it." They know they will get their pay at the end of the week anyway, whether you buy or not. And who cares about the boss? It even seems that the boss doesn't care either at times.

An automobile mechanic is allowed so much time for a certain type of job. The garage will charge you a certain fixed sum for a certain repair job, and there, it seems, all willing responsibility ends. If the car starts kicking up when you take it out on the road, bring it back to the garage and you'll have a towing charge plus a new repair bill. If the car doesn't run, that isn't their fault. And the average garage owner will look daggers at you if you complain that his work was not good.

Hire a painter to paint your house, go over it afterwards, and you will generally find skips and poorly painted surfaces all over the building.

Take a watch to a jeweler for repairs and likely as not you will have to take it back again in a couple of weeks to have something more done that could have been done inexpensively and conveniently during the first repair job.

Perhaps it is the war, the perpetual state of uncertainty about everything that makes us careless: perhaps it is just that people don't care for one another as they did when they had to depend on one another to live: perhaps they are becoming too impersonal, too self centered; perhaps labor unions have something to do with it, or maybe it is management's fault. The instances of indifference or carelessness I cited above are not peculiar to those services alone. It is a universal thing, extending into all phases of life with which I am familiar. But why, why?

USSR invites public to visit 'The Land of Freedom'

Last week Paddock Publications published the first of two parts of the experiences an Arlington Heights high school teacher, Clifford J. Gallant, is having in Paris, France. Gallant is on a year's leave of absence from Arlington high and is teaching English in a junior high school for boys near Paris.)

PART II

"When the visitor attends the cinema or the theatre in Paris he too learns a great deal by the experience itself. Tipping throughout Europe is perhaps one of the most bothersome of 'necessary musts,' and even the usherette who leads you to your seat in a well lighted theatre must receive her due. After the showing of the newsreels, selected shorts, etc., it is customary in France for the curtain to close for a 15 minute intermission, during which time the usherettes reappear to plague the clientele with their cries of, 'Demandz Esquimau Gervais, chocolates, carmels!'

"AGAIN WHEN a French actor, artist or musician, goes to the U. S. to appear before the theatre-going public for the first time, he or she may be received with enthusiastic whistlings and loud stamping of feet, one of the lesser approved means by which to manifest audience approval and appeal for a performance. The artist, however celebrated, would probably make his curtain calls considering himself a complete failure in America because he has been, if he can judge by like behavior of his compatriots —in his homeland the public whistles so vigorously to show disapproval for an inferior performance, and the French can be exacting.

"Any visitor in Europe can recount, I am sure, numerous personal experiences and make many comparisons, for it is in that sense that travel and living abroad with other peoples whose past is different from our own that one can fully realize the importance and the necessity for international good will. I cannot help but wonder if in years to come it would be possible for us to read posters such as this one in all countries of the world. It can be seen on billboards throughout Paris, and it is the work of a minority group perhaps—and I translate, 'For your vacation come to the USSR —the land of freedom.' How irionical! Is it the land of freedom? And such propaganda —One cannot visit the country unless he is a party member!

"Yes, tourists from the world over visit Paris to enjoy all of her wonders: the left and right banks and its monuments, museums, and parks; its theatrical and musical activities; its culture in general. Speaking of monuments, the most inspirational, I think, is the huge symbolic Arc de Triomphe rising on the western slopes, open to the skies on all sides. Strollers on the ChampsElysees can watch the sun sink beneath the horizon, framed in the archway. It was built to commemorate the glory of Napoleon's Grande Armie, and has since taken on fresh beauty, for it now shelters the Unknown Soldier's tomb.

"THE ARCH of Triumph is not only the most ornamental monument of Paris, but also the most moving. Set in the heart of the fashionable quarter, on the route that leads perpetual streams of swift-moving cars toward the peaceful groves of the Bois de Boulogne, it reminds the carefree crowd—for whom life is wreathed in smiles—that all this joy and beauty is not won without sacrifice. The motherland, grieving for her lost sons, begs her remaining children to spare a grateful thought for those who paid the price of freedom, and so fan the flame of memory beneath the triumphal arch.

"Yes, Paris and all of France, has been literally overflowing this summer with tourists. Even a short stay in this charming capital provides each one with ample opportunity to observe, study and compare its customs with those in his own country, and enable him to envision a universe where "Liberte, Egalite, Fraternite' might some day be a realistic phenomenon practised by all peoples universally."

New Type Bulletin Board

EDUCATORS say that a bulletin board in a child's room is a tool for learning. For that matter, a bulletin board is a great convenience in the kitchen, the office and the entry hall. There are numerous places on the farm for using one effectively, such as in the hen house and dairy barn to tally egg and milk production.

The newest form of bulletin board is a piece of Masonite Presdwood, simply cut to the desired size. This is different from most bulletin boards because you don't use thumbtacks to attach clippings, pictures and the like. You use scotch tape.

Keep a roll of scotch tape handy. The tabs used to attach items to the Presdwood can be used time and again.

Your new-type bulletin board can be suspended like a picture, with the wire attached through holes drilled in the top corners, or it can be attached directly to the wall with screws directed into the studs. Another convenient location is the back of a door.

Southern Guerillas action delay trip home by men on furlough

This is the second installment of the diary kept by Sgt. Lamb. It started last week with the attack on Atlanta. The diary of his first 18 months service was lost with his knapsack when his company was driven from their positions by the rebels. The first entries in the diary being published in this department appeared in last week's edition. They will continue in serial form. Concluding installment will tell of his discharge in the spring of 1865.

The diary publication will be interrupted next week when Sgt. Lamb's story of the burning of Atlanta and Sherman's March to the Sea will appear.

HOMEWARD BOUND
Sept. 25, 1864

Having obtained a short furlough, I left Atlanta at 4 a. m. on top of the cars. The cars were filled with refugees, and General Sherman had given them transportation northward.

At Marietta we were obliged to stop over all day on account of guerillas destroying a train of cars and the road north of us. I drew ration for our furlough squad. The soldiers' home has been moved to Atlanta.

Left Marietta in the evening, passing Kenesaw and the grand Altoona range, which was very imposing after dark. We had a very perilous journey. We were on a road infested with guerillas and the cars and track were very poor.

To add to the dangers we had a drunken railroad crew. There were plenty of officers and soldiers aboard, but all were so filled with anxious thoughts of home that there was no order forbidding the cars running at full speed.

At Atlanta the corpse of a woman had been placed on board in a rough coffin. Sometime during the night, some of the drunken crew, wanting to change its location, opened the side door of the box car and shoved the coffin in among the women and children.

Our night of darkness was made more hideous by the screams and screeches of the terrified southerners, and they were not quieted by drunken profanity. On we sped all that dreadful night, passing Ashworth, Altoona, Cartersville and the tunnels to Chattanooga.

CHATTANOOGA
Sunday, Oct. 2, 1864

A whole week we have been waiting in this dirty, filthy place, hardly venturing off the top of the cars for fear of missing the first train. Still our furloughs are going on. None but a soldier knows how to wait and watch.

I could find no church meeting in town today. Read my testament and the Independent some. After dinner I strolled over the military works forts, took a bath and returned to the cars.

The weather has been very bad and rainy and we are nearly sick staying here. No train has been allowed to go north except those with armed soldiers.

When we saw a train move at 6 p. m. we boarded the top although we had to jam ourselves into a very small compass. We were on the road to our homes which we had not visited in two years. We do not heed the crowded "upper story" or the cold drenching rain which pours its cold sleet on us at night. We wrap our blankets around us and try to sleep on the road to Nashville.

There are many costly residences and fine churches which will not be burned, as the intent of our army is only to prevent its use again for military purposes.

It is the finest city I have ever seen in the South and is a healthy and desirable place to live. If I ever return to the South after the war I will pitch my tent in Atlanta.

Chaplain Harwood called a meeting in the vacant Baptist church and organized a regimental church society of all denominations. Some fifty men joined by signing their names and place of residence when at home. He preached a good sermon and told us it might be many months before we could again worship God in a house.

ON THE MARCH THROUGH GEORGIA
Sunday, Nov. 20, 1864

Gen. Sherman commenced his grand March to the Sea on the 15th. We move rapidly and have already marched two whole nights, catching a little sleep beside the roads when the wagons are compelled to stop because of bad roads.

We march on four different roads through the country, 60 miles wide, which is thoroughly devastated by our army. We have very little government rations and we have to depend almost entirely upon the enemy's country, which abounds in all of the luxuries of this most fertile state of Georgia.

Each soldier is expected to carry his own provisions and cook the same. In my mess of four we have a native mulatto boy who cooks for us and leads the pack mule and gathers forage for us.

Having no direct communication with headquarters, we make the best of circumstances and the troops usually enjoy themselves in the absence of the enemy.

Today we marched six miles. A forage party was sent out and a quantity of meal, molasses, poultry, and pigs were brought in. The weather is cold and the wind blows hard; also flurries of snow.

NEAR OCONEE
Sunday, Nov. 27, 1864

Crossed the Oconee river on pontoons. The rivers and streams are very numerous. The bridges, many of them fine structures, are all burned by the rebels to retard our march.

Poor fools. It only takes Gen. Sherman's army two hours to build a bridge and cross the biggest river there is in the Confederacy.

Our regiment is guarding the pontoon train, which is a number of frames of boats, fitted to wagon wheels, to be covered with canvas and launched into a stream and covered with planks for a bridge.

IN LA CROSSE, WIS.
Sunday, Oct. 9, 1864

I went into a church for the first time in ten months. Friends in La Crosse were glad to see me and to learn I had returned from the war.

(Note—Diary notes covering Sundays, Oct 16, 23 and 30 tell of church services attended and visits with relatives and friends.)

CHATTANOOGA, TENN.
Sunday, Nov. 6, 1864

Arrived at Chattanooga with 100 drafted men from Camp Randall, Wis., for the 25th regiment. They were in my charge.

I reported to Gen. Steedman and was directed to go into the convalescent camp, which meant to pitch tents in the muddy field back of the town. The weather is cold and rainy and the new soldiers complain.

I drew 101 shelter tents and we made a regular camp and went to cooking. The boys soon learned to gather sticks and weeds for fuel and for making beds.

I had plenty of business answering questions about war. We were ordered to remain here until we obtained arms and accoutrements. But at midnight an order arrived directing us to strike tents and be ready to move at a moment's notice.

ATLANTA, GA.
Sunday, Nov. 13, 1864

We are in camp in the front yard of a very wealthy residence which overlooks the city. This fine city is depopulated and in a few days the town will be weeping in ashes.

The railroad and depots are already destroyed and burned.

EDITORIALLY

Liquor and Sex

The Illinois Press Association, meeting at Decatur next week, will discuss at one session newspaper ethics regarding the publication of police, sex, divorce and crime stories.

Paddock Publications have always played down such stories. Divorce and sex stories are not touched and the teen-ager who happens to get into trouble is given every possible break.

However, the editor feels that he would be derelict in his duty if he did not draw to the attention of parents of this area two incidents that the local police have recently handled with the utmost delicacy, but which would not have happened if the parents of the boys and girls involved had given their children proper supervision.

CASE NO. 1:

The Readers Digest carried an article this month which stated that two cocktails can seriously affect the driving ability of an autoist.

We do not know how many cocktails were taken by a Palatine boy last Saturday night at a party held in Roselle, following the Palatine-Wauconda football game, but we do know that the young man who did the drinking, when returning home alone, wrecked his father's car about 2 a. m.

The father blames the Arlington Heights liquor dealer who sold the beer and the wine. He has been arrested and the trial has been postponed until October 2.

In this case, the only persons who suffered, were the boy and the father through the loss of the car.

CASE NO. 2:

Includes a dozen boys and girls who were members of the "Facts of Life Club," holding meetings in a barn.

The expose came when the mother of a 15-year-old girl took her daughter to a physician.

The local police handled the case efficiently. One boy, 17 years old, is now in the navy, but there is another who is too young for any branch of the armed forces.

Confessions in the presence of parents have been given by all members of the so-called club, which had been in existence nearly two years.

Judge Neumann will give the first answer to Case No. 1 next Tuesday.

Case No. 2? If the publication of this editorial prevents a similar happening, it has served its purpose.

4-Way Stop Signs Needed

A number of bad traffic accidents have occurred recently at two northwest suburban traffic intersections and we propose that highway traffic engineers take cognizance of the fact.

We are referring to the dangerous intersections of Rt. 58 and Rt. 83, and Rt. 58 and State rd.

Police investigating the accidents usually find that the direct cause of the mishaps stems from the inadequate stop signs at these intersections.

Traffic on State rd. and Rt. 83 must stop when they approach the Rt. 58 highway. Traffic on Rt. 58 continues along at high speeds.

Motorists who fail to see the stop signs have no chance. Motorists who stop and then start slowly through the intersections are faced with meeting the speeding autos traveling on Rt. 58.

We propose that both intersections be made a four-way stop intersection. This would be a start towards the elimination of some traffic accidents in this area.

USSR invites public to visit 'The Land of Freedom'

Last week Paddock Publications published the first of two parts of the experiences an Arlington Heights high school teacher, Clifford J. Gallant, is having in Paris, France. Gallant is on a year's leave of absence from Arlington high and is teaching English in a junior high school for boys near Paris.)

PART II

"When the visitor attends the cinema or the theatre in Paris he too learns a great deal by the experience itself. Tipping throughout Europe is perhaps one of the most bothersome of 'necessary musts,' and even the usherette who leads you to your seat in a well lighted theatre must receive her due. After the showing of the newsreels, selected shorts, etc., it is customary in France for the curtain to close for a 15 minute intermission, during which time the usherettes reappear to plague the clientele with their cries of, 'Demandz Esquimau Gervais, chocolates, carmels!'

"AGAIN WHEN a French actor, artist or musician, goes to the U. S. to appear before the theatre-going public for the first time, he or she may be received with enthusiastic whistlings and loud stamping of feet, one of the lesser approved means by which to manifest audience approval and appeal for a performance. The artist, however celebrated, would probably make his curtain calls considering himself a complete failure in America because he has been, if he can judge by like behavior of his compatriots —in his homeland the public whistles so vigorously to show disapproval for an inferior performance, and the French can be exacting.

"Any visitor in Europe can recount, I am sure, numerous personal experiences and make many comparisons, for it is in that sense that travel and living abroad with other peoples whose past is different from our own that one can fully realize the importance and the necessity for international good will. I cannot help but wonder if in years to come it would be possible for us to read posters such as this one in all countries of the world. It can be seen on billboards throughout Paris, and it is the work of a minority group perhaps—and I translate, 'For your vacation come to the USSR —the land of freedom.' How irionical! Is it the land of freedom? And such propaganda —One cannot visit the country unless he is a party member!

"Yes, tourists from the world over visit Paris to enjoy all of her wonders: the left and right banks and its monuments, museums, and parks; its theatrical and musical activities; its culture in general. Speaking of monuments, the most inspirational, I think, is the huge symbolic Arc de Triomphe rising on the western slopes, open to the skies on all sides. Strollers on the ChampsElysees can watch the sun sink beneath the horizon, framed in the archway. It was built to commemorate the glory of Napoleon's Grande Armie, and has since taken on fresh beauty, for it now shelters the Unknown Soldier's tomb.

"THE ARCH of Triumph is not only the most ornamental monument of Paris, but also the most moving. Set in the heart of the fashionable quarter, on the route that leads perpetual streams of swift-moving cars toward the peaceful groves of the Bois de Boulogne, it reminds the carefree crowd—for whom life is wreathed in smiles—that all this joy and beauty is not won without sacrifice. The motherland, grieving for her lost sons, begs her remaining children to spare a grateful thought for those who paid the price of freedom, and so fan the flame of memory beneath the triumphal arch.

"Yes, Paris and all of France, has been literally overflowing this summer with tourists. Even a short stay in this charming capital provides each one with ample opportunity to observe, study and compare its customs with those in his own country, and enable him to envision a universe where "Liberte, Egalite, Fraternite' might some day be a realistic phenomenon practised by all peoples universally."

New Type Bulletin Board

EDUCATORS say that a bulletin board in a child's room is a tool for learning. For that matter, a bulletin board is a great convenience in the kitchen, the office and the entry hall. There are numerous places on the farm for using one effectively, such as in the hen house and dairy barn to tally egg and milk production.

The newest form of bulletin board is a piece of Masonite Presdwood, simply cut to the desired size. This is different from most bulletin boards because you don't use thumbtacks to attach clippings, pictures and the like. You use scotch tape.

Keep a roll of scotch tape handy. The tabs used to attach items to the Presdwood can be used time and again.

Your new-type bulletin board can be suspended like a picture, with the wire attached through holes drilled in the top corners, or it can be attached directly to the wall with screws directed into the studs. Another convenient location is the back of a door.

THE FENCE POST

Letters to the Fence Post should be short and concise. All letters must be signed, though name will be withheld if desired. Address Fence Post, Paddock Publications, Inc., Arlington Heights, Ill.

A good deal

Much has been said the past few weeks, of row-housing and tin chimneys by the Lorraine Homes, Inc. For the past year and a half there has been a building program going on in the northeast part of Arlington from the 800 block north on Beverley Lane, Hickory and Douglas aves.

Here every other house is of the same construction and every one has a tin chimney and are being put up by the dozens. Surely one builder is not any better than another. This is real row-housing and of the poorest construction anywhere; and not a word has been said.

I think it's high time our village officials take a ride for themselves and see what's going on in all parts of Arlington Heights.

Where is our village inspector? Or do we have one? Or is it because two of our trusted village trustees are silent partners of this building firm?

Lorraine homes

The Fence Post is in receipt of a letter signed "Lorraine Home Owner," that was mailed two weeks ago, but mislaid in the publication office.

It was so vitriolic that a reporter was sent out to learn how many Lorraine owners felt the same as the writer. The reporter found their thoughts in the matter so contrary to the Fence Post letter that publishers of this paper question the authenticity of the letter and consquently it is not being published.

Fine paper

Enclosed find check for my subscription renewal for the Cook County Herald for one year, taking advantage of your offer before the advance in price. Tour of Galena homes slated for this week

It is truly an adventure into the past to visit Galena, Illinois, with its many public historic buildings and its album-like way of life. This year, Saturday and Sunday, September 29 and 30, nine beautiful privately-owned homes will be open to the public for a tour sponsored by the Guild of the First Presbyterian church, itself the oldest church in Illinois still being used regularly for worship services.

In 1826 the town was called Galena, a name associated with its lead mining ventures that put money in the pockets of explorers and exploiters, and served to catapult the town into the most important in the Old Northwest Territory. Mining wealth helped to build the grand mansions that top its steep bluffs while tucked here and there on the hillsides at every conceivable angle, are old stone and weathered rosebrick homes that artists strive to capture on canvas.

Many persons have admired the exteriors of these handsome houses; the interiors that feature an original Victorian Parlor (1870); the Dowling Mansion (1847); the Chetlain Homestead (1832); the Elihu Washburne Home; Double Miner's Cottage (1838); The Old Rock House (1840); Galena's hostess for 91 years, Miss Anna Felt's home; Grant's home before the Civil War; and an outstanding example of the Mid-west's own, Steamboat Gothic Architecture.

Inside these homes are a treasure-trove of antiques collected and in daily use during the last one hundred twenty-five years and it is these heirlooms that will be proudly displayed by their owners during Galena's tour of historic Galena homes.

In the future

Two new protective coatings for metal surfaces will soon appear on the market. One is designed for such things as chromeplated automobile trimmings and the other for silver, gold, brass, copper and others, but both are applied easily by brushing on . . . A new bobby pin for the gals is designed to prevent chipped teeth, broken finger nails and scratched scalps. It's tipped with synthetic rubber . . . Now they're putting household lubricating oil in collapsible tubes, with a spout that dispenses drops or a steady stream . . . An Illinois firm has come up with a tubular guide which can be attached to supermarket shopping baskets, lists all the items in the store and tells where to find them.

Libertyville park fund now at $25,000

The Adler park, Libertyville's fast developing recreational park, fund-raising campaign is in the home stretch.

Directors of the park project revealed that an anonymous donor has agreed to make a $5,000 cash contribution to the fund when the community raises $30,000.

Since the Adler thermometer now stands at $25,850, only $4,150 more must be gathered by public donations before the 1951 goal of $35,000 is reached.

Illinois licenses to be blue on orange

Secretary of State Edward J. Barrett announced that the color combination of the 1952 Illinois license plate will feature midnight blue figures against an orange background.

Secretary Barrett said that based on 1951 figures he anticipates the sale of approximately 2,500,000 passenger car and about 500,000 truck and miscellaneous plates in 1952.

Weekly Recipe

One of our most popular combinations during the fall months is that of cider and doughnuts. Use butter cream (soured cream) in making your doughnuts, because it gives a flavor you will appreciate. Here is your recipe —buy some fresh cider—call in the neighbors — and enjoy the glory of these wonderful evenings.

Doughnuts

½ cup sugar
¼ cup butter cream (soured cream)
1 tsp. baking powder
2 tbsp. butter
½ tsp. salt
2 eggs
2 cups all purpose flour
½ tsp. nutmeg vanilla
½ tsp. soda dissolved in 1 tbsp. water

Method: Cream butter and sugar—add eggs—add soda mixture to butter cream. Sift dry ingredients; add alternately with butter cream mixture to first mixture. Chill.

Roll dough 3-8" thick — cut with doughnut cutter — fry in vegetable oil heated to 375 degrees. Drain on brown paper.

Variations for serving

1. Roll in powdered sugar.
2. Roll in mixture of cinnamon and sugar (2 tsp. cinnamon to ½ cup sugar).
3. Top with nuts and maraschino cherries.
4. Cut in half and fill with custard and top with meringue.
5. Top with hot fudge sauce.
6. Fill with strawberries and serve with cream.

THE MAILMAN'S CORNER

BY LELAND ELLIS TRUXELL

I was talking to an engineer with 40 years' service the other day, and we were talking about the increased number of train and auto accidents.

"You know," he said slowly. "I think the trouble lies in the fact that the whole world seems to have taken an 'I don't care' attitude. Take trains. I may be wrong, but it seemed to me that the younger men in the railroad service are not as careful as young men used to be. They rely on warning signals, automatic switches, and the mechanics who repair their engines to do a good job, but you can't shirk personal responsibility when you are driving a locomotive and be safe in doing it."

His words made sense to me. It does seem that there is a careless attitude all about us today. There seems to be quite a general lack of personal pride and responsibility. A sort of universal feeling of "I don't care." You go into a store to make a purchase, and the clerks don't seem to care whether you buy or not. Their attitude says, "take it or leave it." They know they will get their pay at the end of the week anyway, whether you buy or not. And who cares about the boss? It even seems that the boss doesn't care either at times.

An automobile mechanic is allowed so much time for a certain type of job. The garage will charge you a certain fixed sum for a certain repair job, and there, it seems, all willing responsibility ends. If the car starts kicking up when you take it out on the road, bring it back to the garage and you'll have a towing charge plus a new repair bill. If the car doesn't run, that isn't their fault. And the average garage owner will look daggers at you if you complain that his work was not good.

Hire a painter to paint your house, go over it afterwards, and you will generally find skips and poorly painted surfaces all over the building.

Take a watch to a jeweler for repairs and likely as not you will have to take it back again in a couple of weeks to have something more done that could have been done inexpensively and conveniently during the first repair job.

Perhaps it is the war, the perpetual state of uncertainty about everything that makes us careless: perhaps it is just that people don't care for one another as they did when they had to depend on one another to live; perhaps they are becoming too impersonal, too self centered; perhaps labor unions have something to do with it, or maybe it is management's fault. The instances of indifference or carelessness I cited above are not peculiar to those services alone. It is a universal thing, extending into all phases of life with which I am familiar. But why, why?

Large crowd sees farm demonstration

A large crowd turned out to see the waterway demonstration and pasture renovation demonstration on the George Klein farm. Vo-Ag students from Barrington and Arlington Heights schools were present with their instructors.

George Klein remarked that he had pasture only a few weeks in the spring. This improved pasture will give him quality forage throughout the pasture season.

The gully filled with boulders and wire was cleaned out, shaped, and worked according to soil conservation service specifications. It was seeded after fertilizer was applied and a proper seed bed was prepared.

Soil treatment makes 6-1 diff. in hay yields

Second-crop hay yields on two of the Morrow plats on the University of Illinois campus showed a 6-to-1 difference, largely because one plot had received good soil treatment.

L. B. Miller, College of Agriculture soils man, reports today that the untreated plot yielded only one-fifth of a ton of red clover an acre. In comparison, the other plot, which receives manure, lime and phosphate, produced 1¼ tons—six times as much.

Both yields are on an air-dry basis, same as mow-dry basis. And both plots are in a corn-oats-clover rotation.

TOTAL YIELDS for both hay crops this year are 4-10ths of a ton on the untreated plot and 2 3-4 tons on the treated plot. That's almost a 7-to-1 difference in favor of manure, lime and phosphate.

Hay yields on the untreated plot have been dropping off pretty badly in recent years. The lack of lime and phosphate is taking its toll. In fact, Miller says he wouldn't be surprised if there was little or no hay on the untreated plot the next time it grows hay.

Miller adds too that corn yields on the untreated plot in a corn-oats-clover rotation have been dropping sharply in recent years. The cause—just plain starvation for plant foods due to lack of manure, lime and phosphate.

Cows ruined by mastitis

Illinois dairymen are spending thousands of dollars each year to replace cows made unprofitable by mastitis, according to a University of Illinois veterinarian.

Dr. H. S. Bryan says a recent survey shows that most farmers have to replace one-fifth of their herds each year to maintain production. This expense plus the money lost because of lowered production and milk quality amounts to about $7½ million a year in Illinois.

The survey, made in 458 herds containing 7,751 cows, showed that 3,100 (40 per cent) were infected. About 24 per cent of all cows in their first lactation were infected; almost 52 per cent were infected by the time they reached their fifth lactation.

"MOST FIRST-CALF heifers are free of mastitis, but they often become infected through udder injuries, poor sanitation and harmful milking practices," Dr. Bryan says. If left uncontrolled, mastitis cuts years off a cow's productive life.

If you want to get more years of profitable milking from your cows, along with increased production and higher quality milk, learn how mastitis can be whipped. Ask your farm adviser or write to the University of Illinois College of Veterinary Medicine, Urbana, Ill., for information on mastitis control.

Young vegetable growers seeking national awards

Cook county has two candidates for the national junior vegetable growing championship.

The competition is the 11th annual production - marketing contest of the National Junior Vegetable Growers Association, which will be climaxed in December with $6,000 in cash scholarship awards provided by A&P Food Stores going to young farm folk throughout the country.

Mrs. Clara M. Oberg, County Club Agent at St. Paul, Minn., regional NJVGA chairman, announced that Cook county contestants are Donald Linneman, Arlington Heights, and Leroy A. Moellenkamp, Des Plaines.

The winner in 1950 was James McBee of Philippi, W. Va.

Winners are named after the records of growing and marketing activities of each contestant are studied by panels of experts made up of officials of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, college personnel and other experts in the fields of production and marketing.

Times Change: Feed Processing Being Done at Home by Farmers

By IRA MILLER
Farm Electrification Bureau

It doesn't take a lot of money to get out of a heap of work in processing feed on the farm. It does take careful planning though—for such setups must be designed to meet individual farm requirements. But, the time will be well spent, and will pay off in various ways—less handling and lifting, controlled feeding formulas and lower grinding costs.

One large dairyman, we know of, estimated that his processing arrangement practically eliminated lifting and has reduced feed handling to about 25 or 30 hours a year. Prior to revamping this chore, his men spent 500 hours annually in lifting 90 tons of feed by hand. He figures that his new setup saves him about $360 a year in handling costs, and keeps his tractor and farm truck available for other work. Before electric motors took over the feed grinding chore, he did this work with a tractor, using it 100 hours a year. Another 50 hours was charged up annually to using his farm truck in hauling whole grain from various storage buildings.

His setup is larger than would be required on average farms, but can be duplicated on a smaller scale in most places. First, he stores a year's supply of shelled corn and oats—2,000 bushels total—in overhead bins in his dairy barn. A 1-horsepower feed grinder is located on the ground floor below the bins. Adjacent to the grinder, and connected to it by a spout, is a 1-ton mixer, operated by a 5-horsepower motor. In operation, grain flows through a 4-inch pipe from the bins into the grinder and then into the mixer. Because the mixer is large, it holds enough feed for a week. The only hand labor required is in adding supplements to the ground feed.

Overhead bins, a small electric mill and gravity chutes will solve most feed processing problems. If the mill is equipped with a blower, the whole grain (chuted down from overhead bins) can be ground and blown into storage bins. Or, the ground feed can be dropped into a box beneath the grinder. Some farmers drop it directly into a feed cart. A small electrically powered portable elevator will move whole grain into overhead storage bins. Tilt the front end of the wagon up with a hoist, or use a motor-driven wagon unloader to remove the whole grain, and you've put your feed processing chore on a production line basis.

Making patterns fit is a constant source of trouble to all women who sew. Since the perfect figure has yet to appear, patterns always must be adjusted—taken in here, let out there, or altered in some other way to fit.

A California woman who frequently was troubled with pattern adjusting has come up with a solution to the fitting problem. Miss Claudia Walker of San Francisco has developed a basic pattern made of cotton crinoline which makes the adjusting of every tissue pattern an automatic matter before the seamstress begins cutting.

The use of the basic crinoline pattern requires but a few minutes and is said to eliminate fittings of the garment itself. The seven parts of the basic crinoline pattern when fitted together make a guide taken from individual body measurements. The pieces can be put together in about half an hour. Then, with the use of the permanent pattern, all future tissue patterns easily are made to fit.

The crinoline pattern allows for peculiarities of the individual figure, such as hip slant, shoulder set, and armhole size. These measurements are pinfitted, pencil-marked, and trimmed on the crinoline pieces. The resulting basic pattern makes further tape measuring unnecessary and lets the seamstress know automatically what adjustments are necessary in paper patterns before materials are cut. It can also be used as a guide for making knitted garments.

Make sheet metal shields for tractors

University of Illinois agricultural engineers have developed sheet metal shields for tractor wheels so a tractor-mounted spray rig can spray soybean defoliants. Sketches are available free from the College of Agriculture, Urbana, Illinois.

COVER CROPS

University of Illinois tests on planting cover crops between corn rows are in their sixth year this season.

LAND VALUES

Illinois farm land values rose 3 per cent between March and July this year, says a federal agriculture department report.

Ground corn cobs work well for bedding and sure footing here

Ground corn cobs come in mighty handy for dairyman Nels Pederson in Kane county.

A University of Illinois report says Pederson uses ground corn cobs in the driveway between the cows in the barn and also in the gutters. Ground corn cobs absorb liquids very well, they keep the floor from getting slippery, and do an amazingly good job of keeping the cows' tails and flanks clean.

Pederson always has some surplus corn. At shelling time he runs the cobs through the hammermill, and the sawdust-like material is then stored in a small shed near the barn.

Compare egg prices by weight

When you can't decide which eggs are the better buy—pullet or extra-large ones—follow these guides suggested by E. E. Broadbent, poultry marketing specialist, University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

If extra-large eggs (those weighing 27 ounces and over) cost more than one and one-half times pullet eggs of the same grade, the pullet eggs are the better buy.

ANOTHER GUIDE you can use to compare prices is cost per pound. Weight classes according to U. S. Department of Agriculture consumer grades, with the mninmum weight per dozen, are as follows:

Medium	21 oz.
Large	24 oz.
Extra large	27 oz.
Jumbo	30 oz.

Follow those weights to compare prices per pound. Or if eggs aren't graded according to size, ask the storekeeper to weigh them for you, and then do some mental figuring. For example, you'll find that large eggs at 80 cents a dozen cost 53 cents a pound; small eggs selling for 50 cents a dozen are 44 cents a pound.

Be sure to compare eggs of similar quality. Some of them may be graded, but most Illinois eggs are not graded at the present time.

Ewe flock one of the best paying livestock classes

One of the best paying propositions among all classes of livestock in the months ahead will be a flock of ewes.

That's the belief of Dick Carlisle, livestock specialist in the Illinois College of Agriculture.

SAY EWES cost $35, figures Carlisle. With good management, she should produce 8 pounds of wool and 100 pounds of lamb per year. If wool sells at 75 cents a pound, that's $6 return. And if lambs sell at 30 cents a pound, that's $30. Wool and meat together give you $36, or roughly the price you paid for the ewe.

Carlisle says he knows of no other roughage-consuming animal that will pay back its original investment in one year. And you still have the ewe.

THE SPECIALIST cautions, however, that to go into a sheep-breeding program, you must know and like sheep, have good pasture, and be willing to give them extra care at lambing time.

Sheep numbers are at a near-record low right now, while hog and cattle numbers are high. So lambs probably will bring good returns long after cattle prices return more nearly to normal. As for wool prices, they should hold up, since nobody has developed an exact synthetic substitute for wool.

Most cattle and hogs sold in small lots

A University of Illinois study showed that the great bulk of Illinois cattle are sold in lots of five head or less.

The study, covering 4,500 farmers in southern, western, and northwestern Illinois for 1950, showed that from 81 to 90 percent of all farmers in each area sold their cattle in lots of five head or less. These 81 to 90 percent of all shipments included from 31 to 46 per cent of all cattle sold.

THE SAME type of relationship holds for hogs — that a large share of livestock from the three areas is sold in small numbers.

W. J. Wills, livestock marketing specialist, says with this situation, market organizations need to be set up to handle small shipments effectively, both for low marketing costs to farmers and selling livestock for the highest price.

TERMINAL PUBLIC markets were the most important single type of market used by farmers in all three areas for both cattle and hogs.

Wills says in comparing markets, farmers usually consider prices offered as most important. But weighing conditions, accuracy of scales, method of sorting, and differences in amount of shrink are just as important as price.

Large crowd sees farm demonstration

A large crowd turned out to see the waterway demonstration and pasture renovation demonstration on the George Klein farm. Vo-Ag students from Barrington and Arlington Heights schools were present with their instructors.

George Klein remarked that he had pasture only a few weeks in the spring. This improved pasture will give him quality forage throughout the pasture season.

The gully filled with boulders and wire was cleaned out, shaped, and worked according to soil conservation service specifications. It was seeded after fertilizer was applied and a proper seed bed was prepared.

EXPERIENCE

Experience is something a farmer acquires when the opportunity for using it is gone.

Soil treatment makes 6-1 diff. in hay yields

Second-crop hay yields on two of the Morrow plats on the University of Illinois campus showed a 6-to-1 difference, largely because one plot ha received good soil treatment.

L. B. Miller, College of Agriculture soils man, reports today that the untreated plot yielded only one-fifth of a ton of red clover an acre. In comparison, the other plot, which receives manure, lime and phosphate, produced 1¼ tons—six times as much.

Both yields are on an air-dry basis, same as mow-dry basis. And both plots are in a corn-oats-clover rotation.

TOTAL YIELDS for both hay crops this year are 4-10ths of a ton on the untreated plot and 2 3-4 tons on the treated plot. That's almost a 7-to-1 difference in favor of manure, lime and phosphate.

Hay yields on the untreated plot have been dropping off pretty badly in recent years. The lack of lime and phosphate is taking its toll. In fact, Miller says he wouldn't be surprised if there was little or no hay on the untreated plot the next time it grows hay.

Miller adds too that corn yields on the untreated plot in a corn-oats-clover rotation have been dropping sharply in recent years. The cause—just plain starvation for plant foods due to lack of manure, lime and phosphate.

Cows ruined by mastitis

Illinois dairymen are spending thousands of dollars each year to replace cows made unprofitable by mastitis, according to a University of Illinois veterinarian.

Dr. H. S. Bryan says a recent survey shows that most farmers have to replace one-fifth of their herds each year to maintain production. This expense plus the money lost because of lowered production and milk quality amounts to about $7½ million a year in Illinois.

The survey, made in 458 herds containing 7,751 cows, showed that 3,100 (40 per cent) were infected. About 24 per cent of all cows in their first lactation were infected; almost 52 per cent were infected by the time they reached their fifth lactation.

"MOST FIRST-CALF heifers are free of mastitis, but they often become infected through udder injuries, poor sanitation and harmful milking practices," Dr. Bryan says. If left uncontrolled, mastitis cuts years off a cow's productive life.

If you want to get more years of profitable milking from your cows, along with increased production and higher quality milk, learn how mastitis can be whipped. Ask your farm adviser or write to the University of Illinois College of Veterinary Medicine, Urbana, Ill., for information on mastitis control.

Young vegetable growers seeking national awards

Cook county has two candidates for the national junior vegetable growing championship.

The competition is the 11th annual production - marketing contest of the National Junior Vegetable Growers Association, which will be climaxed in December with $6,000 in cash scholarship awards provided by A&P Food Stores going to young farm folk throughout the country.

Mrs. Clara M. Oberg, County Club Agent at St. Paul, Minn., regional NJVGA chairman, announced that Cook county contestants are Donald Linneman, Arlington Heights, and Leroy A. Moellenkamp, Des Plaines.

The winner in 1950 was James McBee of Philippi, W. Va.

Winners are named after the records of growing and marketing activities of each contestant are studied by panels of experts made up of officials of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, college personnel and other experts in the fields of production and marketing.

Record cow

A registered Guernsey cow, Lockshore Prince's Diamond, owned by Gertrude McNaught, Elgin, has completed an official advanced registry record of 17,249 pounds of milk and 801 pounds of butterfat in the 365C day division, starting her record as a 10-year-old.

"Diamond" is the daughter of the outstanding Guernsey sire, Lockshore Crystal Prince that has 77 sons and daughters in the performance register of the American Guernsey cattle club, Peterborough, New Hampshire.

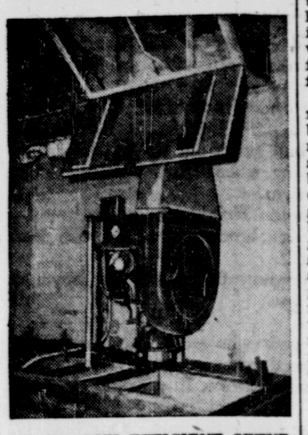
Times Change: Feed Processing Being Done at Home by Farmers

By IRA MILLER
Farm Electrification Bureau

It doesn't take a lot of money to get out of a heap of work in processing feed on the farm. It does take careful planning though—for such setups must be designed to meet individual farm requirements. But, the time will be well spent, and will pay off in various ways—less handling and lifting, controlled feeding formulas and lower grinding costs.



SMALL, BUT EFFICIENT SETUP —whole grain flows from overhead bins into mill and drops into box below.

One large dairyman, we know of, estimated that his processing arrangement practically eliminated lifting and has reduced feed handling to about 25 or 30 hours a year. Prior to revamping this chore, his men spent 500 hours annually in lifting 90 tons of feed by hand. He figures that his new setup saves him about $360 a year in handling costs, and keeps his tractor and farm truck available for other work. Before electric motors took over the feed grinding chore, he did this work with a tractor, using it 100 hours a year. Another 50 hours was charged up annually to using his farm truck in hauling whole grain from various storage buildings.

His setup is larger than would be required on average farms, but can be duplicated on a smaller scale in most places. First, he stores a year's supply of shelled corn and oats—2,000 bushels total—in overhead bins in his dairy barn. A 1-horsepower feed grinder is located on the ground floor below the bins. Adjacent to the grinder, and connected to it by a spout, is a 1-ton mixer, operated by a 5-horsepower motor. In operation, grain flows through a 4-inch pipe from the bins into the grinder and then into the mixer. Because the mixer is large, it holds enough feed for a week. The only hand labor required is in adding supplements to the ground feed.

Overhead bins, a small electric mill and gravity chutes will solve most feed processing problems. If the mill is equipped with a blower, the whole grain (chuted down from overhead bins) can be ground and blown into storage bins. Or, the ground feed can be dropped into a box beneath the grinder. Some farmers drop it directly into a feed cart. A small electrically powered portable elevator will move whole grain into overhead storage bins. Tilt the front end of the wagon up with a hoist, or use a motor-driven wagon unloader to remove the whole grain, and you've put your feed processing chore on a production line basis.

New cloth pattern designed to make sewing easier

Making patterns fit is a constant source of trouble to all women who sew. Since the perfect figure has yet to appear, patterns always must be adjusted—taken in here, let out there, or altered in some other way to fit.

A California woman who frequently was troubled with pattern adjusting has come up with a solution to the fitting problem. Miss Claudia Walker of San Francisco has developed a basic pattern made of cotton crinoline which makes the adjusting of every tissue pattern an automatic matter before the seamstress begins cutting.

The use of the basic crinoline pattern requires but a few minutes and is said to eliminate fittings of the garment itself. The seven parts of the basic crinoline pattern when fitted together make a guide taken from individual body measurements. The pieces can be put together in about half an hour. Then, with the use of the permanent pattern, all future tissue patterns easily are made to fit.

The crinoline pattern allows for peculiarities of the individual figure, such as hip slant, shoulder set, and armhole size. These measurements are pinfitted, pencil-marked, and trimmed on the crinoline pieces. The resulting basic pattern makes further tape measuring unnecessary and lets the seamstress know automatically what adjustments are necessary in paper patterns before materials are cut. It can also be used as a guide for making knitted garments.

Make sheet metal shields for tractors

University of Illinois agricultural engineers have developed sheet metal shields for tractor wheels so a tractor-mounted spray rig can spray soybean defoliants. Sketches are available free from the College of Agriculture, Urbana, Illinois.

COVER CROPS

University of Illinois tests on planting cover crops between corn rows are in their sixth year this season.

LAND VALUES

Illinois farm land values rose 3 per cent between March and July this year, says a federal agriculture department report.

Ground corn cobs work well for bedding and sure footing here

Ground corn cobs come in mighty handy for dairyman Nels Pederson in Kane county.

A University of Illinois report says Pederson uses ground corn cobs in the driveway between the cows in the barn and also in the gutters. Ground corn cobs absorb liquids very well, they keep the floor from getting slippery, and do an amazingly good job of keeping the cows' tails and flanks clean.

Pederson always has some surplus corn. At shelling time he runs the cobs through the hammermill, and the sawdust-like material is then stored in a small shed near the barn.

Compare egg prices by weight

When you can't decide which eggs are the better buy—pullet or extra-large ones—follow these guides suggested by E. E. Broadbent, poultry marketing specialist, University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

If extra-large eggs (those weighing 27 ounces and over) cost more than one and one-half times pullet eggs of the same grade, the pullet eggs are the better buy.

ANOTHER GUIDE you can use to compare prices is cost per pound. Weight classes according to U. S. Department of Agriculture consumer grades, with the mninmum weight per dozen, are as follows:

Small (or pullet)	18 oz.
Medium	21 oz.
Large	24 oz.
Extra large	27 oz.
Jumbo	30 oz.

Follow those weights to compare prices per pound. Or if eggs aren't graded according to size, ask the storekeeper to weigh them for you, and then do some mental figuring. For example, you'll find that large eggs at 80 cents a dozen cost 53 cents a pound; small eggs selling for 50 cents a dozen are 44 cents a pound.

Be sure to compare eggs of similar quality. Some of them may be graded, but most Illinois eggs are not graded at the present time.

Ewe flock one of the best paying livestock classes

One of the best paying propositions among all classes of livestock in the months ahead will be a flock of ewes.

Carlisle says he knows of no other roughage-consuming animal that will pay back its original investment in one year. And you still have the ewe.

THE SPECIALIST cautions, however, that to go into a sheep-breeding program, you must know and like sheep, have good pasture, and be willing to give them extra care at lambing time.

Sheep numbers are at a near-record low right now, while hog and cattle numbers are high. So lambs probably will bring good returns long after cattle prices return more nearly to normal. As for wool prices, they should hold up, since nobody has developed an exact synthetic substitute for wool.

Wills says in comparing markets, farmers usually consider prices offered as most important. But weighing conditions, accuracy of scales, method of sorting, and differences in amount of shrink are just as important as price.

College GIs can expect delays in checks from VA

Veterans planning to train this fall under the GI bill should make certain they have funds of their own to tide them over for at least sixty to ninety days from date of entry into school, since GI subsistence checks may be late in coming, Robert D. Beer, manager of the Chicago veterans administration regional office, said.

The V-A added that it is doing everything possible to keep delays to a minimum. The Chicago regional office has even gone to the extent of suspending, for the time being, those administrative procedures not directly related to the main job of getting veterans into training. But despite all efforts, some delays are bound to occur this year.

IT'S EMPHASIZED that none of the suspended operations will in any way deprive veterans of their rights to GI training. Veteran-students can help matters, Mr. Beer said, by refraining from writing to the regional office about the delays. Replies to letters take time that otherwise could be spent processing subsistence checks.

It was explained that three factors, all coming at the same time, have contributed to the delays in getting subsistence allowance checks to students.

First, because of reductions in the salary appropriation, it has been necessary to reduce the numbers of V-A personnel who process the papers of GI students. The education division alone of the Chicago regional office received a fifty per cent cut in personnel. Second, GI fall enrollments for this area are expected to be heavy—approximately 22,000 to 25,000. Third, the V-A still is working on the last-minute load of applications for training that came in just ahead of the July 25th cutoff date for starting training.

Mr. Beer emphasized that any delay in mailing out subsistence checks will not prevent eligible veterans from starting class on time this Fall. When the checks do arrive, they will include all payments due from the time the veterans started class.

Retail sales for the first 36 weeks of this year totaled $142,337,469, a gain of 13.1% over sales of $125,800,597 for the same weeks of last year.

Modern Etiquette

Q. Is it absolutely required that a person give the reason for declining an invitation?

A. It is not obligatory to do so, but if the person would like to have another invitation sometime in the future, it is better to explain the reason for being unable to accept this time. Otherwise, some hostesses might resent a plain, blunt refusal.

Q. When are bread or rolls served at dinner?

A. As soon as soup is served, the rolls or bread are passed. Most popular container nowadays is a shallow wicker basket that has a fringed napkin laid in it, and several sorts of breads displayed.

Q. To whom does a bride address a letter of thanks for a gift which she has been sent by a married couple?

A. She writes to the wife and thanks both: "Thank you for the lovely present you and Mr. Smith (or Jack) sent me."

Q. What is the correct procedure when a man picks up a glove or handkerchief dropped by a woman who is walking ahead of him?

A. He should pick it up, hurry ahead of her—on no account should he nudge her—offer the article to her and say, "I think you dropped this." She replies, "Thank you," he lifts his hat and turns away.

Q. What does one do with one's knife and fork when passing the plate for a second helping?

A. Leave the knife and fork on the plate when passing it—and, of course, be sure the handles are far enough on not to topple off.

Q. Should the tissue paper be left in the engraved wedding invitations to be mailed?

A. No.

Q. When cutting meat on the dinner plate, should the end of the knife handle be visible?

A. No; it should be concealed in the palm. If the knife is held correctly, this is easy. Never be guilty of pressing the forefinger down on the back of the knife's blade. The hand and all the fingers belong only on the handle of the knife.

Q. Is it proper for the bride-to-be to take part in her wedding rehearsal?

A. This is not a question of propriety. It just isn't done, because traditionally it's supposed to be "bad luck."

Q. Is it correct for a man to ues green ink for his correspondence?

A. Never; his ink should be either black or navy blue.

National Dog Week . . .

Now that the dog editor's annual "vacation" is over and he is back on his bi-weekly beat perhaps it is most appropriate that the first column start during the week set aside throughout the country as National Dog Week.

This year National Dog Week, to be observed September 23 to 29, is the 24th such consecutive annual observance in this country.

General chairman this year is Enzio Pinza, opera, stage, recording and radio star.

Special objectives this year include: (1) Every dog trained in obedience, guard or other useful work; (2) Proper care and feeding of dogs; (3) No stray dogs—every dog on public property must be on a lead under control of a responsible person.

It is interesting to note that this brief period of September has been set aside as one person mentioned for a "Dog Week" in order to honor one of our noblest friends. He will probably know nothing about it, save for an extra pat on the nose, or a more generous bone each day for this short space of time—but we all will know, and no tribute to his faithfulness, loyalty and love can be too great.

The heroism, courage and intelligence of these dumb animals of ours are beyond praise in adequate fashion. Their only thought is to serve their master or friend—and they will do it at all cost—even at the risk, or giving, of their very lives.

Useful dog . . .

Along the line of a dog being useful to his owner the editor thinks back to a few weeks ago when he had occasion one morning to be driving into Chicago.

Just east of the intersection of Euclid and Milwaukee avenues which is east of Arlington Hts. and just north of Niles, your editor saw something which he thought was something from the past, at least around here.

Coming west on Euclid was a large dairy herd of cattle and all under the control of one man and racing around like a jet plane, one small border collie. It was interesting to watch the dog work inasmuch as not too many farmers these days will move herds of cattle down roads well traveled with automobile traffic. But there it was and I don't mind saying that the herd was under perfect control all because of a man and a busy dog that would nip at a stray when it was too far out of line.

Shows on the way . . .

A number of dog shows have taken place during the latter part of the summer and more are on the way. Perhaps coming up the obedience trials in the area hold the general interest what with the German Shepherd obedience trial at Rand Park, Des Plaines on September 30.

Speaking of shows the International Kennel Club show, the 12th annual one, will be held March 29 and 30, of next year.

Dog facts . . .

The first official registry of purebred dogs in the U. S. was made in Chicago in 1876. Also a K-9 Blood Bank has taken form in "Baron" an English Setter owned by Dr. Lyndon Potter, Oneonta, N. Y., who for 7 years has donated 3 pints of blood annually.

Words Often Misused

Do not say, "How did you come to do that?" Say, "How did you happen to do that?"

Do not say, "The company has decided to desert the project." Say, "to abandon the project."

Do not say, "She's a saleslady in a department store." Say, "She's a saleswoman." If saleslady were correct, then we should refer to a salesgentleman.

Word Study

"Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Words for this lesson:

Insipid; wanting in spirit; uninteresting; dull. "When there is no liberty, life grows insipid and loses its glow."

Addicted; given up or over (to a practice). "A good rule to follow in life is not to become too much addicted to any one thing."

Latent; not visible or apparent; hidden. (Pronounce the a as in late). "They did not grasp the latent meaning of his word."

Inflexible; firm in will or purpose. "We admire the inflexible spirit of the man."

To take bids soon for Maine addition

Maine township high school board of education has released specifications and drawings to contractors for bidding purposes for the addition to the high school.

Plans call for the bids to be opened at a public meeting in the school gymnasium Monday, Oct. 22, at 8 p. m.

THE AMOUNT of the bond issue will be determined after the bids have been analyzed. Election on the proposition will be held Saturday, Nov. 17, officials state.

The addition and reorganization of the present building will give the high school 92 classrooms, an adequate cafeteria, physical education facilities and an auditorium. There are 50 classrooms in the present building and one gymnasium. Of the present classrooms, three are basement rooms which have been converted from storage

JUST DOGS

by DAVE TERRILL

National Dog Week . . .

Now that the dog editor's annual "vacation" is over and he is back on his bi-weekly beat perhaps it is most appropriate that the first column start during the week set aside throughout the country as National Dog Week.

This year National Dog Week, to be observed September 23 to 29, is the 24th such consecutive annual observance in this country.

General chairman this year is Enzio Pinza, opera, stage, recording and radio star.

Special objectives this year include: (1) Every dog trained in obedience, guard or other useful work; (2) Proper care and feeding of dogs; (3) No stray dogs—every dog on public property must be on a lead under control of a responsible person.

It is interesting to note that this brief period of September has been set aside as one person mentioned for a "Dog Week" in order to honor one of our noblest friends. He will probably know nothing about it, save for an extra pat on the nose, or a more generous bone each day for this short space of time—but we all will know, and no tribute to his faithfulness, loyalty and love can be too great.

The heroism, courage and intelligence of these dumb animals of ours are beyond praise in adequate fashion. Their only thought is to serve their master or friend—and they will do it at all cost—even at the risk, or giving, of their very lives.

Useful dog . . .

Along the line of a dog being useful to his owner the editor thinks back to a few weeks ago when he had occasion one morning to be driving into Chicago.

Just east of the intersection of Euclid and Milwaukee avenues which is east of Arlington Hts. and just north of Niles, your editor saw something which he thought was something from the past, at least around here.

Coming west on Euclid was a large dairy herd of cattle and all under the control of one man and racing around like a jet plane, one small border collie. It was interesting to watch the dog work inasmuch as not too many farmers these days will move herds of cattle down roads well traveled with automobile traffic. But there it was and I don't mind saying that the herd was under perfect control all because of a man and a busy dog that would nip at a stray when it was too far out of line.

Shows on the way . . .

A number of dog shows have taken place during the latter part of the summer and more are on the way. Perhaps coming up the obedience trials in the area hold the general interest what with the German Shepherd obedience trial at Rand Park, Des Plaines on September 30.

Speaking of shows the International Kennel Club show, the 12th annual one, will be held March 29 and 30, of next year.

Dog facts . . .

The first official registry of purebred dogs in the U. S. was made in Chicago in 1876. Also a K-9 Blood Bank has taken form in "Baron" an English Setter owned by Dr. Lyndon Potter, Oneonta, N. Y., who for 7 years has donated 3 pints of blood annually.

Lessons In . . . . English

Words Often Misused

Do not say, "How did you come to do that?" Say, "How did you happen to do that?"

Do not say, "We expect to be finished with the work inside of a week." Say, "We expect to finish the work within a week."

Do not say, "I shall now fix breakfast." Say, "I shall now prepare breakfast."

Do not say, "The company has decided to desert the project." Say, "to abandon the project."

Do not say, "She's a saleslady in a department store." Say, "She's a saleswoman." If saleslady were correct, then we should refer to a salesgentleman.

Do not say, "I'm glad to see that he takes to studying." Say, "that he likes to study."

Words Often Mispronounced

Homage. Pronounce hom-ij, o as in on (not as in home), i as in ridge (not age).

Jubilee. Accent first syllable, not the third, often heard.

Ignoramus. Pronounce ig-nora-mus, a as in ray (not as in ram), accent third syllable.

Humble. Pronounce first syllable hum, not up.

Pathos. Pronounce pa-thos, a as in pay, o as in on (not as in no), accent first syllable.

Chapeau. Pronounce sha-po, a as in ah unstressed, o as in no, accent second syllable.

Words Often Misspelled

Obeisance; observe the bei, though pronounced bay. Religious, ious; gorgeous, eous. Omission, one m; commission, two m's. Annuity, two n's, anoint, one n. Moat (a ditch); mote (a small particle). The plural of appendix is either appendixes or appendices.

Word Study

"Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Words for this lesson:

Insipid; wanting in spirit; uninteresting; dull. "When there is no liberty, life grows insipid and loses its glow."

Addicted; given up or over (to a practice). "A good rule to follow in life is not to become too much addicted to any one thing."

Latent; not visible or apparent; hidden. (Pronounce the a as in late). "They did not grasp the latent meaning of his word."

Inflexible; firm in will or purpose. "We admire the inflexible spirit of the man."

Pungent; caustic; biting, as of speech. (Pronounce second syllable jent). "He possessed a tart, pungent wit."

Factual; relating to, or containing, facts. "A good reporter writes only straightforward and factual news."

Presenting the Younger Generation

Little sis

The first cherub in today's grouping of the younger set is Karen Ann Kasper, 20 month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Kasper of 302 N. Lincoln lane, Arlington Heights.

Karen has light brown hair, hazel eyes and a friendly nature. "She goes to everyone," declared Mrs. Kasper. Her favorite toy, Teddy bear, faithfully accompanies her at all times.

This youngster is little sis to Billy Wayne, her 6½ year old brother, and granddaughter to Mr. and Mrs. Otto J. Kasper of Chicago and Mrs. Cecelia Suhi of Long Lake, Wis.

Impish and lively

Next is Philip R. Jeuck III, 15 month old son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip R. Jeuck Jr. of 902 N. Beverly st., Arlington Heights. Impish and lively best describe this blond and brown-eyed boy.

"He is into most everything, especially the pots and pans," stated Mrs. Jeuck, "and he loves to tease." Mr. and Mrs. Philip R. Jeuck Sr. of Mt. Prospect and Mr. and Mrs. William F. Kloss of Morton Grove are young Philip's grandparents.

Sweet and feminine

With a sweet smile, Jill Ione Goddard posed for this picture. She is 15 months old, has blonde hair, blue eyes and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Goddard of 1506 W. Vine st., Arlington Heights.

Unusual for a little girl, Jill loves to play with trucks and cars. She also has a favorite rag doll and is busy now learning to talk.

Mrs. Hertha Kringle and Mrs. Alma Goddard of Chicago are her grandparents.

Buddie

Raoul H. Peeters III is known by his less formal title of Buddie. He is the laughing little fellow pictured next. Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Peeters Jr. of 317 W. Park pl., Arlington Heights, are his parents.

Buddie is 9 months old, has brown hair, blue eyes and always has a smile for everyone. "Because of this we call him Smiley," said his mother. He has a big brother, Gerald Wayne, who is 3½ years old.

Mr. and Mrs. Raoul H. Peeters of Arlington Heights and Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Edwards of Edwardsville, Ill., are the grandparents.

She has a collie

These big bright eyes belong to Deborah Ann Rogers, 21 month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Rogers of 418 W. Campbell, Arlington Heights.

Deborah has light brown hair, blue eyes and the ability to get into everything. Her favorite playmate is King, her big collie dog.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Krause of Arlington Heights and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Rogers of St. Paul, Minn., are her grandparents.

He doesn't stand alone

The air raid spotter and those manning military radar screens flash warnings of approaching planes by telephone.

Telephone reports are quickly charted at Filter Centers. Then Air Force interceptor planes are alerted by telephone. Rescue and relief work, too, are directed by telephone.

This is but one type of the many special telephone networks serving government and military forces to help protect our nation.

The telephone system was built to serve America in peace. But it is just as ready to serve in any emergency.

The value of this nationwide telephone network as a 'secret weapon' of defense was never greater than it is today. It must be kept strong. It is vital to a strong America.

To help speed your Long Distance call, please give the operator the out-of-town telephone number. • Telephone lines are busy with national defense.

Presenting the Younger Generation

Little sis

The first cherub in today's grouping of the younger set is Karen Ann Kasper, 20 month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Kasper of 302 N. Lincoln lane, Arlington Heights.

Karen has light brown hair, hazel eyes and a friendly nature. "She goes to everyone," declared Mrs. Kasper. Her favorite toy, Teddy bear, faithfully accompanies her at all times.

This youngster is little sis to Billy Wayne, her 6½ year old brother, and granddaughter to Mr. and Mrs. Otto J. Kasper of Chicago and Mrs. Cecelia Suhi of Long Lake, Wis.

Impish and lively

Next is Philip R. Jeuck III, 15 month old son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip R. Jeuck Jr. of 902 N. Beverly st., Arlington Heights. Impish and lively best describe this blond and brown-eyed boy.

"He is into most everything, especially the pots and pans," stated Mrs. Jeuck, "and he loves to tease." Mr. and Mrs. Philip R. Jeuck Sr. of Mt. Prospect and Mr. and Mrs. William F. Kloss of Morton Grove are young Philip's grandparents.

Sweet and feminine

With a sweet smile, Jill Ione Goddard posed for this picture. She is 15 months old, has blonde hair, blue eyes and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Goddard of 1506 W. Vine st., Arlington Heights.

Unusual for a little girl, Jill loves to play with trucks and cars. She also has a favorite rag doll and is busy now learning to talk.

Mrs. Hertha Kringle and Mrs. Alma Goddard of Chicago are her grandparents.

Buddie

Raoul H. Peeters III is known by his less formal title of Buddie. He is the laughing little fellow pictured next. Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Peeters Jr. of 317 W. Park pl., Arlington Heights, are his parents.

Buddie is 9 months old, has brown hair, blue eyes and always has a smile for everyone. "Because of this we call him Smiley," said his mother. He has a big brother, Gerald Wayne, who is 3½ years old.

Mr. and Mrs. Raoul H. Peeters of Arlington Heights and Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Edwards of Edwardsville, Ill., are the grandparents.

She has a collie

These big bright eyes belong to Deborah Ann Rogers, 21 month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Rogers of 418 W. Campbell, Arlington Heights.

Deborah has light brown hair, blue eyes and the ability to get into everything. Her favorite playmate is King, her big collie dog.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Krause of Arlington Heights and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Rogers of St. Paul, Minn., are her grandparents.

He doesn't stand alone

with him is a 'secret weapon'

The air raid spotter and those manning military radar screens flash warnings of approaching planes by telephone.

Telephone reports are quickly charted at Filter Centers. Then Air Force interceptor planes are alerted by telephone. Rescue and relief work, too, are directed by telephone.

This is but one type of the many special telephone networks serving government and military forces to help protect our nation.

The telephone system was built to serve America in peace. But it is just as ready to serve in any emergency.

The value of this nationwide telephone network as a 'secret weapon' of defense was never greater than it is today. It must be kept strong. It is vital to a strong America.

To help speed your Long Distance call, please give the operator the out-of-town telephone number. • Telephone lines are busy with national defense.
